NATION STIRRED BY DEFENSE AND PEACE PROJECTS

Joint Action Fears Fail to Down.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Mingled peace projects and plans for further strengthening of our national defense held the attention of Washington today.

Proposed Nicaraguan canal shown by dotted lines; arrows point to Gulf of Fonseca and Great and Little Corn Islands, where United States has treaty rights.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull having failed to dispel suspicions that the President is still bent upon "quarantining" Japan and other treaty breaking nations, Mr. Roosevelt is cogitating a gesture of his own, according to information percolating from the White House. It is vaguely described as a "peace move" calculated to reassure the country that his objectives are neither war nor the entanglement of the United States in alliances that might involve the country in war.

Suspicions Fail to Down.

Suspicions that the President is piloting the country into joint action with other nations to police the world would not down. The Vinson amendment to the 800 million dollar navy increase bill limiting our objectives to defense of our country, including our insular possessions, was hailed by the internationalists as proof that the President contemplates British aid, reciprocally given, for defense of the Philippines, if necessary. Otherwise, they argued, we could not protect the Philippines with a navy twice the size of that proposed.

Mr. Hull's disclaimer of foreign entanglements in his letter yesterday was pronounced by the isolationists and the pacifists no explanation of the President's Chicago speech declaring for an international quarantine of law breaking nations. Neither Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], who said the other day that Mr. Hull doesn't know what is going on, nor Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.], to whom the Hull letter was addressed, would comment on the American foreign minister's pronouncement, though indicating they would have something to say later.

Three Nations Will Confer.

The United States, it became known, will confer at once with Great Britain and France on the matter of taking advantage of the escalator clause of the 1936 tripower naval treaty to permit building of battleships exceeding 35,000 tons and cruisers exceeding 8,000 tons. That both the United States and Britain will proceed to build 43,000 ton battleships because of Japan's refusal to give assurance of not exceeding 35,000 ton ships is taken for granted in official circles.

In order to obviate the restrictions on the size of battleships that inhere in the width of the Panama canal locks and to minimize the contingency of interruption of coast to coast communication through destruction of a Panama lock by an enemy the administration is preparing to push the project of a canal through Nicaragua.

Treaty Clears Way for Canal.

Under a treaty between the United States and Nicaragua signed on Aug. 5, 1914, and ratified in 1916, the United States by the payment of $3,000,000 acquired rights with respect to such a canal as follows:

1. The exclusive proprietary rights in perpetuity, necessary and convenient for construction, operation, and maintenance of an interoceanic canal.

2. A ninety-nine year renewable lease on the islands known as Great Corn and Little Corn in the Caribbean sea.

3. The right to establish a naval base at such place in the territory of Nicaragua bordering on the Gulf of Fonseca as the United States government may select.

Another national defense project which is being studied by the army general staf involves the use of enormous bombing planes for the protection of our coasts. Advocates of the

NAZIS AS GUILTY AS BOLSHEVIKS, CARDINAL SAYS

Charges Both Try to Kill Christianity.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—Cardinal Michael Faulhaber addressed Roman Catholics in Munich today at services in honor of the 16th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI. Baron Konstantin von Neurath, former foreign minister and now "president of the privy council on foreign relations," represented the German government at ceremonies in Berlin.

Cardinal Faulhaber's sermon was relayed to three churches. His vast congregations were deeply stirred by his remarks, particularly when he said: "Bolshevik and Nazi ideology have one thing in common—their struggle against the church and their desire to destroy Christianity."

Hits German Press.

"The German press, when trying to deny reports of anti-Christian tendencies of the Nazi party, often claimed that no churches had been destroyed in Germany," the cardinal said. "Nevertheless, all Catholic schools have been closed and parents no longer have control over the raising of their children. Hundreds of teachers have been deprived of their jobs. Is this not as great a crime against the Catholic faith as the burning of church buildings?"

The cardinal's audience murmured its approval when he said: "Our holy father has been accused in the German press of being in league with the bolsheviks, yet every child knows there is no greater contrast between night and day or fire and water than between the teachings of the Catholic church and those of Moscow.

Denies Introducing Politics.

"We are charged with introducing politics into religion, but you know who spreads lies and makes false accusations against German bishops and priests. This has been done to cover the real purpose—the destruction of the Catholic faith and the undermining of Christianity in Germany.

"The church question is being used for political ends. In Germany now every police officer has the right to decide when a sermon can be considered political. We bishops have no such rights."

Upon leaving the church Faulhaber was given a great ovation. Crowds swarmed around his car, extending the Nazi salute and waving hats and handkerchiefs. There was no cheering.

Sees Church War in U. S.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—The organ of the Swastika national church movement, "National Church," today prophesies that the United States government will soon find itself at war with American churches. It says churches in America must be taught to obey and that their supposedly exaggerated independence is a threat to good government.

The article is an answer to the praise of the American system of religious liberty attributed to Bishop August Marahrens and other German Protestant leaders who visited the United States for the Lutheran congress last spring.

"This [freedom] appears to represent Cavour's famous formula, 'A free church, a free state,' but in practice works differently and is a major threat to the state," the article says. "This separation of church and state really gives churches a prvileged independence which could hardly be greater.

Visions State Victory.

"It is only in state schools that the state does not allow the church to enter. Sooner or later a conflict with the churches is unavoidable and it is this exclusion of the church from the schools which will probably guarantee the victory of the state.

"Naturally separation of the church and state in the United States is not based on any principle but is merely a patched up compromise made necessary by the fact that America is a 'pot full of all manner of races and beliefs.'"

A protest was read this morning from the pulpit of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller's church at Dahlem against reports circulated here that he had quarreled with his attorneys. A spokesman for the Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] brotherhood council announced that Niemoeller, who is on trial before a secret Nazi court, has exactly the same opinion of his

POOCHES WALLY USED TO LEAD WIN BOUT WITH FRENCH CUSTOMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANNES, France, Feb. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers, who arrived today aboard the Italian steamer Conte di Savoia, were delayed by the French customs authorities for an hour on account of the two Aberdeen terriers, Moka and Jock, which the duchess of Windsor used to take walking.

Customs officials were skeptical when Mrs. Rogers claimed the dogs were born in France, but the manager of the Italian Steamship Lines intervened and finally convinced them that the dogs were the much publicized pooches formerly seen with the duchess of Windsor. The officials were so pleased at making the acquaintance of the celebrated hounds that they passed all of the Rogers' thirty-eight pieces of baggage without examining them.

Rogers denied reports that he has arranged an American trip later this year for the duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII. of England, and his duchess.

FIND RARE BIRDS, BUT NO GOLD ON PIRATES' ISLAND

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Some rare cuckoos and crustaceans, but nary a doubloon, is the latest report from the world famed Cocos Island. That is the place, 500 miles southwest of the Panama canal, where pirates and buccaneers of old were reported to have buried 200 million dollars in loot from the Spanish Main.

The G. Allan Hancock scientific expedition reports in dispatches from equatorial Pacific waters that there is plenty of evidence of recent and intensive diggings for the legendary treasure, but pirate doubloons and pieces of eight were not sought by the scientists aboard the exploration cruiser Velero III.

Granville Ashcraft, ornithologist of the University of California, looks upon four rare Cocos cuckoos with as much acstasy as an adventurer would hug an old ironbound chest. Ashcraft says only four of the exotic colored specimens have been taken before.

Goes to School at 80 to Brush Up on Mathematics

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 13.—Conrad Moeller, 80 years old, was revealed today as the oldest student in the Paterson school system. He is studying trigonometry and algebra in the WPA sponsored adult education evening school of the Central High school and attends classes five nights a week. "Going to school gives me a nice, regular life," Moeller says. He has two daughters and five grandchildren.

U. S. Tars Save Many as Ferry Sinks; Five Die

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Five persons were drowned today and 24 were unaccounted for after scores of passengers, rushing eagerly to the rail to witness the departure of the United States cruiser Louisville, capsized the ferry boat Rodney in Sydney harbor.

Sydney, Australia [indicated by arrow], where ferry boat upset.

Police credited the heroism of members of the Louisville's crew with averting a greater disaster for the 150 ferryboat passengers. The Rodney heeled over and sank in 72 feet of water, pitching scores of men, women, and children into the water and trapping others inside the cabins.

Sees Boat List.

Capt. R. W. Mathewson of the Louisville saw the Rodney's dangerous list and ordered the Louisville to slow down so its wash would not add to the danger.

"As she rounded our stern," Capt. Mathewson related, "passengers rushed to the side of the boat. It heeled, spilling people into the water."

An officer of the cruiser leaped overboard and swam to the sinking boat. He broke a cabin window and rescued a woman caught within. Other Americans praised for their heroism included L. A. Water, seaman first class; Lieut. George K. Huff, and Seaman Tuscin Briley.

Seamen Rescue Many.

The Louisville anchored immediately and lowered every boat to assist in picking up the screaming men, women, and children. Some of the Louisville seamen leaped into the water to support the victims until boats could reach them.

Sixty-five of those picked up were taken to hospitals and the others were treated by ambulance crews.

The Louisville then continued on toward Melbourne, the next stop on her visit to Australia's Sesquicentenial celebration.

Mercury Goes to 70; Cherry Trees Bloom in Indiana

Rockport, Ind., Feb. 13. — (AP) — Cherry trees in Dalton Hayden's yard here bloomed today. Pussy willows, forsythia, and jasmine also were in bloom. The temperature went to 70.

ESKIMOS WIN RIGHT TO MARRY; REGISTER WHEN AGENT ARRIVES

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Alaska law requires that Eskimo marriages be registered with a United States commissioner. But there is no resident commissioner in the remote Aleutian Island settlements between Alaska and Siberia. Commander F. A. Zeusler, who arrived here today with the coast guard cutter Northland, said he found the Eskimos furious on his last visit to these islands because a white school teacher had insisted that couples who wanted to get married must await the arrival of Commander Zeusler, who is ex-officio commissioner.

Commander Zeusler ruled in favor of the natives. Now they may marry—officially—at any time by registering with the tribal council and reregistering when the commissioner arrives.

DOWDY, ARE WE! CO-EDS STRIKE BACK AT MALES

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Aroused because some of the men students have criticized as dowdy the dress of women students at Western State Teachers college, the co-eds caused to be posted on the buletin board some counter criticisms of the men. Among the co-eds' suggestions were:

1. Shave. Why increase blue Monday with a blue beard?
2. Wash your neck daily.
3. Wear a shirt under your sweater and have the sweater cleaned occasionally.
4. Press your trousers so they will look less like burlap sacks.
5. Carry a hankerchief.

Plane Ride's Tame Sport; Su-Lin's Playmate Naps

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Diana, nicknamed Mei Mei, the second baby giant panda captured by Mrs. W. H. Harkness Jr. of New York, became an air traveler today. Mei Mei, sophisticated after a voyage halfway around the world from northern Asia, was mildly bored with the plane and snuggled down in her basket for a nap on the trip to San Francisco. Su-Lin, the only other baby giant panda in captivity, is in Chicago Brookfield zoo. Diana is to be Su-Lin's playmate.

Chicago Lithuanians will observe the 20th anniversary of their fatherland's independence at a reception Wednesday at the Lithuanian consulate, 100 East Bellevue place. Consul P. Dauzvardis said similar meetings will be held in all parts of the United States.

WPA LABORERS CALL THEIR JOBS WASTED EFFORT

[More experiences of The Tribune reporter who lived in relief shelters and recently has spent his time with WPA workers are told in the following story.]

BY CLIFFORD BLACKBURN.

Along the lower levels of Wacker drive and Michigan avenue 5,000 WPA men have been engaged for nearly five weeks in currying masonry with wire brushes. Eventually they are to limewash the pillars and the ceiling of this trafic artery and so make things brighter for motorists. The work proceeds slowly.

The Tribune reporter, sent to learn by personal contacts the inside story of the WPA workers, discovered that many of the 5,000 are dissatisfied. They think their efforts are being wasted—and they don't like their bosses.

Just Making Motions.

"This," said one young man, "is silly. Just making motions. Why don't they give us something to do?"

He confided he was 25 years old, a high school graduate, married, and the father of three children. He had been on relief rolls only three weeks and still had ambition.

"I used to earn $12 a day selling supplies to the oil well people in Texas," he said. "Selling's my game and I'd like to get back to it. But I haven't clothes good enough and I'll never get 'em on this job. A salesman's front is half his value."

Recently some of the workers rioted and attacked a foreman. It was the opinion of the young man that "the foreman had it coming."

"Some bosses get too smart," he asserted. "It was cold and the men crowded around fires trying to keep warm. The bosses went around throwing water on the fires. I'm surprised there hasn't been more trouble. There are two or three order givers for every gang and also a couple of stool pigeons. What difference does it make if a man goes upstairs [the upper level of the drive] now and then for a little sunshine? You see how this work drags."

Little Chance for Better Jobs.

Asked if he had any prospect of becoming a foreman, the worker said he hadn't; that there was a clique of bosses who had hogged the best paying jobs since the CWA days, and that they stuck together and had political influence.

Another worker, an Irishman of middle age, was scornful of the labor.

"They can't fool me," he said. "I've been at this only a week, but it's not work. I've been working all my life."

A colored youth, sturdy of build but given the difficult task of holding a signal lantern, laughed when he was asked how often he swung the light.

"I have to make my arms move evuh now and then," he said, "so I don't get cold."

The Executive Slant.

The reporter looked up a boss. He found the superintendent of the day shift on Clark street. From this boss,

HOTEL MANAGER BARES THREATS; HUNT FOR KILLER

Courtney Acts to Stop Violence.

Determined efforts to crush labor terrorism behind the murder of Lloyd Rourke, a laundry driver, and put an end to hoodlumism in a hotel strike, became apparent yesterday.

States' Attorney Thomas J. Courtney ordered every available man on his staf to press the hunt for the killer who beat Rourke to death with a club. And he kept three assistant state's attorneys on the investigation of the killing and the intimidation and violence being practiced against hotels outside the loop.

"We will stop this terrorism," Courtney said. "There will be no more murders and no more lawlessness in these strikes."

Gilbert Heads Killer Hunt.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator of the state's attorney's office, is in charge of the search for the killer who crushed Rourke's skull last Thursday. Mal Coghlan, William B. Crawford, and Alexander J. Napoli are heading the battle on terrorism with orders to spare no one in the inquiry into the warfare over the hotel laundry business and the efforts to organize hotel workers.

Two new developments stood out yesterday.

1. R. E. Langford, manager of the Del Prado hotel, told for the first time the story of the terrorizing of mothers with babies who came to a physician in the hotel, threats and violence against a guest who was moving into the hotel, and other hoodlumism of the strike.

2. It was disclosed that Rourke, who delivered laundry to hotels served by the Del Prado laundering plant, was told shortly before the attack, "So! One warning wasn't enough for you!" Police said this information, from a woman witness, was proof that the killing resulted directly from labor trouble and narrowed the search for the slayer.

Aid Sought 3 Times.

Langford charged that he went to the police department three times to beg for more aid than the Hyde Park station could give him, but that he was refused an audience. A telegram he sent shortly before the murder, he said, went unanswered.

Langford's story, supplemented by his father, R. L. Langford, was this:

Hoodlums aiding the pickets around his hotel at 5307 Hyde Park boulevard became so audacious that they halted cars in which mothers were bringing their babies to the specialist there.

Although it was raining, the hoodlums forbade the mothers to drive to the hotel entrance, but forced them to alight half a block away and carry the infants through the rain to the hotel.

Try to Stop Guest.

One guest who tried to move in the day after the strike began was met as he stepped from the car with his radio and luggage.

"Don't move in here," he was told. "The place is on fire [gangland slang for trouble]. It's worth your life to come in."

Terrified, the man left to phone the police. The terrorists followed him into the hotel lobby, repeated their threats, and trailed him out again.

After the guest had moved into the hotel, he found the hoodlums had slashed the tires of his car while he was telephoning.

Both the Langfords said they were roughly handled by men who threatened them near the hotel.

Deliver Poultry in Suitcase.

So effectively did the hoodlums frighten delivery men that police said it was necessary at one time to bring dressed poultry for meals into the hotel in a suitcase.

The manager said coal deliveries were halted, but he bought a carload of coal and had it hauled in by his own men. Taxicab service to the hotel was stopped for a time until police compeled the terrorists to stop interfering.

The witness who heard the killer talk to Rourke is Stella Blocker, a waitress at the Fairfax hotel. It was at the rear of this hotel, at 1369 Hyde Park boulevard, that Rourke was attacked, after he had delivered laundry from the Del Prado plant.

Miss Blocker was standing at the kitchen door talking to Rourke, according to Manager Paul Anderson, when a man lurking in the drive walked up and shouted at the driver. Realizing there was going to be trouble, she shut the door. Police say Rourke was struck immediately afterward. Miss Blocker said the man was large, and wore dark clothes.

Miss Hilda Beglund, a Fairfax linen closet employé, saw two men flee. She said both were large, and dressed in dark clothing, and one carried a baseball bat. They piled into a car and drove off. Miss Rose Eddy, colored, a kitchen employé, confirmed the description of the men.

Langford said he began his visits to the police headquarters after Rourke had complained of curses hurled at him by hoodlums as he was delivering laundry from the Del Prado to the hotels it served. James P. Allman, police commissioner, could not be found yesterday for comment on the manager's charges that police protection was refused him.

Fails to Get Bodyguard.

Langford said he asked Hyde Park police for a bodyguard for Rourke, but they told him they had no authority to supply one. They agreed to have a roving squad keep his truck always in sight, but Langford said Rourke told him he frequently could not see the squad car. Rourke finally engaged a private bodyguard, who was absent on an errand when the slugging took place.

Langford also said the car used by the killer was standing in front of the Fairfax, without license plates, when Rourke drove up to the hotel before the attack. The slugger and his confederate were loitering near.

The squad passed a few seconds after Rourke drove in, Langford said, but did not stop to investigate the lack of license plates or the loiterers.

Capt. Ray Crane of the Hyde Park police, who is at the head of the district investigation, denied this last night. He said no squad passed the hotel around the time of the slugging.

Tells of Business Loss.

Langford told of the business loss the Del Prado has suffered through the terrorism. Two south side hotels, he said, have stopped patronizing the Del Prado laundry after receiving warnings from strangers to take their work elsewhere.

Langford's story of the calling of the strike at the Del Prado involved organizations which the police say have been active in the trouble. One is a crafts council, which is organizing the Miscellaneous Hotel Employés' union under the leadership of William J. Donovan. Donovan last fall succeeded in organizing the inside laundry workers, a task labor leaders had attempted for twenty years.

Another organization is the Laundry and Dyehouse Drivers and Chauffeurs union, one of whose leaders is said by police to be Ray O'Donnell.

Another was the International Laundry Workers' union, whose representative identified himself as C. T. Lindgren.

The six labor business agents arrested at the Del Prado after the attack on Rourke are to be arraigned on disorderly conduct charges today in the Wabash avenue police court. They are not suspects in the murder.

GUARDS SEARCH WOODS FOR MAD KILLER AND PAL

Two Unlock Asylum Cells and Escape.

While 50 guards hunted yesterday in the woods near the Illinois State Hospital for the Criminal Insane near Chester, Ill., investigators were uncovering details of the escape of Paul Harson, a dangerous hammer slayer, and Peter Florek, a feeble-minded burglar, from the institution Saturday night.

It was disclosed that the two men simply walked out of their cell block while 100 inmates were being locked in on both floors of the institution's right wing. Warden Joseph E. Ragen of the state penitentiary, who is also superintendent of state prisons, left Joliet for the hospital to conduct an investigation.

How Escape Was Made.

Harrison and Florek had worked most of the afternoon in the shoe repair shop in another section of the building. At 7 p. m. they and other inmates from other shops were marched into the wing, which is northeast of the administration building. The escaped men's cells were next to each other at the far south end on the first floor, adjacent to an iron door which opens on an outside driveway.

Guard Lloyd Craver began his rounds at the opposite end of the wing, locking each inmate in his cell for the night. At about 7:20 p. m. he reached the cells of Harrison and Florek, but they were gone and the iron door was ajar.

Fashioned Key in Workshop.

Although he admitted the men apparently unlocked the door with a key they fashioned during their work in the shop in the last six months, H. R. Savage, assistant superintendent of the hospital, refused to comment on other details of the surprisingly easy escape.

Among the questions asked by investigators last night were: How was it possible for either Harrison or Florek to conceal the key? Why was only one guard assigned to the floor to lock each cell door? How could either of the men have made the key without being discovered during the last few months?

Three Residences Watched.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, Sergt. Michael Ahern placed police details at three residences where Harrison is known to have lived or had friends.

One of the addresses was furnished to Lieut. Archie Kane of the detective bureau by Harrison's former wife, Margaret, who obtained an annulment of their marriage in 1936. She told Lieut. Kane she had no need of a police guard as she had moved from her former home and Harrison did not know her present address.

A special police guard was assigned to Dr. Harry Hoffman, Criminal court psychiatrist, whom Harrison threatened at the time of his trial. Harrison committed his murders here about six years ago, slaying three men and a woman in a few months.

Several Spectacular Escapes.

Both escaped lunatics were dressed in regulation hospital attire—white shirts and blue denim trousers. Harrison is 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 180 pounds, and is described as a handsome man. He is 35 years old. Florek, who is 22, is 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, and has small scars on his forehead, back, and left thumb.

The hospital has been the scene of a number of spectacular escapes in recent years. Most sensational was that on July 22, 1923, when thirty-eight insane criminals rioted, stabbed four guards, and roamed about the surrounding territory, creating a general panic among the residents. One of the convicts was slain and most of the others were recaptured in a few days.

Other successful or attempted mass escapes occurred on April 5, 1920, May 18 and Nov. 27, 1931, and May 21, 1932.

WPA WORKERS TERM EFFORTS WASTE MOTION

Many Rail at Bosses; Call Jobs Silly.

a short, vigorous man of 50 or so, the reporter got the executive's slant on the work.

"Work? You have to drive 'em to it," he declared. "Two thousand men line up every morning at 8 for shovels, or brooms, or brushes. All they think about is how to get checked in and checked out. They act dumb when you tell 'em anything. They scheme two hours to get away from the job for fifteen minutes. They nearly killed a foreman a few days ago because he tried to keep them on the job.

"Last Friday I went out and made a test check of one gang. Out of thirty men, fifteen were missing. I fired the whole gang. Monday I checked another gang and eight were gone. I fired that whole bunch, too—and they won't get back, not a single one of them."

Hardship on Workers.

The reporter thought, but didn't say so, that this was a hardship on the thirty odd who were fired for the sins of the twenty-three.

In the office of the job timekeeper the investigator was welcomed pleasantly. The headman assigned two of his assistants to look up the James Smith whom he said he was seeking. These men had time to spare, even welcomed the opportunity for a little mental exercise. But they failed to locate James Smith's name, and the investigator departed to talk to more outside men.

Among these he found several who talked about the soft jobs more fortunat men had. One said there was a fellow who did nothing for his money but talk on the radio about what a fine thing WPA was. Another spoke with some bitterness about a safety inspector at $225 a month and his assistant at $150 a month.

Bewail 'Political' Jobs

"They get 5 cents a mile for travel, too," said this informant, who seemed to be well acquainted with the methods of advancement in the organization. "And what do they do? Come around telling us to wear goggles while we chip stone. You can't cause any lost time by accidents. But," he continued bitterly, "you can have holes in your shoes and stand in water till you catch pneumonia, and they don't care whether that's safe or not."

You got jobs like that, the speaker asserted, by being "up in your politics." How else, he said, could a relief man who was never supposed to draw more than $108 a month get $150?

On a job out in the county the investigator heard a strange story of a superintendent's power over the unfortunates who worked under him. The rules of the WPA leave it up to the superintendent to decide when conditions are or are not favorable for work. This man, it was related, crowding as many days as possible into one work week, decreed that the whole succeeding week should be layoff.

Drives to South.

He and his wife then got into their new automobile [not one of the three least expensive makes] and drove away to the sunny southland. The superintendent could do this, the men explained, because he was a Democratic leader and had an income from a private business in addition to his $125 a month WPA salary.

"Nobody has kicked about this," said one of the workers. "We had to skip a whole week's work because he wanted to sun himself in a winter resort, and then make up the time at his convenience."

Now and then a WPA worker stays in a constant state of rebellion against his lot. There is, for example, Henry. He is 40 years old and a world war veteran. He had two years at the University of Illinois. In his field he is highly skilled.

No Job Since 1931.

After the war he had a job at $375 a month, working on designs for airplane motors in New York. He quit it to take a $200 a month job in Chicago, acting as a draftsman for an elevator company. The depression took that away from him in 1931. He has had no job in private industry since. The bungalow which he had purchased, and in which he and his wife and three children lived happily, is gone.

Two years ago, after what he called titanic efforts to find something better, he took a WPA job. He is now a senior draftsman for the Chicago Park district and his pay is $94 a month. It is at that figure because a superintendent wills it; at times it goes back to the old $55 figure, or to $65; it is all a matter of a boss' whim. And Henry is good. He draws and designs plans for park board heating projects and they're carried out as he draws them.

"I feel like I'm still unemployed," he said. "My neighbors no longer respect me. I'm looking, God knows I'm looking, for another job. I spend 39 cents every day off looking for one. I think I'd be the happiest man in the world if I could find a real job at $100 a month in private industry."

DIES AFTER CUTTING WRIST.

Mrs. Clara Waldron, 42 years old, 2822 Wilcox street, died in the Psychopathic hospital yesterday of injuries suffered when she cut her left wrist Jan. 29 while dependent over ill health.

FIND ONE-SIXTH OF N. Y. DEPENDS ON RELIEF NOW

New York, Feb. 13.—[Special.]—One-sixth of the city's population is dependent on some form of relief, a survey indicated today. The public assistance rolls, which now embrace 1,255,000 of New York's 7,470,000 men, women and children, are rising at the rate of 5,000 persons a week, but the total is still 300,000 below the peak of March, 1936.

Included in the compilation are 557,500 persons on home relief, 568,000 who derive their chief support from the wages of 142,000 workers on WPA construction, white collar and art projects; 48,500 recipients of old age assistance, 1,300 blind men and women, 13,000 homeless persons, 23,500 children in institutions and foster-homes, 37,000 children maintained in the homes of parents or relatives through the board of child welfare, and 7,000 CCC enrollees.

COAL MEN HOPE FOR SUSPENSION OF 'CZAR' PRICES

Want Benefits from Court Applied to All.

As a result of the action last Friday of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington, D. C., issuing a series of injunctions against the national bituminous coal commission in its application of minimum coal prices, Illinois and Chicago coal men expressed belief last night that the commission this week will suspend minimum prices generally throughout the country.

The commission must do this, they said, if it wishes to avoid the further charges of discrimination. The injunctions protect only 209 railroads, three coal companies, and the city of Cleveland, and it would be unfair, according to the coal men, not to extend similar protection to the thousands of other coal consumers not included in the injunctions.

Hope to Void Schedule.

Spokesmen for coal merchants, industries, labor, the city of Chicago, and even several operators saw in the injunctions the hope that the minimum prices as now fixed will be permanently voided. Such a development, they held, would be beneficial all over the country, and particularly in the southern Illinois coal fields, already adversely affected. Many of them credited THE TRIBUNE for the success of the fight against the coal commission's unfair price fixing.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, who has carried the fight against the commission into the Washington courts on the plea the new prices would cost the city $150,000 more a year for its fuel, was one of these. Mr. Hodes spoke not as corporation counsel but as president of the Institute of Municipal Law Officers, which is the companion organization of the Conference of Mayors, and whose members include corporation counsels of all major cities—all interested in the coal question.

National Attention Focused.

"THE TRIBUNE," said Mr. Hodes, "aroused and focused national attention on the problem, permitting everybody concerned to see in true perspective the discriminatory acts of the commission. Its articles showed particularly how Illinois was affected, and then carried home the real effects to all of us in Chicago. The city of Chicago's action against the commission is the direct result of the newspaper revelations."

In Mount Olive, Ill., Joseph Ozanic, president of the Progressive Miners of America, said that mine labor was grateful for the exposé of what the coal commission's price fixing would mean.

Real Truth Brought Out.

"As head of the Progressive Miners, with thousands of members," said Mr. Ozanic, "I commend THE TRIBUNE for its extensive investigations that have brought out the real truth about these minimum coal prices. The agitation taken up by the rest of the country, is bound to benefit the entire coal industry."

The expose of the unfair price scale began on Dec. 30 in an article by Philip Hampson showing that under the new minimum prices Illinois, the third largest producer of soft coal, would be unable in many instances to compete with other coal states in its own Illinois markets. Under the new rates Indiana and Kentucky coal would be purchased in Illinois as cheaply as Illinois coal, if not at a lower price.

Effects of Decree Shown.

Other articles showed that stoker coal would be boosted 10 to 60 cents a ton, that Chicago householders would have to pay 8 to 30 per cent more for coal, and the city as a whole, $6,000,000 more annually.

Last month the discrimination against Illinois was felt downstate when hundreds of miners were thrown out of work by curtailment of production, due to outside competition, due again to discriminatory rates. These developments prompted Gov. Horner to institute action against the coal commission. The city did likewise. Both actions are pending. Meantime, Illinois has no representation on the seven man commission, in spite of its leading position in coal production.

For My Valentine

Nancy Ann Bering making a valentine for her mother.

This is the day when white envelopes, so monotonous on 352 days of the year and so irksome on 12 others [first of the month, you know], become mysteriously interesting and invested with a strange power.

It is the day of forgetmenots, fat red hearts, lace frills, and quatrains that contain more ardor than meter. It is, of course, St. Valentine's day.

Although ancient custom decreed that the Valentine should be made by hand and delivered after nightfall, left flat on loved one's doorstep, the modern postal system has done away with much of the hand delivery and modern color printing with the making.

PECTIN HEALING, DOCTORS LEARN IN EXPERIMENTS

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 13.—(AP)—In the pectin which housewives use to make jelly, Indiana university medical experts have discovered a quick healing remedy for wounds. The details were made public here today.

Pectin is a jelly that comes from boiling fruits and vegetables. Apples are rich in it. Dr. Edith Haynes, biologist of Indiana university school of medicine; Miss Grace Washburn, dietitian; Dr. Charles A. Tompkins, and Dr. Matthew Winters, in a series of tests and experiments, discovered pectin to be a powerful germ killer under certain circumstances. In acid areas pectin often wiped out the bacteria. In alkaline environment the jelly completely lost its antiseptic value.

It proved well suited to deep, infected wounds. It was easy to apply. Pectin powder was mixed with water and had no irritating effects. In these wounds it sometimes caused complete disappearance of the dangerous streptococci and also of staphylococci.

CONGRESS PAVING PROJECT WOULD SHUT 31 STREETS

Many Detours on North and South Crossings.

BY HAL FOUST.

Thirty-one north and south streets would be closed at Congress street by the proposal before the city council to buy $17,609,200 worth of real estate and lay $6,694,600 worth of pavement for a new east and west thoroughfare in Congress.

Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, last night defended this aspect of the proposal as approved by a committee of city hall engineers in its report last week to Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

Grade Separations Provided.

"Our committee," said Mr. Gayton, "recognized that it is not desirable to close existing streets and we provided grade separations for the more important north and south pavements. We also recommended that Congress street eventually should become an elevated highway so that all north and south trafic can travel freely under the east and west superhighway.

"No," he responded to a question, "we didn't make any plans for this eventual conversion nor did we estimate the cost for this future development."

Three Other Sites Mentioned.

The committee report gave favorable mention to three other possible sites for a west side elevated highway where there would be no appreciable expense for land and buildings for a right of way. However, the engineers recommended prior construction of a broad parkway in Congress street.

The accident risk demands that cross trafic and pedestrians be curbed as much as possible. Elevated highways eliminate cross movements afoot or awheel. The compromise Congress street design now before the council limits conflicting cross trafic to twelve intersections west of the river, each with stop and go lights furnishing facility of movement but doubtful protection from accidents.

Many Would Be Detoured.

A reference to a survey made by the council trafic committee shows that in closing 31 north and south streets the proposed Congress street superhighway would detour 72,483 vehicles and 45,658 pedestrians daily. These counts were made in 1935. Tallies were taken at each Congress street intersection and presumably they are a fairly accurate picture of today's usage.

The engineers' report recognized that it's human nature for pedestrians to resent being detoured. It recommends a series of overhead foot bridges to cross Congress street at low places in the roller coaster design with its trestle at main north and south streets. Wherever these bridges might be located, the extra walk for pedestrians would be a climb rather than a detour at grade for a few blocks.

Crossing Would Be Barred.

	Motors.	Walkers.
Peoria street	4,930	1,475
Sangamon street	2,580	1,105
Aberdeen street	2,440	1,625
Throop street	1,590	2,510
Laflin street	3,920	2,720
Hoyne avenue	1,495	1,220
Leavitt street	1,444	2,190
Bell avenue	1,152	860
Maplewood avenue	*	*
Washtenaw avenue	5,085	1,137
Francisco avenue	1,935	388
Millard avenue	1,062	856
Karlov avenue	7,128	2,158
Kildare avenue	3,969	2,554
Kilbourn avenue	3,591	1,872
Kolmar avenue	2,790	2,346
Kilpatrick avenue	5,517	1,183
Lavergne avenue	2,016	923
Leamington avenue	216	312
Lockwood avenue	2,304	1,365
Lotus avenue	3,807	3,360
Total	57,981	31,959

Approaches to grade separations at nearby intersections would block pedestrians and vehicles from crossing Congress street in the following ten north and south streets:

	Motors.	Walkers.
Green street	2,080	1,630
Marshfield avenue	990	1,870
Hermitage avenue	441	585
Honore street	1,011	3,590
Winchester avenue	732	1,352
Claremont avenue	1,908	793
Albany avenue	3,438	2,288
Trumbull avenue	1,536	605
St. Louis avenue	882	1,033
Lawndale avenue	1,440	663
Totals	14,502	13,699

There follows a table of the twelve north and south streets, including Canal street and Central avenue, which would cross Congress at grade with stop and go lights. For the pedestrians, it would be a walk of 209 feet involving the crossing of two 20 foot pavements each carrying two way trafic and two 44 foot pavements each carrying one way trafic. The table:

	Motors.	Walkers
Morgan street	3,773	2,140
Loomis strdet	6,450	2,000
Oakley boulevard	2,357	1,950
Campbell avenue	684	703
Rockwell avenue	423	514
California avenue	3,564	3,555
Central Park avenue	2,867	1,076
Keeler avenue	6,885	3,467
Kostner avenue	6,849	2,301
Laramie avenue	1,605	2,034
Central avenue	4,162	4,303
Totals	60,357	31,463

The two express pavements of Congress street, each 44 feet wide, would be carried on trestles over following 20 cross thoroughfares: Clinton street, Jefferson street, Des Plaines street, Halsted street, Racine avenue, Ashland avenue, Paulina street, Wood street, Ogden and Wolcott avenues, Damen avenue, Western avenue, Sacramento boulevard, Kedzie avenue, Homan avnue, Independence boulevard and 5th avenue, Springfield avenue, Pulaski road, and Cicero avenue.

NEW HEART STIMULANT FOUND EFFECTIVE IN CURING MENTALLY ILL

The use of metrozol in shock treatments of the mentally ill has brought about recovery in 58 per cent of the cases on which it was tried at the University of Illinois psychiatric clinic, it was reported yesterday.

Metrozol, formerly known as cardiazol, a heart stimulant, first was used on mental patients in Budapest in 1934. As with insulin, the treatment is known as "shock." However, metrozol is more effective the psychiatry department of the University of Illinois college of medicine reports.

Ninety-one patients were given the metrozol treatment at the institute. Of this number fifty-three recovered. Nine have remained well for more than six months, twenty-two for more than three months, and the remaining twenty-two from one to three months.

Metrozol is administered intravenously three or four times a week. If effective, a convulsion follows in fifteen seconds. This is of only one minute's duration, and the patient usually can resume his ordinary activities within an hour.

WAS A BURNING QUESTION BACK IN THE CAVE MAN ERA

Our ancestors, centuries ago, dealt with the matter of reckoning time in an ingenious, but none-too-accurate way. The cave man made a rope of grasses, knotted at regular intervals. He lighted one end, and as it burned from knot to knot he had a crude measurement of time.

JAPANESE SMASH CHINESE ARMY OF 15,000 IN BATTLE

Breach Two Sides of Vital Railway Corridor.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 14 [Monday].—(AP)—Japanese armies rolled relentlessly from north and south today toward a frontal junction on China's vital Lunghai railway, crushing their stubborn Chinese foe between the two halves of their viselike offensive.

On the northern side of the Lunghai corridor into central China an army of 15,000 Chinese had been shattered. Reports were that a Japanese vanguard had reached the Yellow river and was preparing to cross for an assault on Kaifeng, Honan province capital.

On the southern side massed artillery and planes had broken Chinese resistance on the north banks of the Hwai river, permitting establishment of a broad front while a spearhead column drove farther north along the Tientsin-Pukow [Nanking] railway to stab at Suchow, heart of the Lunghai defenses.

"Big Push" on All Along.

Japanese military authorities said their long heralded "big push" was under way in all sectors of the central front—auspiciously launched by yesterday's sweeping victories.

Two railways, the Tientsin-Pukow line intersecting the Lunghai at Suchow and the Peiping-Hankow line intersecting the Lunghai some 200 miles to the west at Chengchow, were the principal avenues of the Japanese drive.

Puyang, about 70 miles northeast of Chengchow and some 60 miles from the Lunghai railway, fell, however, to an overland thrust and advance detachments drove on toward the broad Yellow river lying between them and the Lunghai.

Defeat 5,000 Chinese.

The overland forces were operating on the left flank of the Peiping-Hankow railway column and yesterday defeated 5,000 Chinese in northern Honan province. The railway column was marching on Chihsien, about 60 miles north of Chengchow.

Chinese lines along the Tientsin-Pukow railway in that sector were said by the Japanese to have been "beaten and shattered." The lone Chinese claim of victory came from the Tientsin-Pukow railway sector north of Suchow where the defenders were said to have inflicted sharp losses.

Shoots Divorced Wife from Ambush; Then Wounds Self

Otto Schwemer, 42 years old, 2546 Cullom avenue, shot his divorced wife in the back as she walked by a doorway at 1501 North La Salle street early yesterday and then shot himself in the left side. Despite his wound Schwemer ran toward Clark street, encountering two policemen on the way. He and his former wife were taken to the Henrotin hospital, where her conition was said to be serious.

SPANISH REBELS REPORT GAINS ON SOUTHERN FRONT

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Feb. 13.—(AP)—A Spanish government communique acknowledged today that rebel troops had gained "several positions" on the Cordoba front of southern Spain, but said fighting was still in progress.

The rebels had reported capture of Zalamea hill, which they termed the most important position on the Extremadura front. The government did not admit the hill had been lost. The civil war has come to revolve about this southern front as well as the Teruel or eastern front.

An official rebel statement said Gen. Fidel Davila's new offiensive, now in control of both banks of the Alfambra river north of Teruel, had cost the government "very heavy losses."

LIQUOR DEALERS FIND OAK PARK POLICE PSYCHIC

Chicago and Forest Park merchants who filled liquor and ginger ale orders from across the line in Oak Park on Saturday night put two and two together yesterday and got a headache. In every case their delivery boys found Oak Park police waiting to arrest them because it's illegal to sell liquor in Oak Park.

The merchants are to tell their side of the story tomorrow to Martin H. McGrath, Oak Park justice of the peace. But before they do, they said, they'll tell it to the state's attorney because they want to know how the police knew about the orders inasmuch as there weren't any such persons as the ones supposed to have given them.

SPRING RUSHES THE SEASON, AND SO DO PARADERS

It looked—and felt—like Easter Sunday in Chicago yesterday, as boulevardiers, their spirits inflated by a morning of flashing sunlight and warm breezes, strutted forth in top hat and morning coat.

A temperature of 63 degrees at noon set a record for the city, its nearest competitor being 60 degrees on Feb. 13, 1882.

3 U. S. WARSHIPS ONLY 'GUESTS' AT SINGAPORE BASE

SINGAPORE, Feb. 13.—(AP)—With American officers as "unofficial" observers, Great Britain will inaugurate the most powerful naval base in the world Monday, strengthening her naval strategy in the war torn orient.

Three American warships, the cruisers Trenton, Memphis, and Milwaukee, under the command of Rear Admiral Julius C. Townsend, will be the only "foreign guests," a fact authoritative circles considered significant.

Intense precautions have been taken to prevent espionage at the inaugural ceremony for the $100,000,000 "Gibraltar of the East" which took fifteen years to build. Hand picked guests will be under the watchful eyes of special police the entire time and will be allowed to enter only the restricted areas.

U. S. Cruisers Arrive.

The United States cruisers arrived today from Australia where they had attended the sesquicentenary celebration. After formal gun salutes from British warships, Admiral Townsend exchanged official calls with British Vice Admiral Sir Alexander Ramsay, commander in chief of the East Indies station.

The naval base controls the empire's vital link between the east and west. Its great guns, with ranges up to fifty miles, command the narrow straits linking the Pacific and Indian oceans.

Taking part in the ceremonies were twenty-four warships of the East Indies and China squadrons, native and British troops of the Singapore garrison with units of royal artillery, and seven bombardment squadrons of the royal air force.

The naval base is on the north side of Singapore Island, facing across the straits of Johore to the Malay Peninsula mainland.

The port of Singapore is on the south side of the twenty-seven mile long and fourteen mile wide island. At Changi, on the eastern end of the island, facing out to the Pacific, long range batteries defend the approach both of the city and the main base on Johore straits.

Base Heavily Armed.

The Blakang Mati and Brani Islands, south of the city also are heavily fortified while to the east of the naval base is the military air base which can accommodate hundreds of warplanes.

The largest and most powerful guns in the world—eighteen inch guns mounted in solid emplacements—command a range of fifty miles. The 150 ton guns fire shells weighing 3,000 pounds.

The defences include hidden batteries of heavy guns, machine gun redoubts, anti-aircraft batteries, garrison barracks, and airdromes.

The dry dock is the largest naval dock in the world and can accommodate warships up to 55,000 tons. The largest warship afloat now is the British battle cruiser Hood of 42,100 tons.

Work on the base began in 1925 and involved conversion of a large area of swampland. More than 6,000,000 cubic yards of earth were excavated in shifting hills and more than 8,000,000 cubic yards were needed to fill in swamps.

TRIAL TO DECIDE WRIGHT'S SANITY TO OPEN TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 13.—(AP)—The jury that convicted Paul A. Wright of manslaughter for shooting his wife Evelyn and John B. Kimmel, his business associate, will resume its sessions tomorrow, this time to determine his sanity at the time of the slayings.

Defense Counsel Jerry Giesler claims his client was made insane by an emotional shock at finding his wife and Kimmel in an embrace when he shot them last Nov. 9.

If Giesler can convince the jury Wright was insane at the time of the shooting, but sane now, Wright will be freed. If the jury decides Wright was insane at the time of the tragedy and insane now he may be committed to an asylum. If the jury finds he was sane at the time of the slayings and sane now he will be sentenced to a prison term for manslaughter.

NATION WARNED TO BE READY FOR FUTURE CONFLICT

Preparation Time Short, Says Gen. Drum.

Warning that in its next war, if one should come, the United States could not expect to have as much time to prepare as it did in 1917, Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the 6th corps area, formally took part yesterday in National Defense week, sponsored by the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States.

National Defense week is a period actually longer than a week set aside annually to promote the country's military strength. Meetings, lectures and radio discussions started on Saturday, Lincoln's birthday, and will run through Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Time and Money Needed.

An adequate national defense is something that cannot be built up overnight, declared Gen. Drum. Much time and money are required.

"The design and manufacture of tanks, airplanes, anti-craft artillery, listening devices and other essentials of modern conflict consume time for their completion, and money for their procurement," he said. "To avoid the danger of unpreparedness to meet any situation, a large stock of war material must be held available.

"We cannot expect to have fourteen months in which to prepare for war as we had in 1917. With these thoughts before us, the American public can be of inestimable service in the cause of national defense by supporting and urging that materials of war be kept available."

Special Services Held.

Special services for reserve officers were held yesterday in St. James' Episcopal church. On Thursday night reserve officers will hear a talk on national defense by Rear Admiral Hayne Ellis, commandant of the 9th naval district. Naval and marine reserve officers will also attend. On Saturday night the officers will hold their military ball in the Great Northern hotel.

Reserve and national guard officers and men in Illinois and the state as a whole are fully prepared now, however, in the opinion of Maj. A. L. Hamblen, assistant chief of the intelligence staf of the 6th corps area, who said that Illinois could put 17,000 officers and men into the field immediately, and convert hundreds of its factories to war uses.

Giant New Clipper Nears Completion at Seattle

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Nearing completion at the Boeing aircraft factory here, the first of the new giant Pan-American Clippers was out in the open air today so that her wings could be attached. The hull of the flying boat is 109 feet long and the wings are 150 feet long. When completed the ship will carry seventy-two passengers and will be used to replace the present Clippers in the trans-Pacific service.

BRITISH PREMIER AND EDEN SPLIT ON ITALIAN LOAN

Deny Foreign Chief Plans to Resign.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Recurring reports that Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, might resign because of friction with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain again were denied by government sources tonight.

Some British circles have been putting out in recent days the impression that England and Italy are on the verge of a new friendship and settlement of outstanding differences. Disagreement over the policy of conciliating Italy was supposed to have made trouble between Chamberlain and Eden.

Disagree Over Loan to Italy.

Actually it is understood they are getting on as well as they ever did, which is not very well where Italy is concerned, but that there is little danger of Eden resigning. The reported cause of the disagreement was the question of a possible loan to Italy on which Chamberlain was believed to want to move more quickly than Eden thought was advisable.

Efforts to patch up relations between England and Italy still are in the elementary stage, it appears, and until something definite is done to end foreign intervention in Spain, they are not likely to be very successful.

Must Settle Spanish Question.

British diplomats feel that no permanent improvement can be made towards ending hostility in the Mediterranean until the Spanish question is out of the way.

The possibility of new intervention in Spain by Premier Mussolini still is very real though it is regarded here as improbable. Mussolini has a great deal to hold his attention in Ethiopia, North Africa [Libya] and at home, but the British want more assurance than that before they begin formal talks.

Boy Goes on Sit Strike Over Hair Cut; It Lasts 3 Hours

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Dickie Owens, 6 years old, went on a sitdown strike here because he didn't want to have his hair cut. He locked himself in his mother's car on a downtown street and for three hours defied police and passersby who tried to lure him out. Finally the car was towed to a garage, where Dickie was removed by mechanics. He kicked out a glass in the tussle. After that Dickie's mother took charge of him.

MEXICO ORDERS ALIEN INQUIRY; JEWS AFFECTED

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13.—A nationwide investigation of the status of all foreign immigrants living in Mexico has been ordered, the secretary of the interior disclosed today.

The step was taken in accord with a decision of President Lazaro Cardenas published in the official gazette last year, requiring the establishment of "protected zones" within which only Mexican small merchants can operate.

These Mexican small merchants have complained particularly of the competition of Jews who came to Mexico in the twenties from Poland, Syria and the Levant. The move is expected to affect the Jews particularly, although it is dictated to cover all foreign immigrants. Among foreigners there have been few except Jews operating in what is designated here as "small business." Mexican merchants claim that the Jewish merchants, numbering about 10,000 in Mexico City and 8,000 in other cities, came to Mexico as agrarians and that their status in business is illegal.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

CHEAPNESS

By CALEB

TWO close friends were chatting in a loop locker room as they dressed. One caught his hand in the ripped sleeve lining of his coat.

"I simply must buy a new suit," he remarked.

"Go to Field's," said his older companion. "I've been meaning to tell you, Jack, that I think you ought to buy better clothes—and better merchandise generally."

"Field's? No, I can get a suit cheaper somewhere else."

"That's just the point. You can get a suit cheaper, but you can't get one representing better value. You are making good money now, Jack, and I've watched you continue to buy cheap merchandise. You buy cheap golf balls. You buy cheap underwear. You buy cheap clothes. It gives you a cheap complex.

"In this American society of ours we all make progress by everyone's living as well as he can without living extravagantly for his means.

"Many years ago I memorized these words of President McKinley. Listen! 'I do not prize the word "cheap." It's not a word of inspiration. It's the badge of poverty; the signal of distress. Cheap merchandise means cheap men, and cheap men a cheap country.'"

The young man called "Jack" was speechless, but rather wide-eyed.

The older man continued. "You do not make a living in a cheap business. You will never attain to your fullest stature as a man, dealing cheaply with cheap people in cheap businesses. On a policy of cheapness, the American standard of living cannot continue to rise. There will be less wealth produced and greater inequalities in its distribution if people who can afford good products of good workmen and good businesses do not use them.

"If you expect to live in a country surrounded by the fruits of people whose efforts are not cheap, don't be cheap yourself, Jack. Don't accept the fruits of a sound value economy while with your own purchases you endorse a cheap economy.

"I am not condemning economy. If you must economize, do so where values are good. Even the poor man cannot afford cheapness. Now, come with me. I'll go with you while you buy a good suit."

NATION STIRRED BY DEFENSE AND PEACE PROJECTS

Fear of Joint Action Plan Fails to Down.

development of this type of craft would overhaul the existing air defenses. They would have the heavy bombers operate from points as far inland as Cleveland or Dayton. The coastal airdromes would be put underground and would serve only as filling stations for the "flying fortresses" as they proceeded to attack invaders.

The proposed Nicaraguan canal, to be 172.8 miles long with a set of two way triple flight locks near each coast, would cost 722 million dollars, including $25,000,000 for rights and franchises and land. It would take ten years to build the canal. The annual cost of maintenance would be $10,800,000, and its capacity would be 80,000,000 tons of shipping annually, compared to the 70,000,000 tons of the Panama canal. The lock chambers would be 125 feet wide and 1,200 feet long, and calculated to take the "largest ship contemplated within a century."

Internationalism Cited.

Foundation of the suspicion of the President's foreign policy on the part of the isolationists is the internationalism of Mr. Roosevelt and his secretary of state, Cordell Hull. Both were originally ardent advocates of American membership in the league of nations. Mr. Roosevelt made a partial recantation in 1932.

From the beginning of his administration Mr. Roosevelt shaped his foreign policy toward coöperation with the league to prevent and stop wars by coercive action against the nation declared by the league to be the aggressor. When the first neutrality bill came before congress he sought provisions granting him wide discretion to engage in such coöperation with the league.

Congress, fearing Mr. Roosevelt, if given such powers, would get us into more wars than he would keep us out of, refused him the discretion he sought and made it mandatory for him to embargo export of arms and implements of war to all belligerents without discrimination.

Embargo Proclaimed.

Shortly thereafter began the war between Italy and Ethiopia. In accordance with the neutrality act Mr. Roosevelt proclaimed the embargo. Then in a separate, extra-legal statement he proclaimed that Americans would engage in any transactions, even legal ones, with the belligerents at their own risk. As Italy would be the only one of the belligerents injured by such interruption of business with America the President was in effect exceeding the law to cooperate with the league in cracking down on Italy.

Then he went further and by threats and coercion attempted to halt oil shipments to Italy, while the British oil companies were continuing to do a thriving business with Mussolini. The league never did cut off Italy's foreign oil supply, and when Mussolini barked that America was committing an unfriendly act, which is diplomatic war language, Mr. Roosevelt beat a hasty retreat and lifted the ban on oil shipments.

Freedom of Action Denied.

When the neutrality act came up for revision last year the same suspicion of Mr. Roosevelt's intentions caused congress to deny him again the freedom of action he sought. Taking advantage of technicalities, however, the President has never invoked the neutrality act in the Sino-Japanese war because war has not been formally declared by either side.

Distrust of Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy received its biggest impetus four months ago when the President in his Chicago speech declared for American participation in an international "quarantine" of treaty breaking nations. That this was a proposal that the United States join with the league in cracking down on Japan for her aggression on China became clear the next day when the league denounced Japan as a treaty breaker, and the United States followed with an indorsement of the league action. At the abortive Brussels conference that ensued it turned out that Great Britain and France were unanimously in favor of delegating to the United States the undertaking of cracking down on Japan.

There never was any danger of Mr. Roosevelt agreeing to that, for the country had by that time pretty conclusively repudiated the Chicago speech. America, it was clear, was willing to spend billions for defense but not one cent for policing the world.

WHEELER WARNS NATION AGAINST DICTATOR PERIL

It Can Happen Here, Says Senator.

New York, Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who was an uncompromising opponent of President Roosevelt's plan to pack the Supreme court, today warned the nation that future attempts to pass such a measure as the court plan might pave the way for a dictatorship.

Senator Wheeler.

The Montana liberal, speaking before 2,000 members of the Brooklyn conference of the United Palestine Appeal, pointed out inferentially that the danger of dictatorship was not absent in America.

It Can Happen Here, He Says.

He said that anti-Semitic régimes such as those in Germany and Rumania were inimical not only to Jews but also to Christians and the entire framework of democracy.

"Persecution is no stranger to America," he said. "It has happened here, and it can happen here.

"I, and most of you, have seen in our nation the circumvention of our own bill of rights. I know how liberty of conscience and freedom of expression have been forged into charges of sedition.

Cites Personal Experiences.

"It was because of personal experience with intolerance, persecution, and bigotry that I was impelled to fight against the plan to pack the Supreme court. I know something of your feelings in the search for freedom. That search goes on, even here."

Senator Wheeler's mention of personal experiences apparently referred to the fact that he was the target of bitter attacks for alleged failure to take aggressive action against radicals during the world war years when he was United States district attorney in Montana.

BICYCLE RIDER KILLED BY CAR.

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Ray Crozier, 45 years old, was killed last night by a car while riding his bicycle on route 34 near here. He was on route home when the car driven by Weldon Hoxworth of Western struck him.

UNION LEAGUE CLUB TO PUSH AMERICANISM

Nicholas J. Conrad, president of the Union League club, said yesterday plans have been completed for a national campaign in harmony with the club's restatement of principles indorsing the American form of government under the slogan, "America, Wake Up."

Copies of the principles will be mailed to nonresidents of the club in 233 cities in 37 states, Mr. Conrad said, and also to any organizations requesting them.

The club lists as subversive tendencies the use of official power to influence elections, centralization of authority in Washington, dictation by blocs and pressure groups, and infringement, by violence, of basic laws "by organized groups relying on official tolerance of such lawlessness."

WHAT M.C. COBEN SAID TO HAROLD SNEAD, CHIEF PILOT OF TWA

"Do you find Camels really different from other cigarettes?"

Harold Snead gives his own answer—"Camels agree with me!" he says. And millions of other smokers agree with Pilot Snead, making Camels the largest-selling cigarette in America.

ON HIS SECOND MILLION MILES! Snead has been in the flying game for a long time, since the early "night mail" days. He knows what he's talking about when he says: "You've got to take care of yourself in this line of work. Ragged nerves are simply out. I smoke—all I want, but I stick to Camels. They never get on my nerves."

THIS VIEW over Pilot Snead's shoulder shows a few of the instruments that a flier has to watch. After a trip, Hal likes a Camel. "When I feel tired," he says, "I get a 'lift' with a Camel. You may think I am enthusiastic about Camels. Well, I am! All in all, here is a cigarette that agrees with me!"

"Some people say all cigarettes are alike, Mr. Snead . . . Can Camels really be so different?"
"There's a big difference, sir. I've been flying since 1917 and smoking Camels since 1918. I can tell the difference in the way Camels hit the spot and agree with me! I know most of the American fliers who have records of several thousand hours in the air. The majority are steady smokers and prefer Camels. Years of experience have taught them that Camel is a really different cigarette!"

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic

AFTER THE BIG TWA SKYSLEEPER, above, was set down in Newark Airport, M. C. Coben was chatting with Hal Snead, chief pilot of the Eastern region, and Isabelle Judkins, air hostess, of Glendale, California. Hal pulled out a package of Camels and offered them around. And so they got to talking cigarettes!

ON DUTY, Isabelle is a perfect hostess! "Most passengers on the TWA run prefer Camels," she says. "When conversation turns to cigarettes, someone always exclaims that Camel is certainly the cigarette that is different. The comment I often hear is 'Camels agree with me.'"

A BRISK SWIM IN THE POOL—then a "lift" with a Camel—and Isabelle Judkins, TWA hostess, finds her off-duty hours pass quickly and pleasantly. "When I got into aviation, I noticed that most of the top fliers preferred Camels. So I changed to Camels. And what a difference I found in Camels!" she says. "No ragged nerves. No scratchy throat. No 'cigaretty' after-taste."

SENATE TO PASS ON NEW JOB FOR BRAIN TRUST AID

Berle Named for Berth in State Department.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Nomination of Adolf A. Berle Jr., one of the original members of the brain trust, as assistant secretary of state, will be acted upon by the senate this week.

A. A. Berle Jr.

While there is no doubt that Berle will be confirmed to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Hugh R. Wilson as ambassador to Germany, there is grave doubt that Berle will take over anything more than Wilson's desk and the $8,000 a year salary that goes with the post.

The reluctance of officials to discuss the appointment has given rise to the report that Berle, like many another brain truster, is being given a job which commands respect and, what appears to be more important, a substantial salary, not to serve a department, but the White House.

Hull's Resentment Apparent.

Without uttering a word, for which he might be called to task, Secretary Hull is known to resent the appointment, because it has upset his plans to have skilled foreign advisers at his elbow. Berle has had no experience in foreign affairs, except a brief foray in Cuba and as one of the army of experts on the American peace conference staf twenty years ago.

He is an untried novice beside his colleague-to-be, George S. Messersmith, veteran career man, who was recalled from Europe early in the year with Wilson when Hull decided he needed a right and left arm on European affairs. Hull had hoped to replace Wilson, with whom he was forced to part, with another tried diplomat.

Hull indicated his dislike for the Berle appointment by inflections in answers to questioning about his plans for employment of his new assistant. On one occasion he said Berle is "supposed" to take over the former duties of Ambassador Wilson. On another occasion he said that Berle was a man of great ability "in certain respects."

Inflection Reveals Views.

His inflection in both instances indicated his belief that Berle's talents would be of little use to the state department. He coupled the latter statement with a remark that every man is needed in the state department and that trained men are working twelve, fourteen, and sixteen hours a day because their knowledge is invaluable in the present days of delicate international relations.

Brain trusters are nothing new to Secretary Hull. The granddaddy of them all, Raymond Moley, was thrust into the state department as an assistant secretary in the early days of the administration. He and Hull clashed immediately, because Moley considered himself, by virtue of his close White House ties, above his superior. The clash led to Moley's resignation after the failure of the economic conference at London.

Berle was brought into the administration by Moley. He was put on the pay roll of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, but was in reality on that of the White House. Under common administration practice, the White House can command the services of employés from any department.

Berle left Washington, but did not cease to be an adviser for the political sinecure of New York City chamberlain. The duties of that office, which was abolished last year, were to deposit money collected by the city controler and make the fund payable to the controler. The post owed its origin to the Tweed ring days of New York and carried the fat salary of $15,000 a year.

It had been expected that Berle would return to the administration, and only the manner of his return is surprising. It was expected that he would return as one of the six men "with a passion for anonymity," whom Mr. Roosevelt plans to gather about him under his government reorganization scheme which shortly comes before the senate. If the measure is passed it is considered certain that one of the posts will go to Berle. It is believed that he is counting on the job because he has said that he does not intend to stay in the state department for more than a few months while he undertakes a special job.

Observers believe that Berle was summoned to draw up a plan to aid the railroads for Mr. Roosevelt because Berle has participated in the reorganization of two roads.

MEDICAL TEST IS USED TO FORCE RETIREMENT OF 250 ARMY OFFICERS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Fighting against involuntary retirement, at least 250 army officers are in hospitals undergoing physical tests and examinations that may disqualify them from field service.

This unexpected burden upon base hospitals, it was learned today, was occasioned by the action of Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf, last December when he unexpectedly ordered every officer, through the list of colonels, to be examined physically in January.

Nearly 11,000 officers will take the examinations. Of this number 641 are colonels, 962 lieutenant colonels, 2,671 majors, and 3,490 captains. There are less than 3,000 first and second lieutenants. It is reported that the retirements will relieve at least 250 officers this year.

The war department appropriation bill for the fiscal year ending June 30 provides pay for an average of 12,173 officers. On Jan. 30, 1938, there were 12,283 officers. On top of that, there will be 302 graduates from the military academy in June, in addition to 50 regular officers who will be commissioned from the reserve corps under the terms of the Thomason act.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT BREAKS UP BUND RALLY

Battle Starts as Speaker Is Interrupted.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Fist fights broke up a meeting being addressed here tonight by G. Wilhelm Kunze, representative of the New York office of the German-American bund.

A riot call was sent out by police as American Legion members, who composed nearly half the audience of 700, and bund members began fighting. The fight started after Kunze had been interrupted by former Assemblyman Frederick Hammer of Buffalo, who ascended the rostrum and began delivering a speech of his own.

"Coward" Shout Starts Fights.

When Hammer declared his grandfather left Germany because he did not like the military aggression, a voice in the hall shouted: "Coward!"

"Come outside with me and we'll settle that right now," Hammer shouted.

A half dozen fist fights broke out all over the crowded floor. Women spectators were caught helpless in the uproar.

One by one the participants in the rioting were taken by club-swinging police and flung down two flights of stairs into the street below. In 15 minutes the last of the fights were stopped.

No arrests were made immediately, Lieut. Alfred O. Gardner said. Gardner said he escorted Kunze off the platform as the fighting started, although the bund leader objected to leaving the hall.

Meetings Under Scrutiny.

Kunze came to Buffalo tonight after two other upstate New York meetings of the bund had become the object of close scrutiny by American Legion members last week.

He engaged in a verbal battle with legionnaires at Syracuse Thursday night, where the war veterans bombarded him with questions during the meeting. A hotel in Rochester on Friday night canceled a reservation for a bund meeting, and Kunze contented himself with addressing a small gathering elsewhere.

As the meeting opened here tonight several hundred members of the Legion were in the hall.

Boys and Women Ushers.

Approximately a score of brown-shirted bund members were ushers, assisted by a number of boys and women, similarly uniformed.

The meeting was opened by a chairman who explained that a closed meeting had been planned originally. "But we were forced to change our plans," he said.

He was introducing Kunze when a voice in the hall rang out: "Pull down that swastika!"

As the interruption caused a stir in the hall, bluecoats blocked the ailes, and a loudspeaker began blaring out a recorded rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner."

County Legion Commander George A. Mead ascended the rostrum and asked for order.

"Please listen to the speaker," he asked the Legionnaires.

It was 10 minutes before order was restored and Kunze began his speech, which was interrupted by Hammer and the free for all which ended the meeting.

Floods in California

Area flooded in California. The towns of Pajaro and Watsonville suffered most severely from the flooded Pajaro river, which was receding yesterday. The Sacramento-Colusa area was endangered by the Sacramento river, which was rising yesterday. At June lake an avalanche killed two.

(Picture on back page.)

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 13.—(AP)—A new disturbance from the Pacific today brought gales and torrential rain and snow to the Pacific coast. Flood hazards in northern California were intensified and the record breaking storm was carried through its eighteenth consecutive day.

Between one and a half and four inches of rain fell in 24 hours along the upper Sacramento river and increased apprehension in the Colusa-Sacramento area.

Flood waters receded along the Pajaro river, permitting a gradual return of 1,000 persons to homes from which they had been driven in Watsonville and Pajaro.

One problem which confronted the San Francisco health department was removal of the carcass of a 100 ton whale, which the storm cast up on the shore of the bay. Meanwhile Jim Moran of Washington, D. C., a landlubber who has read all about whales, was on his way to capture the one which is cavorting about the bay, endangering shipping.

Air Line Pilots Form Reserve Bomb Squadron

The 76th bombardment squadron, United States army air corps reserve, composed of 35 Transcontinental and Western air pilots, has won full recognition from the war department and is now engaged in intensive training under the army schedule, it became known yesterday. Capt. L. G. Fritz is commanding officer of the squadron, said to be the only one in the country composed entirely of officers from one air line.

case as his attorneys. The spokesman said the pastor has worked with them on the basis of complete mutual understanding.

The report of the quarrel apparently was circulated to camouflage the fact that the attorneys abandoned the case in agreement with Niemoeller because they felt the court was not giving them the proper opportunity to defend their client. The pastor, who is fighting for "freedom of creed," is charged with "violating the law against insidious attacks on the government" and "the misuse of the pulpit for political purposes and inciting the public to disobedience."

PRAYERS FOR NIEMOELLER

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Prayers of thankfulness for the Rev. Martin Niemoeller's fight for a free church in Germany were offered in Chicago churches of many faiths yesterday. The prayers also sought freedom of the former German submarine commander and present Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] leader now on trial before a secret Nazi court.

A letter addressed to all Protestant pastors last week asking for special Niemoeller intercessions in all churches yesterday, was signed by Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal church, and the Revs. Albert W. Palmer and Theodore C. Hume, officers of the Chicago Church federation.

Without exception, pastors queried last night stated that Chicago is awakening to its stake in the Niemoeller trial. To this view the Rev. Dr. Almer M. Pennewell of St. John Methodist church, 74th street and Jeffery avenue, added the belief that church youths, especially, are aroused to world-wide threats to freedom which come to a head, at least for Germany, in the Confessional pastor's trial.

Youths Adopt Prayer.

"At the regular meeting of the Wesley League of St. John's tonight the young people discussed the religious situation in Germany and adopted a prayer to be used constantly during the Niemoeller trial," said Dr. Pennewell.

The prayer prepared for the youths follows:

"O God, our help in ages past who neither slumbers nor sleeps, we come to Thee in humble supplication for our brother, Pastor Martin Niemoeller, in his hour of trial; be Thou a wall of fire about him; grant him the spirit of wisdom and endurance, discomfit the evil forces that beset him; save him and his afflicted church, and by Thy great salvation establish Thy kingdom in all the world. Amen."

Thankful for Stand.

At First Congregational church, Oak Park, the Rev. Dr. Albert B. Coe, in his pastoral prayer yesterday, expressed thankfulness for Niemoeller's stand. Niemoeller, he said, has now joined with persons throughout history who have stood for the truth regardless of cost to themselves.

Dr. John Thompson of First Methodist church, Chicago temple, pointed to persecutions similar to Niemoeller's when devout men fought for human liberties, and deplored the fact that a spectacle like the Confessional leader's trial now occurs in the land of Martin Luther.

"It may be that the warfare for religious freedom will have to be fought all over again," said Dr. Thompson.

Maybe This Is Why You're Constipated

Perhaps the kind of food you eat doesn't give your bowels anything to work on. Meat, potatoes and bread don't form the kind of soft, bulky mass that will help move your bowels.

If so, a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the kind of "bulk" your intestines may need to work properly. And in addition, it contains the intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1, which helps to tone them. If you want to get at the cause of your trouble, eat some Kellogg's All-Bran every day—as a cereal or baked in muffins. And drink plenty of water. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

MICHIGAN FLOOD RISES; FAMILIES ARE DRIVEN OUT

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Floods surged on southern Michigan again today, driving families from their homes and covering highways and farms in areas barely back to normal from last week's inundation.

Police borrowed rowboats in Pontiac to remove twenty-five families from flooded homes. Water rose six feet beside many houses in Mount Clemens, and amusement parks in Utica were under six feet of water.

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, and with both men and women physicians in attendance, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including urinalysis, smears and Wassermann, Kahn and Eagle blood tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. can have their certificates the following morning.

"50% INFECTED INNOCENTLY" says an outstanding health authority about the victims of syphilis!

Because syphilis can be acquired in a number of ways, an examination by your family physician or this reliable clinic is advised!

Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, declares: "I estimate that half the victims of syphilis are infected innocently!"

"Remember that a kiss may carry the germ. One of our health officers traced 17 cases of syphilis to a party where kissing games were played!"

Dr. Parran adds that many cases come from the use of contaminated drinking cups, towels, cigarettes, pipes, eating utensils, etc., and in receiving personal services from diseased individuals. In his expert opinion, few persons past 21 have escaped exposure to syphilis!

Thus every man and woman, whether married or unmarried, should have a thorough physical examination which includes a blood test. Only in this way can you be sure you are free from a disease that causes more total disability and premature deaths than any other!

What syphilis can do to you!

Unless detected and properly treated, syphilis may lead to sudden death from heart disease in the early forties. It may rob its victim of sight or hearing, strike as paralysis or apoplexy, or result in a nervous breakdown that may terminate in insanity!

Even worse is the effect of syphilis on helpless infants. Unless an expectant mother with syphilis is carefully treated during pregnancy, she is likely to give birth to a dead, deformed or feeble-minded baby!

When the danger of neglecting syphilis is so tremendous, why put off being examined for it another day? The examination involves no discomfort, requires the expenditure of but little time and money, and can be conveniently obtained from your family physician or the skilled doctors of the Public Health Institute.

For 18 years the Public Health Institute has been specializing in syphilis and gonorrhea—an almost equally destructive disease which, if neglected or improperly treated, may cause a sight-destroying eye infection, sterility, stricture, crippling rheumatism, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. Those who come to the Institute receive the benefit of the experience gained in giving almost 5 million examinations and treatments for venereal diseases!

The Public Health Institute is noted for its friendly, sympathetic men and women physicians, and for its arrangements for privacy. Each patient is promptly attended in a private room, and to avoid embarrassment is known by number instead of by name.

Treatments as low as $1.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute puts specialized treatment within the reach of those with limited incomes. A thorough examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less.

Hence there is no reason why any man or woman should continue to guess as to whether he or she has syphilis or gonorrhea. For not only can a dependable examination be obtained confidentially, conveniently and economically, but even persons temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be cared for!

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

SEE COLONY DEAL BACK OF HITLER'S TALK TO AUSTRIA

Britain Reported Ready to Grant Concessions.

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Return of Germany's war lost colonies may be Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's big surprise for the German people when he speaks to the nation at the reichstag session Feb. 20.

Reports in diplomatic quarters are that negotiations are afoot between Germany and Great Britain involving an important colonial concession for Germany, but requiring first the fulfilment of certain conditions.

One of these conditions was described as a definite clarification of Germany's relations with Austria, removing once and for all the fear of sudden aggression in that sector.

Assurances given by Hitler himself to Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria would be a vital element of such a clarification; and that was why it was necessary for the two to meet yesterday in the surprise conference at Berchtesgaden, Hitler's Bavarian mountain retreat.

Mussolini Urges Settlement.

Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, whose chances of reaching a satisfactory agreement with Britain have seemed brighter recently, was said to have urged Schuschnigg to accept Hitler's invitation.

From the Italian point of view, nothing could be better than a settlement by which Hitler would get colonies, Mussolini British recognition for his conquest of Ethiopia, and Austria definitly would cease to be Europe's apple of discord.

Further indications that Hitler and Mussolini were working together in an effort to reach a lasting solution of the Austrian question were seen in the emphasis with which it was stated Il Duce was being kept informed of all developments arising from the Berchtesgaden talks.

It was reported in Vienna that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop had gone directly from Berchtesgaden to Rome, but this was denied in official quarters.

Austria Stumbling Block.

Until now Austria has been the stumbling block in an otherwise pleasant German and Italian friendship. Although the two Fascist countries are allies, Italy has looked askance on German efforts to unite directly with her little German speaking neighbor.

During the early days of Hitler's power, Mussolini mobilized troops on the Austrian border, a direct way of saying, "Hands off." Both countries, however, need Austria to complete the wedge they have driven through Europe from the Mediterranean to the North sea.

One suggested solution, which even now may be in the making, would gain Austria's firm friendship through German and Italian guarantees of her independence, provided the Austrian Nazi party was allowed to develop internally as it could.

This not only would preserve the Austrian independence on which both Schuschnigg and Mussolini have been insistent but would give Hitler a compromise victory for his ardent Nazis.

Austrian Cabinet Meets.

VIENNA, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg by his Saturday interview with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler of Germany appears to have strengthened Austria's position as the connecting—but independent—link of the Rome-Berlin axis.

Schuschnigg conferred with his cabinet today on what seems to have developed as the main point of his interview with Hitler at the latter's estate in Bavaria:

Fulfillment in letter and spirit of the Austro-German accord of July 11, 1936, which would allow the Nazi party to develop as it will and can as an internal Austrian party with German Nazis agreeing not to interfere.

Neutral observers got the impression Austria was willing to work with Germany and Italy provided the two powers recognized the principle of Austria's independence as an authoritarian, Christian state.

Three Details Develop.

The situation is no wise clear yet, but three somewhat contradictory details have developed in the twenty-four hours since the conference:

1. Schuschnigg must decide soon whether he will put two or three Nazis in his cabinet, thus recognizing Austrian national socialism as a movement on a par with the monarchist movement despite the ban on political parties other than the pro-government Fatherland Front.

2. Premier Mussolini of Italy strongly advised Hitler and Schuschnigg to patch up their quarrel over Nazi influence in Austria in order to save the Rome-Berlin axis.

3. Schuschnigg told Hitler Austria needed an entirely free hand and did not propose to change her policy. Fatherland Front circles said the chancellor won this point.

The head of the official Austrian news agency, who accompanied Schuschnigg to Berchtesgaden, said the three main points discussed were:

1. Clearer interpretation of the Austro-German treaty of 1936.

2. The ending of Nazi propaganda and terrorism in Austria.

3. Improvement of Austro-German economic relations which experts will tackle in detail later.

ISHBEL MAC DONALD TO WED HANDY MAN SHE MET AT HER PUB

Ishbel MacDonald.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of Ramsay MacDonald, who died last November, is engaged to marry Norman Ridgley, a painter and decorator, handy man, and darts champion of Speen, Buckinghamshire, it was announced tonight. Both are 34 years old.

The couple met in January, 1937, at Miss MacDonald's 17th century country pub, Ye Olde Plow inn. She took over the inn after her father left 10 Downing street, where she acted as his official hostess while he was prime minister. She will continue to operate the pub after her marriage.

"The engagement was a surprise to the family," said Miss MacDonald's brother-in-law, Dr. Alastair Mackinnon. "No date has been fixed for the wedding, but I think it will be fairly soon."

THE RULES

WHO CAN ENTER? This game is open to everybody—men, women, boys, and girls everywhere—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

WHAT TO DO? Every week day a picture containing the scrambled name of a movie star will be published until 36 have appeared. Unscramble the name. Use every letter in the picture. Write or print the name on the picture or a facsimile. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 36. DO NOT SEND THEM IN SEPARATELY.

WHERE TO SEND? Mail your entry by First Class Mail to "Movie Stars," P. O. Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. With your entry send a letter, giving your name and address and telling in 50 words or less, who is your favorite movie star and why. Letters will be considered only in the event of ties in naming the stars. Entries must be in the office of the Chicago Tribune by midnight, one week after Name No. 36 has appeared.

BASIS OF AWARDS. Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Tribune. Entrants agree that the judges' decisions will be final. Awards will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of unscrambled names. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid. In fairness to all, the Tribune cannot engage in any correspondence or discussions on this contest.

CAN YOU RE-ARRANGE THE SCRAMBLED LETTERS IN THESE PICTURES SO THAT EACH GROUP WILL SPELL THE NAME OF A WELL-KNOWN MOVIE STAR?

No. 1—Chicago Tribune—2nd Series—"Paging the Movie Stars"

WHY COUGH?

DO AS MILLIONS HAVE DONE—USE PERTUSSIN

When you catch cold and your throat feels dry or clogged, the secretions from countless tiny glands in your throat and windpipe often turn into sticky, irritating phlegm. This makes you cough.

Pertussin stimulates these glands to again pour out their natural moisture so that the annoying phlegm is loosened and easily raised. Quickly your throat is soothed, your cough relieved!

Your cough may be a warning signal from your respiratory system. Why neglect it? Do as millions have done! Use Pertussin, a safe, pleasant herbal remedy for children, grownups. Many physicians have prescribed Pertussin for over 30 years. It's safe, acts quickly. Sold at all druggists.

RECTOR SLAYING LAID TO GUNMAN HIRED BY RING

Wide Hunt for Clews to Crime Syndicate.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Simons Island, Ga., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—The Rev. Charles H. Lee, for eleven years rector of the historic Christ church [Episcopal] on this island, who was shot and killed as he sat in his home writing a sermon a week ago last night, apparently was the victim of a hired killer who was imported into this scene of peace and beauty from the outside world.

This is the conclusion reached by investigators after a week of work on one of America's most mysterious murders. That the ramifications of the plot, when it finally is uncovered, may reach into the higher circles of this playground of millionaires is the belief of those who know how the search has narrowed and where it is leading.

May Have Known Too Much.

The motive for the killing is placed in the knowledge that Dr. Lee had gained of criminal activities centering here or on the adjoining sea island, where the ocean front is dotted with homes and resorts of wealthy northerners.

It was no ordinary bout with the devil that the 71 year old minister had undertaken, for vice in the sense of ordinary gambling and drinking dives is almost unknown on the island. Expert investigators have been hired by the county and the search for clews has extended to the mainland, and the underworlds of Jacksonville, Savannah and other cities.

Expert reconstruction of the crime and elimination of other hurriedly conceived first clews has led to the adoption of this explanation of the mystery: The main fact in the case is the two bullet holes in the window of the Lee living room, two holes about an inch apart, made by the same size bullets. These were fired by a man about six feet high who stood about eighteen feet from the window, midway between the house and the garage.

Failed to Notice Bullet.

Dr. Lee and his wife sat in the living room that night. They heard what they believed was the backfire from an automobile close to the house. It is astonishing now that neither of them knew that this was a revolver bullet which had come through the window and had buried itself in the wall a few inches from the rector's bowed gray head. This is explained only on the theory that it was fired at short range, that the explosion and the breaking of the glass came as one sound.

At any rate the elderly couple was not alarmed, although they arose and went to the front window to see what was on the road that runs within 150 feet of their home, toward the beaches and town. Mrs. Lee then went upstairs. She had a subconscious feeling of approaching trouble, for she called to her husband to drop his work and come up to bed. He said that he had another idea for his sermon and would work a little longer. It was half an hour later, according to Mrs. Lee's estimate, that she heard another sound like the first. She went to an upstairs window and saw a car moving toward town.

Finds Husband Wounded.

She called to her husband. When he did not answer she went downstairs and found him slumped forward bleeding from his mouth. She believed he had had a stroke and called a physician. It was then that they found he had a bullet hole in his head and was dead. The second bullet had passed through his head, through a wall into another room. The bullet has been sent to federal experts in Washington for analysis as to what kind of a gun it came from.

Transferring the scene outside one is led to the conclusion that only a cold, hired killer could have gone through with this job in the manner that it had been accomplished.

The rector's habits evidently had been studied. The killer could not have known after he fired the first shot that missed that the minister and his wife were not alarmed. For all he knew they might even then have been calling police, who could have reached the house in five minutes. Yet he remained close to the house for the time that elapsd before the second and fatal shot. It is agreed that any ordinary revenge killer would have been panicstricken and fled.

Examination of the premises revealed vague footprints in the sand, and there is a little sandy path leading into the deep woods that reach close to the garage. Here the killer could have hidden until he was sure police were not coming. And here he could have escaped in half a dozen directions. The woods extend in the estate of Mrs. Maxfield Parrish, but they are full of deep tangled hiding places and paths that head away to river or road.

Island Remote and Wild.

In its marshes and woods this island is as remote and wild in spots as it was 370 years ago when the whites first came here. Near the Lee hove is the airport from which Paul Redfern sailed away to his fate in the Brazilian jungles. From air, from sea and rivers, and from the roads there are many ways of quick entry, escape, and hiding.

It was the scene of the landing of slave ships in the early days and of rum running in the days of prohibition.

Across the river about half a mile is Jekyll island, where the mess kettle from the slave ship Wanderer was found. This is now a club for millionaires. One of the visitors who arrived there yesterday on his annual trip to the land of spring was J. P. Morgan. He was driven down from New York. In other years he has come to the island on his yacht Corsair. No one is permitted on this island without invitation.

Historic Battle Scene.

This is one of the most unlikely spots in the world to look for murder or violence, although there has been plenty of it in the past. One of the sights of historic interest is the marsh where Gen. Oglethorpe and his army drove back the Spanish invaders and kept Georgia and the Carolinas for England. The Lee home is not far from the marsh, a two story white colonial frame house under giant oaks, a home of repose and culture.

The old church lies two and a half miles away toward the ruins of Fort Frederica, which Oglethorpe built to oppose the Spanish northward march. The church is a low, white wooden structure with red shingled roof, blending into the woods that surround it and the crumbling, ill-kept English graveyard.

On this Sunday, like a perfect June day, the service was taken by a visiting clergyman, the Rev. S. M. Adams. Most of the 100 parishioners who gathered under the great oaks where according to tradition John and Charles Wesley once preached to the Indians and colonists, lingered at the new grave by the side of the church.

Flowers Bank Grave.

The Lee grave was piled high with flowers. Windows and doors were open during the service, the sunshine filtering through the long gray streamers of Spanish moss to touch the plain old church with new tenderness.

President Coolidge, Henry Ford, Mrs. Herbert Hoover and many other notables have worshipped here and it is a place of pilgrimage for Methodism, although an Episcopal church.

The people of the island are closemouthed about the murder of their beloved rector. There is nothing in his life that they can think of that would lead to this act except his opposition to some evil that he had come across.

On Trial Today

[Acme Photo.]

MARY K. O'CONNOR.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 13.—(AP)—A college girl chatted calmly with friends in the seclusion of her home tonight on the eve of her trial for murder.

Blonde Mary K. O'Connor, 19 years old, will be called before a jury in Criminal court tomorrow to answer the charge that she killed Nancy Glenn, 5 years old, last Labor day because the child begged for a bicycle ride.

The state listed as one of its key witnesses Mrs. Marie Phillips, 25 years old, former Olympic team member. The blue eyed athlete told police Miss O'Connor confided to her she struck the child with her fist and left the body hidden in a mud hole near her home. Mrs. Phillips, under arrest for a time as a material witness, said she withheld the information out of loyalty to her friend.

FIND RUNAWAY GIRL WORKING IN TAVERN ON WEST MADISON ST.

Investigating a woman's mysterious telephone call to the effect that a girl of 17 was working as a hostess in a tavern at 2238 West Madison street, Sergt. John Racek of the Warren avenue police found a runaway girl there last night. She said she was Doris Denslow, an eighth grade student from Muskegon, Mich., and that she had left home after a quarrel with her sweetheart.

Doris Denslow.

Doris, a slender blonde, insisted she was a waitress and not a hostess. Louis Cordina, manager, said she wasn't a hostess. But the police took them both to the station, where Doris said she guessed she'd like to go back to her books. She really is 17, she said, and she hitch-hiked to Chicago with only 30 cents in her pocket.

2 Gunmen Rob Physician of $105 and His Auto

Dr. Norbert U. Zielinski, 2955 Logan boulevard, was robbed of $105 and his automobile Saturday night by two gunmen. They got into the physician's car in front of 2500 North Maplewood avenue and forced him to drive to California and Belmont avenues where they robbed him and put him out of his car.

AGED MAN MISSING.

The detective bureau last night was asked to aid in the search for Vaclav J. Sanders, 76 years old, who left his home at 2110 South 56th avenue, Cicero, shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning and has failed to return.

LINCOLN LAUDED IN TALK HERE BY DIXIE GOVERNOR

Gov. Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina in an address before the Sunday Evening club last night at Orchestra hall paid tribute to Abraham Lincoln as "the supreme example of both the patriot and the religious man."

"Lincoln held it to be his duty to be concerned about the welfare of the humblest citizen as well as the most prominent," Gov. Hoey said. "To him there were no classes. A good patriot must be a religious man, and likewise a truly religious man ought to be a good patriot. Both are concerned about the welfare of the citizens of the republic."

Gov. Hoey declared that "in any nation citizenship is important and has its duties, but in a republic the duties, privileges, and responsibility of citizenship is doubly important."

Mr. Hoey was introduced by Gov. Horner, who said it is a real tribute to Lincoln that the south has come to recognize him as a great leader.

VITAMINS PLUS . . .

You do not need to be told that the "vitamin" story is a true story. Again and again, experience has proved the obvious benefits of including vitamins in a daily routine.

Some people take vitamin-content foods to help them sleep, to reduce their susceptibility to colds, to step up their vitality. Others . . . to clear up their skin, make their nails less brittle, or aid their digestive processes. They take them as food for beauty . . . and food for health.

And now . . . you can get all six vitamins . . . A B C D E G (with carefully determined quantities of liver extract and iron for plus effectiveness) in easy-to-take capsule form.

Two tiny capsules to take at mealtime once a day, and that's that! So simple. So effective. People who have taken them tell us they notice the difference in a short time. Begin today . . . and know that you're getting your vitamin routine complete! 24 days' supply, $2.75.

A FAMINE GUARANTEED.

The conference report on the bill to establish a dictatorship over farmers was steam-rollered through the house in four hours and according to advance notices will be handled in much the same way in the senate.

While it is impossible to say with much assurance precisely what the bill provides, the general scheme is fairly clear. Under previous arrangements a farmer who was willing to forgo the subsidies could, in the main, escape regimentation. Under the new scheme, if a specified majority of farmers growing a particular crop—say corn, for example—votes for the imposition of a quota, all farmers in the corn belt must accept the dictation of the secretary of agriculture as to the amount of corn they may market or suffer severe penalties. As the secretary has devoted the greater part of his energies in the last four years to building up a political machine in the farming areas, the requirement of a vote provides no such safeguard as the naïve might expect it to do.

The plan will fail of its objective of placing agriculture on a secure basis and the failure may well prove disastrous not only to farmers but to the rest of the population as well. To the extent that prices are raised artificially, consumption of farm products will decline and surpluses will be accumulated. In the face of these surpluses, acreages will be restricted. Sooner or later drouth or parasites, or both, will attack this already dangerously small acreage. The result may be catastrophic.

It was fortunate for the people of this country that when precisely this chain of events occurred a few years ago there were supplies of breadstuffs and meat in foreign countries to fill the American need. We drew on the Argentine and South Africa for corn and upon Poland for hams and bacon. It is far from certain that we shall be so fortunate another time. Short crops abroad might leave no surplus for export to America. War might close the seas to ships. Other contingencies could arise to bring about a desperate shortage of foodstuffs in this country. If we do not grow a supply of foodstuffs adequate for our needs—as the farmers of this country have done until the present régime in Washington interfered—we are giving a hostage to famine.

The new farm regimentation scheme invites the coming of the day when for the first time in our national history there will not be enough food in the United States to go around. When that time comes the rascals who perpetrated the scheme will be cursed for the crime they have committed, but they may be out of reach.

CONGRATULATIONS, MR. BLEDSOE.

There were two significant features in the announcement recently made by the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fé railway that both coach and Pullman services to the South Pacific coast will be immediately improved. First comes the thought that whereas five years ago the construction of a single streamlined train was headline news, the railroads are now ordering them by the dozen. The second is the rapid approach of daily forty hour service to the Pacific coast—or as the railways prefer, 39 hours and 45 minutes.

Of course, there remain several matters to be adjusted, including the mail and express distribution to intermediate points, but the public demand for daily fast through trains obviously exists. Such answers to requests for reservations as, "We can give you an upper next week, a lower the week after next, or a compartment in March," could not continue. THE TRIBUNE extends congratulations to President Bledsoe and the members of his staf for the present improvement as well as promises of further innovations in the very near future.

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN.

The verdicts of New York juries of award are notoriously bad, but we submit they never did a worse job, not even in distributing the Pulitzer prizes, than they did the other day in giving an Elsberg prize to Mary Nolan.

The Elsberg prizes go to children graduating from the elementary schools of Manhattan who have made the best records "in spite of physical handicaps or other serious obstacles." There was no question about Mary's scholastic attainments. Her report card showed nothing but A's. She is president of her class. Her attendance has been perfect. Her teachers say she is "tactful, courteous, and unassuming." So far as her record is concerned, Mary was a natural for the $150 award.

Where the jury erred was in regarding Mary's chronic sinus infection as a handicap. Obviously the members of the jury never shared this otolaryngological treat or they would not have taken so gloomy a view of it. There is nothing like an active sinus [or antrum, we hasten to add] to sharpen the wits, brighten the eyes, give one zest for the day's work, make of routine tasks a delight. The fortunate possessor springs from bed in the morning with a smile on his lips and a song in his heart.

"How happy I am," he says to his face as he shaves it, "how happy I am that the day is cold and damp and the sky overcast. If it were warm and sunny, Bill would not get the maximum of pleasure from his departure for Arizona. I shall tramp through the slush to the railroad station to see him off. I shall take particular pleasure in the contrast which he will draw between here and there. Good old Bill is a delightful eccentric who just can't seem to get much fun out of a northern winter."

As every one should know, the place to see happy faces is the waiting room of a distinguished nose and throat specialist. No one in that setting has any doubt of the essential goodness of the universe. Conversation among the patients soars as on wings. All is gayety except for an occasional snort or wheeze from the other side of the door, and to these interruptions almost no attention is paid.

Sinusitis, correctly appraised, is not a handicap but a boon. It is what makes the world go round and round.

THE NAZIS TRY A PASTOR.

The best that can be said of the trial in Berlin of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller is that it would have been worse in Russia, and worse only because there would have been no trial at all. One view of the difference might give preference to the Russian method because it would lack pretense. Niemoeller was a distinguished naval officer in the world war and a loyal one. His offense to the Nazi state is one of courage in a matter of the conscience. He is a pastor in the Evangelical Lutherar church, called the Confessional, and, although indicted as a public enemy, his crime is merely that of resisting the state invasion of his religious beliefs, his right to hold and expound them, and the right of his congregation to hear him.

There is nothing to show that the Rev. Mr. Niemoeller was a political enemy of Hitler Fascism except as it undertook the suppression of religious beliefs and forms of worship. He was dauntless in his support of the rights which are guaranteed to free citizens in a free land, rights which immediately fall under the hammer of autocracy when it tries to mold all human beings into automatons which are to think, believe, and act as they are directed from the control room.

Such autocracy must either use the church or suppress it. Some crazy Nazi zealots, including the late Gen. Ludendorff, tried for a while to substitute the old Germanic paganism for Christianity. The state itself has insisted upon subordinating the churches to its own use, depriving the preacher in his pulpit and in his social work of all authority not derived from the state itself. The accused minister is being tried in secret. His demand for public trial is rejected by the judges. The reason for this is apparent.

The state does not dare risk the open sessions which, even under press censorship, might reveal details of governmental terrorism to the people. The subjection of a people rests for one of its legs upon the suppression of information and the distortion of news. When the Nazis gave a public trial to the men accused of burning the parliament building they strengthened the public conviction that the incendiarism was the work of Nazi fanatics themselves. As a government maneuver the trial was a fiasco, resulting in the beheading of an alien idiot. As a fiasco it was a lesson. Now when the government seeks a judicial cloak for the execution of a star chamber decision against an upstanding citizen it resorts to the secret trial.

THE WEST SIDE SUPERHIGHWAYS.

The release of two plans for west side superhighways that have been approved by Mayor Kelly's committee of six engineers is interesting in one respect, but depressing in another. It shows the subject has not been pigeonholed by the administration, but shows also an inclination to wander all over the place in search of trial lines when a perfect solution is obvious.

The Congress street plan is clearly and primarily in the interest of real estate speculation. It is based on the obsolete Burnham plan, which was conceived before the day of the automobile and the advent of three dimension city engineering. Congress street has a disadvantage shared by few other west side arteries in that it involves an enormous outlay for the purchase of real estate and buildings, to say nothing of the delays that would result from the prosecution of condemnation proceedings. If such a plan has merit, it should be applied either to Roosevelt road, from which the street car tracks could be removed, or to Madison street.

The North Western railway embankment plan is superior to the Congress street project, but also involves the acquisition of private property with resulting delays. The time may come when such an artery may be desirable or even necessary, but why sacrifice thousands of lives on an alternative when an easier solution is practically forcing itself upon the city? The Lake street elevated structure is available. It is worthless to its operators because its finances are continually in the red. As has been demonstrated, its cars are a menace to life. The city should acquire the property without delay as a direct solution to several problems, but principally that of pedestrian safety.

FACTS TO FIT THEORIES.

[Kansas City Star.]

It is interesting to observe that trait of human nature which insists on making facts to fit theories. Since the appearance last fall of Ferdinand Lundberg's book, "America's Sixty Families," it has been repeatedly used as gospel by enthusiastic New Dealers, including Secretary Ickes, although critics have torn it to pieces on its inaccurate statements of supposed facts.

An example of Mr. Lundberg's methods is given by correspondence now in progress in Editor and Publisher. Carl V. Van Anda, the accomplished former managing editor of the New York Times, has been calling attention to its statements about the ownership and management of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, which is controled by the estate of its founder, L. E. Holden. His son-in-law is president of the company publishing it.

Mr. Lundberg's theory is that the family of Mark Hanna has the controling interest, and that "the active personal management" is by "three grandsons" of Hanna. It happens that one grandson is connected with the News, which was once the property of Dan Hanna, Mark Hanna's son, and was later absorbed by the Plain Dealer and became its afternoon paper. One of the three Hanna grandsons is dead, and the other is not connected with the newspapers.

The ownership and management of the Plain Dealer are familiar to the newspaper profession. But the facts did not fit with Mr. Lundberg's theories. So they went into the discard. President Roosevelt was wary enough to speak of the book as disclosing an interesting situation, but to stay away from details. He was wise in view of the fine fervor and impressionistic methods of the author.

WHY THEY STOPPED THE PRESSES.

The Wheatland (Wyo.) Record calls attention to a typographical error in its own columns. The linotype operator dropped a space band in a story about President Roosevelt's address in which the people were referred to as "the masses." It came out "them asses."

"THEATER STORIES? After more than 25 years in the show business I can tell 'em. About the great, the near great, when Chicago was young, . . . I toured with Emma Eames—around the world with a magician—Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Sophie Tucker, Eddie Cantor—I knew them when . . . They did nine shows a day and every time they got to the foot of the green room steps, the call boy would yell 'You're next!' And they'd grab their heads and cry, 'My Gawd! Again!' There was the Italian prima donna who traveled with an Italian band and who lost a diamond ring. . . . She even had the fire department on the scene. But if you write about such things, editors think you concoct them. . . . I have been through a forest fire, a railroad wreck, a typhoon at sea; I have seen theater panics, but that night of the lost ring stands out as the most exciting, excruciatingly funny, and goofy night I can remember. Even more so than when the day I caught a loaded iron pipe thrown at an Indian prince in Pushawar and yanked the fuse out before it could explode. It burned my fingers and I had to play the piano with one hand . . ." Hank Schindler.

The Postal Guide Doesn't List It.

Since it was you who first gave Dime Box, Tex., publicity when you mentioned that Mr. Stamps is postmaster, you may be interested in this: From two sources, one a personal correspondent and the other The Reader's Digest, we are informed there is a Dime Box in Tennessee. Mr. Stamps says Uncle Sam lists no such postoffice. We won't have it! And if it is there, it is a counterfeit.

Hunting in the Wilds of Webster.

A fellow bent over the dictionary in a corner of the Lake Shore Athletic club library was seeking the precise meaning of the word "helix," when he caught sight of "hebetude." Hebetude is a synonym for stupidity but, more important, it led the adventurer to "hebetate," which means "to dull or blunt, as awns." Tracking down "awns" uncovered the fact that it is "esp. on the glumes of grasses." And glumes is a "characteristic bract of the inflorescence of sedges." Robert Carlson, checking up on a piece about all this in the club's weekly news bulletin, found that a "sedge" is a "cyperaceous plant," and that a cyperaceous plant differs from grasses by having achenes instead of seeds. Achenes—in case you care—are indehiscent.

ALL OF WHICH brings to mind that two volunteer stooges (Sadella Victor and Mayo Winsberg), who were enjoying a little café life in the New Boulevard room at the Stevens the other evening, noticed that the young woman at the next table was reading Roget's Thesaurus.

REST AND EXERCISE IN ARTHRITIS.

EVERY victim of that almost universal malady—arthritis—understands that rest is essential to recovery. But, as many explain, lying in bed—possibly for months—is often accompanied by a sense of muscle incapacity if not downright weakness. While we cannot hurry the process of convalescence from an acute attack, we should keep in mind that the winning of the battle against this all too often chronic disease may depend upon the maintenance of strength.

No one will quarrel with the dictum that as long as there is fever or gross pain the subject should remain in bed, but some activity may be indulged in nearly every day. I have watched with great interest the method of procedure followed by many authorities and have been impressed with the need of supporting the function of muscles, even while the person is bedfast. The physician who insists routinely that the sufferer shall manage his own exercise problem in some form has, by all odds, the best record for returning his patients to health.

But some will say, "How can one exercise when joints are painful?"

Here are some suggestions:

Through breathing, the diaphragm and the structures of the back, abdomen, and chest may be strengthened. I have seen this develop a chest which had been anything but a model of air capacity. For example, a full breath is taken, whereupon the abdomen is contracted tightly. The air is then expired, with the abdominal region held tensely. After two or three inhalations and exhalations, the body is then relaxed, with the abdomen flaccid. This is repeated ten or twelve times morning and afternoon. Not only are the diaphragm and the abdomen kept in tone, but the muscles of the chest and the trunk are aided materially.

Another plan—with the patient on his back—is to place a book upon the abdomen and inhale deeply, the hand adding somewhat to the pressure. Lifting the weight sustains the strength of the abdominal muscles.

If the hips and knees are not affected many useful motions may be carried out. The first move is to draw up the knees with the feet resting flat on the bed. The patient then turns the head from side to side several times, or raises and lowers it on the pillow, at the same time pinching the muscles of the buttocks [gluteal] together.

Every joint that is not inflamed should be moved to the limit of its power without eliciting pain. This should involve particularly the fingers, toes, ankles, and wrists. Flexing and extending each of these joints may be practiced ten or twelve times, and the program repeated within two or three hours.

It must be remembered that "hot or red" joints should be permitted no activity whatsoever. Sometimes it is wise to bandage them snugly, so that they will not retard movements of other parts of the body.

As soon as walking becomes possible—even a few paces—the toes should be curled as firmly as possible beneath the foot and several steps taken, with the foot held straight or the toes pointed slightly inward.

Any of these exercises can be performed with far greater ease under water. That is the reason that tub baths are so helpful to the arthritic. A patient who cannot stir an ankle or a knee while lying in bed may be able to do so with no discomfort when in a warm bath. If the water is not too hot there will be no ensuing sense of weakness. It can be held at 88 or 90 degrees without the least danger of developing that "all gone" feeling. Twenty to thirty minutes once daily in the tub may save weeks of confinement in bed. These exercises can be begun even before the patient is able to navigate to the bathroom.

There is another reason why the contraction and relaxation of muscles is desirable. We recognize that circulation is the healing agent and that the disease depresses it. The more active muscles can become the greater will be the blood supply.

THE EARS AND AGE.

Mrs. F. S. writes: I am 70 years old and, while I hear distinctly, I am troubled at times with head noises—mostly in the left ear.

Is it just old age and must I forget it, or is there something I can do about it?

REPLY.

You may have what is called otosclerosis, which means hardening of the structures within the middle ear. Keep the external canal thoroughly clean, as occasionally hardened wax is responsible. If too much water is retained within the body tissues, ringing or chirping noises may be heard incessantly. Reducing water consumption sometimes brings relief. Make certain also that the Eustachian tube [leading from the throat to the middle ear] is free and open. Hot gargles may help.

IRON AND THE BLOOD.

Mrs. L. M. B. writes: I have been taking iron to try to put on weight and am gaining slowly.

Is there danger of taking too much iron, or can it cause kidney or gall stones? Will it build red blood cells?

REPLY.

Iron is necessary in the manufacture of hemoglobin—the red coloring matter of the blood. If you lack this substance it should be taken; otherwise not. Food and rest will do more to help you put on weight than all the drugs in the shop. But nature is kind and will make an effort to excrete surplus iron if you now have enough. There probably is no danger of kidney irritation or gallstone formation.

SEE THROAT SPECIALIST.

S. W. E. writes: I have been troubled with hoarseness for over two years. My throat is not sore, but seems to be sensitive. My tonsils were removed when I was a child. I smoke about a dozen cigarets a day, but do not inhale.

Must I give up smoking? Or shall I paint my throat with iodine?

REPLY.

The most frequent cause of hoarseness is overuse of the voice. I would suggest a visit to a competent throat specialist who can examine the vocal cords and treat the inflammation, whatever the cause. Hot packs to the throat may help. You are not smoking enough to account for the condition. Iodine is not advised.

MAY IMPROVE THEM.

F. E. H. writes: I am 16 years old and have weak ankles which have a tendency to turn. Will ice skating hurt them?

REPLY.

No, skating probably will strengthen them.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN. — Germany's production of synthetic gasoline will no longer be dependent upon her supply of soft coal, according to Dr. Franz Fischer, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm institute for Coal Research in Muelheim. In a lecture before the German Society of Chemists he revealed a process for making gasoline, fuel oil, lubricating oils and paraffin from anthracite coal. Stating that the process was already being used in industrial production, he predicted that it would now be possible for Germany to produce several hundred thousand tons of gasoline per year with the new method.

Dr. Fischer, co-inventor of the new process, described how the coal was broken down into its smallest, gaseous molecules—carbon dioxide gas. Using this gas as a base, the process builds up the molecules, with the addition of hydrogen, to the liquid molecules of gasoline, the larger ones of fuel oil, and the still larger, solid molecules of paraffin.

Carbon dioxide gas is obtained from anthracite coke, and hydrogen from water which is passed over the glowing piles of coke. At a certain temperature, and with a certain catalytic contact material, the bases unite to make water gas. Using the Fischer-Trobsch process, one cubic meter of this gas will yield about 210 grams of oil, which contains about 60 per cent gasoline, 22 per cent fuel oil, 7 per cent paraffin, 3 per cent ceresine and 8 per cent light carbohydrates.

Describing how the two chief difficulties of finding a suitable catalytic contact and maintaining an even temperature had been overcome, Dr. Fischer stated that the new process was already being used in the gasoline industry. The products obtained, he said, showed valuable new qualities which not only made them suitable for use in their pure form, but also for increasing the efficiency of normal fuel and lubricating oils.

Further, Dr. Fischer stated, the Fischer-Trobsch process can be so regulated that almost any amount of a given product can be obtained. Thus it is possible to direct it in such a way that the yield is 50 per cent paraffin instead of only 7 per cent. This, he hopes, will make it possible to replace many of the fatty acids needed in industrial processes which are now made from animal or vegetable fats, depriving Germany of much of the fat needed for human consumption. From paraffin many of these fats can be obtained for industrial use.

The Fischer-Trobsch process, it has been found, can also be made to yield special high quality oils which are valuable for combustion motors. One of these, according to the inventor, is a lubricating oil of which the viscosity point is so low that it can be used winter and summer, while another is said to remain unaffected by chemicals and acids originating in combustion motors. It also has no corroding effect, Dr. Fischer claims.

Fischer-Trobsch gasoline, according to its producers, has very high anti-knock qualities and, mixed with ordinary gasoline, increases power. The fuel oil produced by the new process, states Dr. Fischer, is more easily ignited and, in internal combustion motors, makes it possible to build lighter and faster Diesel motors.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Have purchased first gold mortgage principal note dated February, 1929, payable two years after date, amount $500—marked Note A. There was issued at same time note B, amount $3,000, payable five years after date. After paying for note A, party delivering same to me wrote in a corner of note an extension of three years in order to have notes A and B payable same dates and asked me to indorse the extension on note A.

1. I have accepted this note but did not sign under written extension, note A not having my signature anywhere.

2. Both notes are overdue and interest has been defaulted for last four years.

3. Have been told by having the three year extension written on note A gives note B first preference over my note. Is this correct, even if my signature does not appear under written extension?

4. Holder of note B has made a secret agreement with property owner, receiving monthly payments on note B.

5. Is this procedure within the law of state of Illinois in which property is located?

6. Please advise which note has preference in foreclosure.

7. Would note be outlawed after February, 1939? Taxes due on the property amount to about $400.

8. Would appreciate full information, also amount of foreclosure, giving estimated cost of such procedure.

F. J. S.

1. If you mean that at the time of the original delivery of the instrument it bore this extension notation, then we would regard you as accepting the instrument subject to that notation.

2. If you mean that the five years have run, then we see no importance to the distinction between the notes, regardless of the notation.

3. If the earlier note had a preference it would be in disregard of the extension rather than because of the extension.

4. In such circumstances we advise you to place such instrument in the hands of an attorney.

5. There is nothing illegal in a debtor's preferring one of his creditors. The remedy of other creditors is to bring court proceeding to enforce their rights.

6. We see no basis for preference between the legal rights if both parties press their claims.

7. No. The limitation period is ten years from the maturity date.

8. If your note contains express wording as to the relationship between the instruments with reference to foreclosure, that wording would control.

HOLLYWOOD HICKS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 11.—I certainly got a kick out of your editorial about "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The payoff came when I turned to the amusement section to see that "Stage Door" is playing in Chicago now. I saw this picture on a double feature program here in Minneapolis two weeks ago at our Palace theater for 15 cents a throw.

And I thought I was coming to a hick town when I came here!

JAMES L. ROGERS.

HE SEES 'EM FIRST.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 11.—I saw "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" today here in Louisville for 27 cents admission price and no reserved seats. Being a commercial traveler covering a radius of 1,000 miles from Chicago puts me in position to review and to advise my family and friends, away in advance, on movies that eventually show in Chicago. Chicago leads the world in many things, but in movies she is relegated to the same category as tank towns!

I notice that our local movie exhibitors claim that when Chicago does see these much propagandized movies we pay a substantially lower admission price than New York, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, etc. This is pure unadulterated bunk, because they are simultaneously shown in the smaller cities at regular prices. The only answer is that the "preferred" big cities are suckers for the high admission prices for first runs and that Chicago gets no chance to prove whether it is a sucker or class Z Z movie town.

If a little sense were used by our intelligent exhibitors, they could show these pictures at slightly higher than regular prices downtown and in leading outlying sections and have full houses. Their return certainly would be greater in money than the receipts from these smaller cities, don't you think so?

D. L. FRANCESCON.

ARMAMENTS.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Why the tremendous increase in war armaments at this time? Aren't there any other more constructive uses that could be found for all that money?

We still have with us one-third of the population ill fed, ill housed and ill clad. Why not destroy the slums and spend that money for schools and playgrounds?

Of course, the militarists will cry: But this is for defending our country against aggression. The late Admiral Sims said that no foreign power or group of powers could operate across the oceans and stand a chance in combat with forces operating from the home base. Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur has declared that an attack on American ports is impossible. The fact of the matter is that this huge, unprecedented increase in armaments proposed by the President is for the defense and expansion of American interests abroad.

RAYMOND CARLETON.

ACCIDENTS IN SCHOOL SHOPS.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Much publicity has been given to vocational training in our high schools to give our young men experience in handling tools, but after hearing of two recent accidents in our Senn and Carl Schurz workshops I am tempted to ask what value the education if we send the boys out into the world maimed and crippled. In both schools improperly guarded electric buzz saws were blamed. I wish an outside committee, not connected with the school system and politics, would be appointed to make a survey and report. The one place next to the home that we expect the utmost in safety and care is at our schools.

WAGES DURING ILLNESS.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—In the Feb. 8 issue of THE TRIBUNE there appeared an editorial under the title "Wages During Illness."

First of all I want to congratulate THE TRIBUNE for inaugurating this system, and secondly for bringing it before the eyes of the public.

What I would like to know is, why do not all employers use the same system, or a similar one? At a cost of 6-10 of 1 per cent it seems to me that the morale of the employés, and the results obtained in better efficiency and good will, would more than offset the cost, leaving the employer money ahead.

On the other hand a good many employers look only at the dollar that leaves their pocketbooks. In these cases I believe the employés themselves would be willing to donate the required ½ of 1 per cent or so from their salaries for the privilege of working under such a benevolent plan.

I speak from experience along these lines, having been employed for almost ten years where the general attitude is, "If an employé is ill, or for any other reasons cannot take care of his work, that is just his hard luck, as we can always find some one else who would be glad to take his place at less salary."

C. W.

EASY MONEY.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Judges are continually hearing cases involving automobile accidents and are consequently much interested in safety promotion measures. I was, therefore, attracted to a newspaper item telling of a suggested plan of transcontinental highway construction by the government to cost an estimated eight billion dollars and to be liquidated by toll payments.

If a plan of that magnitude is adopted there would be a good chance to provide for two classes of roads, namely, those for heavy trafic, such as trucks and buses, and those for pleasure vehicles. If a plan like this were adopted it would make driving more pleasant and more safe. It would result in fewer trafic jams and fewer accidents and would, at the same time, cut driving time without the necessity of accelerating speed.

All large cities now provide streets where commercial trafic is not allowed. The plan should be applied to certain cross-country highways as well.

FRANK M. PADDEN,
Judge, Municipal Court of Chicago.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—With the relief burden constantly increasing and a hue and cry going up for more revenue, why is it necessary for the state offices to call private employment agencies for applicants to fill jobs? It seems to me that with the huge appropriations, which are set aside for free employment service, it should be possible for this office to care for the mediocre jobs with which state inspectors and relief offices might come in contact.

The private employment agencies in Illinois have been persecuted shamefully, and now these same political parasites who have persecuted them, are calling on the private agencies for assistance in obtaining applicants. Why?

BEWILDERED.

SPANKING A BABY.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—The other day I read an article on the front page of THE TRIBUNE which referred to a young woman spanking a 2 month old baby. Occasionally news items are somewhat exaggerated, but if this situation was true, it should be the duty of a humane society to place the child in better hands.

SHIP WILL BLAST ICE TO REACH 4 IN POLAR CAMP

Must Open Twenty Mile Channel in Pack.

MOSCOW, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The polar rescue ship Taimyr planned a desperate effort today to blast a channel through the last twenty miles of ice-packed Greenland sea to the floe on which four Russian scientists have been drifting through Arctic seas since last May 21.

Throughout last night the rescue party aboard the Taimyr exchanged signals with the ice-bound campers by searchlights and flares. On a neighboring floe in the jumbled ice field the campers hastily were clearing a landing field for the airplanes carried by the Taimyr.

Lack of a spot for the planes to take off, however, caused the rescue crew to plan to blast a way almost to the floe and then bring the campers by foot across the remaining yards of treacherous ice.

The Taimyr radioed Moscow she was ploughing through the thick ice at about five miles an hour, within easy sight of the mountainous coast of Greenland in the clear moonlight.

CITY'S BUSINESS LEADERS PRAISE GREEN'S STAND

Vision Union of Labor and Capital to End Slump.

William Green's appeal to give industry a chance to make a fair profit will supply a splendid opportunity for capital and labor to work together for mutual prosperity, if the American Federation of Labor fulfills his declarations, Chicago business leaders said yesterday.

Mr. Green, president of the A. F. of L., said in his speech in the Palmer house Friday night that labor recognizes that, for the good of the worker, business must be allowed to operate without destructive dictation from the government.

"I was favorably impressed with Mr. Green's statement of principles, which are sound and helpful to business," Robert H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., said. "I have discussed the speech with several business men and they all agree that it was a fine gesture toward business. I would like to see Mr. Green carry out his words."

L. G. Blessing, president of the Bastian-Blessing company, said he discussed Green's assertions with several business leaders and all thought it was the finest offer from a labor leader in years.

A Little Fellow Speaks.

Joseph B. Kleckner, president of Montiograph, Inc., who attended the little business men's conference in Washington, said:

"The speech was very constructive and shows a decided improvement in labor's attitude toward capital. The A. F. of L. is beginning to demonstrate outstanding leadership."

J. E. Otis Jr., president of Stewart-Warner corporation, said that if Green's attitude is carried into action it will be a new departure in labor's approach to business.

"With labor and business working together in a complete understanding," said Mr. Otis, "we can pull this country out of its economic slump."

The head of one of Chicago's biggest merchandising companies, who withheld his name, said the tactics of the C. I. O. and the New Deal have caused industrialists to fear that the management of their business would be usurped.

"Mr. Green," he said, "has voiced some sound thoughts. It is encouraging to see in at least a portion of labor a better realization of elemental truths."

Labor Leaders Back Green.

A number of labor leaders declared themselves in agreement with their national president.

"We are prepared to go out of our way, if we must, to reach permanently a definite contractual relationship between employer and employé, in which each respects the other's legal rights," said William Schoenberg, A. F. of L. director in the midwest.

James Petrillo, leader of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, said Mr. Green's statements ought to satisfy employers that they should go along with the A. F. of L.

Martin Durkin, director of the Illinois department of labor, said he agrees with Mr. Green that the cooperation of both labor and capital is essential to prosperity.

Mr. Green left Chicago for Washington yesterday without explaining how he will qualify as A. F. of L. president as a result of his recent resignation from the United Mine Workers' union, which was formally expelled for its support of the C. I. O. He is honorary member of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, but this does not supply the voting membership needed to be an A. F. of L. officer.

WOMAN REACHES MAYO CLINIC IN RACE FOR LIFE

Rochester, Minn., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—Thirty hours after she left Houston, Tex., Mrs. Charles Epstein arrived here tonight to undergo an operation for removal of a brain tumor that is threatening her life. She was unconscious when taken from the train on which she had made the trip from Chicago, where she arrived early this morning by chartered plane.

Hope of saving the life of Mrs. Epstein is based upon recent advances in brain surgery illustrated by an operation upon Matthew Dempsky of Manitowoc, Wis.

Six weeks ago Dempsky was paralyzed and his memory was gone. Twenty days after an operation by Dr. Alfred W. Adson, nationally known brain surgeon, Dempsky appeared before a symposium of 500 surgeons, on the way to complete recovery. Dempsky now is back in Manitowoc and his physician believes he will be restored to normal health in two or three months, when he recovers his strength.

MOUTH HYGIENE COUNCIL POINTS TO AID IN SCHOOLS

Fifteen thousand Chicago school children are now receiving dental care through the Mouth Hygiene council of Illinois, according to figures announced yesterday. The council is a nonprofit organization of civic groups and professional men and women that work with the board of health, the board of education, the Chicago Dental society, and various chapters of the Parent-Teachers' association.

School children are regularly examined by board of health dentists and reports on the condition of their teeth are given to school authorities. The medical and dental health chairmen of the parent-teacher groups, the teachers, and the Hygiene council see to it that any defects are remedied.

The organization's fourth annual luncheon will be held today in the Stevens hotel in conjunction with the midwinter meeting of the Chicago Dental society.

WOMAN KILLED IN CAR COLLISION NEAR HALF DAY

7 Others Are Injured, One Seriously.

Mrs. Helen Pierce, 64 years old, of Lake Villa, was killed yesterday in a collision between two cars a half mile south of Half Day on Milwaukee road. Seven others were injured, one of whom may die.

Clifford Novak and his brother Donnard were riding north when Clifford's car and that of John Torgenson of 4123 Kilborne avenue collided. Seriously injured were Harriett Torgenson, wife of John, who was hurt, and Mrs. Alice Glay, 40 years old, of 4063 Colmer avenue. Less seriously hurt were Arthur Glay, 42, of the same address, and Erma Ritzman, 40, of Sterling, Ill. Mrs. Donna Novak, 31, of Prairie View, was the driver of the second car.

Confesses Killing Pedestrian.

An unidentified man, about 55 years old, was killed early yesterday by an automobile at Hamlin and Fullerton avenues. He was taken to St. Anne's hospital by Leo Segedie, 25 years old, 2206 North Laramie avenue, who said he found him in the street. Sergt. Walter Till of the Shakespeare avenue station doubted his story, and on questioning Steve Olesky, 19 years old, 2220 North Lorel avenue, and Miss Dorothy Pieutha, 18 years old, 2431 North Lorel avenue, who had been riding with Segedie, were told by them that Segedie had actually struck the man. Segedie later confessed.

John Colvin, 62 years old, colored, of 3006 Prairie avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when struck by an automobile at South Park way and 31st street. Alexander Bacci, 34, of 534 Roscoe street, was not held.

Driver Is Accused.

David Brown, 25, of 530 South Millard avenue, was charged with reckless driving after his automobile crashed into a crowd of twenty waiting for a street car at State and 14th streets early yesterday.

Six persons were injured, but all were released from People's hospital later in the day. Mrs. Rose Paszek, 39, of 4809 South Loomis street, and her daughter Isabel, 17, were the most painfully injured. Brown was released on $250 bond for arraignment today in Safety court.

Seven Hurt in Crash.

Seven were injured yesterday when a taxicab and another automobile collided at Stockton drive and Armitage avenue in Lincoln park. Four were placed in hospitals and the others were sent home after emergency treatment. Those most seriously hurt were Joseph Duffin, 25 years old, of 512 Wrightwood avenue; Helmi Asiala, 19, of 2476 Orchard street; Miss Lela Raba, 21, of 1235 Astor street, and Norman Krestense, 25, of 317 Barry avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 136 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 114 had been killed in Chicago, where 2,079 were injured in the same period.

NOTED ENGLISH BANKER KILLED IN HUNT MISHAP

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Charles Frederick Whigham, director of Morgan Grenfell & Co., English associate of the banking house of J. P. Morgan, yesterday was killed in a hunting accident near his home in Purston Manor, Northamptonshire. He was 65 years old. He was thrown from his horse and was dead when friends reached the scene.

Whigman's busiest years came during the world war when as a Morgan representative he negotiated purchases of tens of millions of dollars worth of American war materials for the allies.

Whigman, who also was a member of the London committee of the Hongkong-Shanghai Banking corporation, was born in Ayshire. He joined Morgan Grenfell in 1910.

2,744 CHILDREN TESTED; FIND 1 OF 46 HAS SYPHILIS

Stress Importance of Detecting Disease.

Among the 2,744 public school children who have so far volunteered to take blood tests, one of every 46 has syphilis.

The board of health, in making this announcement yesterday, said 59 pupils were found to be infected and 37 are being given further tests. The examinations were begun last December.

While this high ratio of syphilis is not considered representative of the entire school population, Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, chairman of Mayor Kelly's anti-syphilis committee and secretary of the board of health, said it demonstrates the importance of every Chicagoan taking a syphilis test to detect the disease before it is too late.

27 Free Test Stations.

Dr. Schmidt pointed out that free and secret tests may be obtained with little inconvenience at any one of 27 neighborhood board of health stations which were opened a week ago. This neighborhood phase of the syphilis control campaign will continue until March 12.

The stations were established not only in response to a public demand for testing facilities, but to provide relief clients and WPA workers, who cannot pay even a small fee to private physicians, with ample opportunity to be examined near home.

Addresses of Stations.

Following are the addresses of the stations, each of which will be open on the same day and at the same time for the next four weeks.

Monday—Diversey and Avers, 311 South Kedzie, 26th and Wentworth, 4253 South State, all 9 to 1, and 4647 North Clark, 12 to 5.

Tuesday—Montrose and Western, 6100 Fullerton, 2009 Walnut, 9 to 5, and 1700 West 69th, 12 to 5.

Wednesday—4016 Cottage Grove, 9 to 5; Hoyne and Wellington, 12 to 5; 3902 West Chicago, 27 East 31st, and 6312 Wentworth, 9 to 1.

Thursday — Lavergne and Belden, 2401 South Kedzie, 1223 East 55th, 8919 Commercial, all 9 to 5; 4630 Milwaukee, 12 to 5, and 368 East 63d, 9 to 1.

Friday—39th and Western, 43 East 51st, both 9 to 1, and 3955 West 16th, 12 to 5.

Saturday—77th and Ellis, 8217 South Halsted, 5645 West 63d, 2411 West 55th, all 9 to 1.

More than 600 were tested at these stations during the first week, about 50 per cent of them unemployed. Statistical results will not be known until the stations close. All individual reports are confidential.

16 STREET CARS BURN IN BARNS ON CERMAK ROAD

Sixteen street cars and two snow sweepers were burned in a fire in the Lawndale car barns at 3925 Cermak road early today. In the absence of official estimates by company officials Second Deputy Fire Marshal Joseph Mackey placed the loss at more than $100,000.

The cars were in one of seven sections separated by fireproof walls. The fire started from an unknown cause at midnight. Car crews managed to run five cars out of the burning section. Firemen, summoned by a 2-11 alarm, were able to prevent the flames from spreading.

OBITUARIES

Joseph Gassauer.

Joseph Gassauer of 835 Dakin street, known for forty years as Joe the Barber in the Criminal Courts building, died yesterday at the age of 63. Joe had cut the hair of most of the judges and other occupants of the building, but never that of a crook or a suspect. The old straight-backed chairs were good enough for Joe; he never used a modern barber chair. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at St. Mary of the Lake church. He is survived by one daughter.

John P. Lundell.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—John P. Lundell, 81 years old, a pioneer Rockford industrialist and president of the Skandia Coal and Lumber company for 20 years, died last night at his home. He helped organize and was a former president of the Illinois Cabinet company. He also helped organize the Winnebago Manufacturing company, the Rockford Furniture company, the Rockford Chair and Furniture company, the Colonial Desk company, the Rockford Desk company and the Sundstrand Machine Tool company.

Clemens Kruse.

Clemens Kruse, 58 years old, 3019 North Clark street, friend of many old police officials and politicians, died yesterday in the John B. Murphy hospital. He was known to thousands of friends as Little Casino. Mr. Kruse, who came to Chicago as a boy from Alsace-Lorraine, for many years operated restaurants in the neighborhood of Diversey avenue and Halsted street. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Sebastian church. His widow Mary survives.

Albertine Hirte.

Mrs. Albertine Hirte, 93 years old, native of Germany and a Chicago resident for 62 years, died yesterday in her home at 1928 Roscoe street from injuries suffered last Wednesday in a fall. She leaves a son, Charles G. Hirte of Chicago, and two daughters, Miss Louise Hirte, with whom she lived, and Mrs. Mary Burroughs of Yerington, Nev.

Arthur Hoffman.

Arthur Hoffman, a resident of Chicago for fifty-three years, died late Saturday night in his home at 3226 North Major avenue. He was 87 years old. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Fredericka Hoffman; five children, and five grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Tuesday, with burial in Acacia cemetery.

Abram Gaar Strattan.

Abram Gaar Strattan, a member of the insurance brokerage firm of Hus-key & Stratton, died in Pasavant hospital yesterday following an operation. He was 44 years old and lived at 340 North Sheridan road, Highland Park. He leaves his widow, Florence Williamson Stratton, and four children, Margaret, William, Frank, and John.

Motorists View Wrecked Car, Safety Drive Exhibit

Hundreds of motorists stopped yesterday to view the wrecked automobile on the front lawn of the village hall in Riverside. The car, involved recently in a fatal accident, was moved to the lawn as exhibit A in the suburb's campaign against reckless driving. One placard on the car reads: "The wreck is here, but he's gone." The car is lighted at night.

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

DEMAND OUSTER OF N. Y. BOROUGH CHIEF OVER RED

Lehman to Get Protest of Appointment.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 13.—[Special.]—The American Legion will present a formal demand on Gov. Herbert H. Lehman this week for the removal from office of Stanley M. Isaacs, president of the borough of Manhattan, because of the appointment and retention of a well known communist as his confidential assistant.

The radical against whom the patriotic and religious organizations are protesting is Simon W. Gerson, who was the communist candidate for congressman at large in 1936. He has been a member of the party's state committee and a reporter for the Daily Worker, principal Stalinist organ in this country.

Holds Ouster Powers.

Jeremiah F. Cross, state commander of the Legion, disclosed this afternoon that Judge Advocate Abraham J. Rosenblum has begun the preparation of papers in the ouster move and expects to submit them Wednesday to Gov. Lehman. Cross explained that the law gives the governor power to remove Isaacs, an elected official, but he has no power to remove Gerson, an appointed official.

Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia so far has refused to take a hand in the controversey on the grounds he has no control over the borough president. Isaacs, however, was elected last fall on the La Guardia ticket, and observers believe the mayor could use forms of persuasion other than legal if he sincerely wanted to do so.

On the other hand, the Gerson appointment is regarded in the nature of the payment of a political debt. The communist party, instead of nominating one of its perennial candidates for mayor in the city election last fall, supported La Gaurdia and his ticket.

Untermyer to Aid Legion.

Samuel Untermyer, president of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi league, announced that he would assist the American Legion in its legal proceedings. He declared that if Gerson is confessedly a member of the communist party and as such is pledged to overthrow American institutions, he has no place in the public service of any American city and should be removed.

At the same time the Rev. Edward Lodge Curran, president of the International Catholic Truth society, sent a telegram in response to a statement of Isaacs defending the appointment on the contention Gerson was a good worker and a loyal public servant. Father Curran asked whether the borough president would have appointed Gerson had he been a member of the Ku Klux Klan or a Nazi.

Indorsed G. O. P. Candidates for State Slate Meet Today

BY PARKE BROWN.

Republican state candidates indorsed by the action of the Urbana conference a week ago are expected to appear together for the first time at a meeting of the Cook county central committee at the Hotel La Salle this afternoon.

Rep. R. J. Lyons.

All six of those on the slate headed by State Representative Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville have been invited to be on hand to accept the indorsement that the county organization is expected to vote unanimously. There has been no meeting of the candidates since they became the choice of the organization created by the conference of county chairmen at Springfield last month.

Following the county committee meeting it is probable the state candidates will hold a conference of their own to outline their plan of campaigning for the primary of April 12.

Others on Slate.

The slate, in addition to the senatorial candidate, Representative Lyons, includes:

State treasurer—William R. McCauley, Olney.

Clerk of Supreme court—George E. Lambur Jr., Chicago.

This list, for the first time, calls attention to the fact that there is only one resident of Chicago on it, and that one is the candidate for the last of the six places as they will appear on the ballot.

After indorsing the state ticket the Cook county committee is expected to take up its local affairs, the principal item of business being consideration of a slate for the twelve places on the Municipal court for which nominations are to be made. There are only three Republican incumbents, Edward B. Casey, Samuel Heller, and Samuel H. Trude.

Horner-Courtney Group Meets.

Leaders of the Horner-Courtney forces in Cook county held another Sunday conference in oGv. Horner's Sunday conference in Gov. Horner's left open the question whether they will back County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki exclusively or will add one or two more candidates to their local supplement to the Horner state ticket.

"There was no decision on that or any similar question," said Gov. Horner. Congressman Scott W. Lucas, the Horner indorsed candidate for the United States senate, was present during part of the afternoon session.

Michael L. Igoe, United States attorney, who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for senator on Saturday, said official duties will keep him occupied for two weeks and that he will not open his state campaign until about March 1.

WILBUR TO OPEN ANNUAL MEDICAL CONGRESS TODAY

Fifteen hundred physicians and surgeons are expected to attend the 34th annual congress of Medical Education and Licensure which opens today in the Palmer house.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, former secretary of the interior, now with Stanford university, will address the opening session.

One hundred and fifty physicians from 16 midwest states attended the Northwest Regional conference yesterday in the Palmer house to tackle the problem of medical care for all the people. Dr. Carl F. Vohs of St. Louis was elected president of the conference.

DIVORCEE DIES IN LOOP HOTEL; INQUEST TODAY

Mrs. Matilda Yates of Mount Olive, Ill., a divorcee, died yesterday in her room in a loop hotel. Although death was believed due to a heart attack, an inquest was set for 9:30 a. m. today. Elmore Benedict, 34 years old, who was in the room when she died, was ordered to attend. He is superintendent of the American Radiator company plant, Buffalo, N. Y.

Benedict told police he met Mrs. Yates when he was in charge of the company's plant at Litchfield, near Mount Olive. She was 45 years old and the mother of a son, Joseph, 16, who lived with her.

CALL YOUR FLORIST

Thomas Stops Baldness at these Three Points

NATURE is calling for help when your hair begins to thin at the (1) temples, (2) crown, or (3) frontal point. Thinning hair at these points, or dandruff-infected, itchy scalp should warn you that your scalp needs immediate attention to prevent further hair loss. Heed these positive warnings and have The Thomas' correct the scalp disorder that is causing your abnormal hair loss.

Thomas' scalp treatment ends dandruff, stops falling hair, and grows hair—not by old fashioned hit or miss means—but by an exclusive method which is exact in every detail. The treatment is scientifically sound in that it supplies the functioning stimuli of which the scalp has been deprived through modern living conditions. It thus results in healthy, growing hair.

The Thomas' will not accept you for treatment unless they feel reasonably sure that you will obtain satisfactory results. Call at the nearest Thomas' office today, where a skilled trichologist will gladly examine your hair and scalp without charge and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do to help you retain or regain your hair. Remember—the examination is free. If you do not live near a Thomas' office, write for the Free booklet on the care of your hair and scalp.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Out on the west coast a group of dermatologists, weary of telling women with cosmetic dermalitis that they should give up cosmetics and even more weary of having the victims ignore that heart breaking edict, have set about to create cosmetics for the women who are chock full of idiosyncracies.

These, we're told, are as pure as can be. The known ingredients to which women have proved sensitive in the past are eliminated. They're a find for the woman whose skin is extremely sensitive, because they're carefully made by experts, they are efficient and the formulas have been under supervised tests for a year and more. "Nonallergic" is a term that should not be used. No preparation can claim to be nonallergic, because individual allergy is an unpredictable factor. So we won't say these are "nonallergic [we're pretty sick of the way that term is bandied about anyway], but there's every reason to believe that women with super-sensitive skins will find these preparations to their liking.

The line as it stands consists of a liquefying cleansing cream, rich creams, a marvelous powder base [light, very "spready" and a smooth foundation], powder, eye lotion and toning and astringent lotions; rouges and lipsticks will be along later.

These preparations are not in the low price class, but they aren't unreasonably expensive, either. For economy's sake, if you want to get acquainted with them, we suggest the introductory box of special sizes of powder, cleansing and richer cream, the powder base and toning lotion. Whether or not you're in the sensitive skin class, you'll like them all.

Walking Helps to Slenderize Entire Figure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Can you bear a little chat on the subject of walking?

Yes'm, I know it's a dull topic to most of you. I know my audience's ears won't prick up as they would were I about to introduce a magic potion in bottled form. But maybe, when I tell you that a woman wrote me the other day to report that she had taken six inches off her hips and four off the thighs, you'll give ear to the advantages of getting into a pair of walking shoes daily and stepping high, wide and handsome.

"It's all I did," my friend related. "I never was a heavy eater, but I am at the age when flesh piles on anyway, whether I order a pale slice of Melba toast or a plateful of the rich buttered kind.

"Know how I got started on the walking? An illness in the family. My husband, to be exact. Doctor ordered him out, so I went along. He's back to work and I'm still walking daily. I've gotten now so that I can do four miles without a sign of tiring. And that's something for a former lazybones who wouldn't walk if she had to stand on the street corner an hour to get there by car. I didn't have to do that, really, because we've always had a car which I drive myself. Incidentally, I have discovered walking is economical. I have saved a lot on gasoline and oil.

"I knew from the fit of my clothes that I was getting myself trimmed down neatly, waistline neater, along with the hips and thighs. But when the dress fitter told me the news in inches, and knowing my former figure, rejoiced with me, you may imagine how set up I am. And that's nothing compared to how I feel.

"Isn't it amazing how, when one has gotten around the forty border line, she must get the figure lined up before she feels that there is any use in refurbishing the rest of the person? Or, to put it another way: Isn't it awful the way one falls into the 'don't care' class when her figure gets set with heavy adipose tissue? I have been through it and know every last phase of 'putting off until tomorrow.'

'Anyway, I feel marvelous. Haven't had a cold, an ache, pain all winter, and that gorgeous music reaches my ears frequently: 'What on earth are you doing to yourself, Hazel? You look ten years younger!'

"'Just walking,' I tell them, and keep on walking!"

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Softly draped lines still hold the spotlight for informal attire, outside of sports clothes. Women have found shirring immensely flattering, no matter what their figure type. The pattern offered today provides for two dresses, one in street length and the other gracing the instep, ideal for informal dining and hostessing. Aside from the length of the skirt, the frocks are identical. Each has the plain V neckline, shirring originating in the shoulder seams, dolman style sleeves and pointed waistline section. This dress is really very easy to make, in spite of its apparent detail.

For the street length frock select some soft shade of crêpe and use your favorite clip at the base of the V neckline. Sheers in dark shades are ideal for the floor length model, since they are more dressy.

Style No. 3300 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material for the dress in street length.

Bashful Swain Finds Florist Friend Indeed

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Smart Sentimental Tommies take this day off to haunt the florist shops and do the job of sending out valentine tributes with a proper flourish. Helpful hints are plentiful.

Experts at the game of pleasing capricious femininity think up all sort of fancy and not so fancy floral combines while you wait. Shy swains are bolstered with boxes and go their way. Rose hearts made of tiny sweetheart roses, pierced with an arrow made of valley lilies, is just one idea out of dozens. Orchids literally bleeding with a half dozen small crimson hearts are another telling gesture.

A huge corsage of violets with either a gardenia center or a snug little cluster of red buds, or a single blood red rose, go out in transparent cellophane boxes. Bracelets of red spicy carnations in pairs are ready for a valentine dance. Red tulips, cornflowers, and purple iris, combined in an artful manner, make a brand new impression. Out-size anemones, unusually lovely and colorful, are still another way of being unusual.

One shop suggests camellias, and with each flower sends a tiny flacon of camellia perfume. This same shop sponsors spring flowers arranged in unusual combines.

One of the best valentine gifts imaginable, one that would melt the most hardened heart, is the superlative gesture . . . a weekly corsage . . . a service to last anywhere from a month to a year. The lucky recipient of such a Prince Charming gift trots into the shop each week and gets a special corsage or small lapel nosegay mixed to go with her costume.

The valentine plants are extraordinarily beautiful, white and pink azalea, white hyacinths, lovely white tulips and blazing red tulips, sun yellow jonquils, prim little pots of blooming white or pink primroses, and the utterly glamorous plants of blooming gardenias—each with plenty of healthy buds and a couple of waxen white flowers.

Showmanship of Golschmann Wins Applause

BY CECIL SMITH.

Vladimir Golschmann conducted the St. Louis Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon with immense success, recalling vividly the enthusiasm that greeted his week of guest appearances with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Ravinia Park last summer. Throughout yesterday's program the audience gave vigorous manual approval, to which were added at the end whistling and a miscellany of pleased outcries.

Once more Mr. Golschmann showed himself to be a conductor in whom outward showmanship and a flair for the theatrical are counterbalanced by inner moderation and musical soundness. In the concerts of our own orchestra we are used to moderation and soundness and have grown to admire it. On the other hand, we have not had our fair and natural share of adroit showmanship. Perhaps Mr. Golschmann has won the warm admiration Chicago has awarded to him by giving us a good show without becoming musically impious in the process.

In a program shrewdly chosen to show many attainments of both conductor and orchestra, the St. Louis musicians played substantially better than a year ago. With its fidelity to the pitch and the quality and balance of its tone much improved, the orchestra is now near the top of the list in the middle west.

Ravel's second "Daphnis et Chloé" suite was magnificently played in the virtuoso manner. Mr. Golschmann's authoritative knowledge of the brilliant score rivals that of Serge Koussevitzky, commonly acknowledged its greatest exponent.

In wholly different vein the suite from Grétry's "Céphale et Procris" opened the concert. Despite the heavy Beethovenesque orchestration of Felix Mottl, the conductor kept the music within its gracious rococo frame, phrasing each little ballet movement sensitively and delivering the whole without bombast or irrelevant fireworks. Without Mottl's orchestration and with fewer strings, Mr. Golschmann could turn his performance into a model of classic style.

In Sibelius' Second Symphony, conductor and orchestra maintained a high degree of sustained intellectual power without sacrificing either emotional momentum or nicety of detail.

Ruth Lyon, prominent radio soprano, emerged from the studios yesterday afternoon to appear at the Great Northern theater before a large and pleased audience with Albert Goldberg and the Illinois Symphony orchestra. The clear, sweet voice you hear over the air is Miss Lyon singing softly. When she uses the rest of her voice she is not so good, and I believe that she should continue to expand her success in the radio field alone.

Mozart Opera Staged Swiftly by Salzburgers

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Salzburg Opera guild, a little company of specialists vowed to the belief that the performance is more important than the stars and that a few items thoroughly prepared are worth more than a giant répertoire mounted in a less meticulous manner, moved into the Auditorium theater last night for a seven day, eight performance engagement.

This four year old troupe from central Europe, now making its first American tour, chose to reveal itself to Chicago in Mozart's comic "Cosi Fan Tutte." Produced last night under the sponsorship of Northwestern university's History and Enjoyment of Music series, it will be repeated three times during the week. Unknown items of Milhaud, Ibert, Rossini, and Monteverdi compose the balance of the group's répertoire.

The splendid routining of the Salzburg guild was apparent in the swiftness and inevitability with which the opera moved along and in the smoothness of most of the ensemble numbers. Sets and costumes are cheery and attractive.

Although the guild detests the star system, it has been tireless in winnowing out available artists in order to get the best possible people for its rôles. The result is eminently satisfactory, although one must wag a warning finger at the singers for their tendency to use full voice so much of the time. They evidently believe that a theater as large is the Auditorium demands every bit of lung power one can muster.

"Cosi Fan Tutte," written to an Italian libretto by Lorenzo Da Ponte, tells the story of two swains who tested the fidelity of their wives-to-be by disguising themselves as rich orientals and paying court to the same ladies. They found them reasonably faithful—for a time. The plot and its expert handling drew a generous number of laughs from the audience.

Do not worry about the state of music in Czechoslovakia if the two emissaries from that country who appeared at the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon are to be regarded as accurate indices of the condition of art at home. Gertrude Pitzinger, mezzo, and Ruda Firkusny, pianist, presented a program of intense interest in a most knowing manner.

Miss Pitzinger, possessed of an unforced voice of great sensuous beauty and remarkable variety of color, sang Handel, Mozart, Schubert, Schumann, and Brahms [all this in one group]. Her pianissimo is exquisite, her legato not so smooth as one would sometimes desire.

This distrust of a long, sustained legato phrase is likewise the only flaw which one could pick in Mr. Firkusny's performance. He plays Chopin in a most engaging way, retaining the music's delicacy without impairing its flow and directness. The Bach-Busoni choral preludes profited by his remarkable command of tone and by his realization of the fact that the two manuals of the organ [for which this music was originally written] differ radically in general color.

Benj. Crawford Is Betrothed to Omaha Girl

BY JUDITH CASS.

BEFITTING Valentine day is romantic news this morning concerning a popular young Chicago bachelor and a lovely young out of town girl. At a buffet luncheon Saturday at their home in Valley, a suburb of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dwight Whitmore announced the engagement of their daughter, Lida, to Benjamin Crawford, son of Mrs. Frank T. Crawford of Winnetka.

Mrs. Crawford, her son, and William Kirk McEwen, one of his oldest friends, were in Omaha over the week-end. Two birthdays added to the gayety of the visit, young Mr. Crawford's, which was celebrated at a family dinner Friday evening, and Mrs. Whitmore's on Saturday.

Bride-to-Be a Graduate of University of Chicago.

The engagement will not surprise the many friends of Miss Whitmore and Mr. Crawford, for he has been devoted to her since they met several years ago at the Dunham Woods Riding club. Miss Whitmore spent two years here completing her college course at the University of Chicago, where she was a member of Mortar Board, and she has visited here frequently since her graduation in 1935. Previously she studied two years at Smith college.

She made her debut in Omaha, and in 1931 was queen of Ak-Sar-Ben, the ball named for Nebraska spelled backward that is the gayest event of the Omaha season. She is a member of the Omaha Junior league.

Young Mr. Crawford, who is a fourth generation Chicagoan, like his father, the late Frank T. Crawford, and his brothers, Donald and David Crawford, is a Yale man. Since his graduation in 1931 he has been in business in Chicago. He is a grandson of the late Luther Laflin Mills, one of the most famous lawyers of his time in Chicago, and of the late Benjamin F. Crawford, pioneer Chicago manufacturer. No date has been set for the wedding.

Frances Lathrop Chapman Engaged to John Hollister.

Another engagement announced out of town that is of interest here because of family connections with Chicago is that of Miss Frances Lathrop Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burr Chapman of Memphis, Tenn., to John Hollister of Beverly, Mass., son of Raymond A. Hollister and the late Mrs. Hollister of Oshkosh, Wis. Miss Chapman is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Lathrop of Kansas City and Chicago. Mr. Hollister is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John R. Davis of Chicago and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Seymour W. Hollister of Oshkosh.

Miss Chapman, who was queen of the 1937 cotton carnival in Memphis, is a member of the Memphis Junior league and of the Girls' Cotillion club. She was presented to society at a ball at the Memphis Country club during the Christmas holidays of 1935. She attended Miss Master's school at Dobbs Ferry and was graduated in 1936 from Sarah Lawrence college.

Mr. Hollister prepared at Lawrenceville for Yale, where he was graduated last year. The wedding will take place late in April

Jean Hawxhurst Becomes Bride of Kenneth Birney.

The wedding of Miss Jean Hawxhurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hawxhurst, to Kenneth Oliver Birney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orville Birney, took place Saturday evening in the home of the bride's parents in Evanston. Sarah A. Patterson and George Pagels Wed at Larchmont

Larchmont, N. Y., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—The marriage of Miss Sarah Alice Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Price Patterson, to George Anderson Pagels of Albany, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pagels of Chicago, took place here last evening at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson are former Chicagoans. The Rev. Dr. Robert M. Russell of the Larchmont Avenue church performed the ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Jean Blundell of St. Catharine's, Ont. Miss Elinor Lourie of Evanston, Ill., and Miss Mollie Mae Phelps of Chicago were the bridesmaids. Charles Pagels of Chicago was best man for his brother. Ushers included Charles Blue of Chicago. A reception followed the ceremony.

After a motor trip in the south the couple will live in Albany.

The bride was graduated from the University of Illinois and from Columbia university. Mr. Pagels is an alumnus of the University of Illinois and of Iowa State college.

'Silver Jubilee' Adds Novelty to Abbey Plays

"SILVER JUBILEE."

A play by Cormac O'Daly [pseudonym]; given by the Abbey Theater company of Dublin in the Grand Opera house, Feb. 13, 1938; followed by J. M. Synge's "Riders to the Sea."

THE CAST.

Rev. Michael O'Carroll	Michael J. Dolan
Hannah	Maureen Delany
Rev. William O'Dowd	Austin Meldon
Julia Casey	May Craig
Mary Casey	Aideen O'Connor
John Joseph Barrett	Denis O'Dea
John Casey	P. J. Carolan

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The dash of novelty that followers of the Abbey Theater company of Dublin have been craving was added to the repertory at the Grand Opera house last night in the form of a comedy called "Silver Jubilee." This up-to-date example of Irish drama has the qualities that are necessary for success on an American tour: it tells a new story from a modern point of view, in the old manner and with the old charm. It was warmly received by an audience of experts.

"Silver Jubilee," prize winner in a competition which had about 400 entries, contains plenty of humor of light comedy and also some matter for serious consideration.

An old and rather crotchety priest, quietly witty of tongue and touched with a mood of disillusion about his twenty-five years of work in the parish, is the central character. The play deals with a day or two in his life, and in particular with his handling of the problem of a seduced girl, which develops some difficult angles. In the acting of Michael J. Dolan, who has spent many years in cultivating the Abbey tradition, he becomes an exceptionally appealing and amusing father of his flock, and a fine example of pragmatic religion.

Father O'Carroll is inclined to be caustic in his admonitions, especially when tried by the eccentricities of his housekeeper, a rôle which Maureen Delany plays with her usual drollery. His irony becomes sharpened when his colleague of the neighboring parish, who has a taste for wise-cracking in the modern style, drops in for a visit. But when the case of Mary Casey, who is "in trouble," comes before Father O'Carroll, his value as a priest and a comforter of troubled spirits shines out.

The fallen virgin refuses to marry her lover, who is anxious to do "the right thing," and her father, a man of wrath strongly depicted by P. J. Carolan, is all for war and against a furtive wedding. Father O'Carroll has to handle these jangling people, and also to keep the girl's hysterical mother in check. Effective dramatic situations result, in which the clerical atmosphere and the emotionalized sex problem are not permitted to stifle the play's mood of humor.

The new young man of the Abbey company, Austin Meldon, gives an excellent account of himself as the other and more worldly priest. Denis O'Dea, as the sinning youth; Aideen O'Connor, as the seduced girl, and May Craig, as the gabbling mother, are the other contributors to a typical Abbey performance.

"Silver Jubilee" will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night. "Drama at Inish" will be the bill at Wednesday's two performances. "The Plough and the Stars" will be given on Thursday and Friday and "The Playboy of the Western World" will end the engagement on Saturday.

Good Morning!

This is a triangle parade—two women and a man, with another male marking time on the sidelines and finally edging in to take prominent part in the procession.

As this woman thinks, there isn't much sense to the title, and the picture as a whole sort of slid off me without making much impression. But "Man Proof" will probably go over big with those who like their dramas ultrasophisticated. . . . One thing's certain—you're bound to like the players.

Strange as it may seem, Myrna Loy is the girl who loses her man to another femme. But, does she give up the ghost? Not she! Very frankly she goes about the business of trying to split up Alan's marriage, feeling that her great love entitles her to the breaks.

The gallantry of the wife [Rosalind Russell] and a final eye opener as to his undesirability provided by the desired man himself, finally give the right guy [Franchot Tone] opportunity to horn in with proof that in his love lies Mimi's real happiness. . . .

The playing is forthright. Some of the dialog is thought inducing; some is blah.

Miss Loy—none too kindly photographed—is her usual lovable, sincere self. Miss Russell is tops. . . . Walter Pidgeon as the bone of lady-like contention is handsome and ingratiating. Franchot Tone makes nice Jimmy Kilmartin—nice. . . . Nana Bryant is, well—pur-ty convincing as Mimi's modern, understanding mother.

But the goings-on lack the spark of spontaneity. Too talky!

See you tomorrow.

Katharine Hepburn.

Town still gabbing about Katharine Hepburn's excellent slapstick in "Bringing Up Baby." They never thought Director Howard Hawks would get her to let down her hair. She looks like the best bet out here for comedy rôles. This one, following "Stage Door," gives her two smash hits in a row. By the way, Howard Hughes is still head man in Miss Hepburn's eye.

Detective Johnny Broderick, here for a look-see, confesses privately that the wide open spaces are driving him daffy. He's hurrying back to New York sidewalks. . . . Clover club Ork Pilot Bob Grant and his Leah have set the date for April 7. . . . Wire birthday congrats to Jack Benny, the Waukegan Woo-Woo!

Paramount stockholders will be happy to learn they paid $450,000 to buy up the unexpired contract of Emanuel Cohen. . . . Kenneth McKenna and Mary Phillips are an item. . . . Now it's Wayne Morris and Nan Grey. . . . The Dick Foran heir is due the first week in May. . . . George Brent and Olivia de Haviland have turned on the heat. . . . Since Jerry Wald switched to Rosemary Lane, Leah Ray has gone back to her N. Y. honey, Sonny Werblin. . . . The girls claim that Charles Boyer is the most disappointing looker off screen, and that Cary Grant and Clark Gable are the most exciting off screen. Phyllis Brooks and Carole Lombard agree.

Mildred [Babe] Didriksen's local interest is George Zaharias, Greek rassler. . . . Shirley Ross and Ken Murray are warbling "Thanks for the Memory," present tense. . . . Prince Mike Romanoff must have found an oil well—he bets $100 a throw. . . . Darryl Zanuck will spend his vacation in England playing polo. . . . GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Abe McCandless, who framed Poco St. Vrain and made him an outlaw, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents, sent to meet at the mine and bring down the gold, are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way Hornbeck, leader of one band, persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents and get the gold. At the mountain camp Poco finds Espey Cardowan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. They dare not give each other away to Shayne, the mine manager, and his lovely daughter, Kate. Cardowan crowds Poco off the cliff and takes the gold. He joins forces with Two-Way. Posing as prospectors they are given an army escort to Rincon. Meanwhile Kate helps rescue Poco. He confesses his identity and promises to recover the gold to save her father from blame. In Rincon Poco is arrested by Sheriff Hogan on McCandless' order. Poco saves the life of a stranger, Van, whom Hogan tries to hire to kill Poco. Van helps Poco capture Two-Way and Cardowan and put them in jail. Poco brings McCandless to the jail.

INSTALMENT XXV.

ON DYNAMITE.

Poco ushered McCandless into the cell block, picked up the lantern, and unlocked the cell where Two-Way and Cardowan were waiting in silence.

Poco stepped aside and said to McCandless, "Sit down."

McCandless sat on Two-Way's cot.

"This is your town, isn't it, Mac?" Poco began.

Abe nodded.

"You own the sheriff. If you gave the word you could raise a posse of almost the whole town, couldn't you? Added to that, if you had an hour you could bring about twelve more hands from your spread out north, couldn't you?"

Abe nodded again. Two-Way was watching Poco, trying to anticipate what he was about to say, but Poco went on imperturbably.

"Your word is pretty much law here, isn't it, Mac? You'd never let a little thing like a trial stand in the way of a lynching that was due, would you?"

McCandless said deprecatingly, "I wouldn't say that," but his looks, his tone, his manner belied it.

Poco reached in his pocket and brought out the folded sheaf of papers—the insurance man's identification papers, as well as the papers Shayne had signed. He held them up and looked at Two-Way. "Remember when I took these off you?" he asked gently, sardonically. "Joker's got the mates. It's only a short ride to Fort Benjamin, where the army will back up the story about the two pack horses and what they carried." He paused. "McCandless owns this town. You heard him say so."

Two-Way licked his lips. He was sitting on dynamite, and he knew it.

Poco continued, "You know there's two men dead already over this—two men that aren't hard-cases and gunnies, two men that a great big outfit might have valued. Understand what I mean?"

Two-Way saw now what a beautiful trap Poco had set for him.

"All right. You make your proposition to McCandless," Poco drawled.

Two-Way opened his mouth to speak, then closed it and shook his head.

Poco said, "Then I'll make it for you," and he reached out the insurance papers to McCandless, who put out his hand to take them. Two-Way exploded off the cot and batted the papers to the floor. McCandless leaned over to pick the papers off the floor, just as Two-Way said, "You win, damn your black soul!"

Poco stretched out his foot and put it on the papers just as McCandless touched them.

"Leave them, Mac," Poco said. "You go out in the office for a minute. I may need you again."

McCandless, puzzled at these elaborate and wholly senseless doings, nevertheless rose meekly and went out.

When the corridor door shut, Poco said quietly, "Where is it?"

Two-Way, first cursing, said, "Down in the feed stable alongside ——"

He ceased talking, and his mouth sagged. Then he leaped to his feet.

"Great God!" he yelled, "It's gone!"

Poco knew Two-Way well enough to distinguish his sham from the real thing. Cardowan, equally astonished, started to curse with slow and vitriolic bitterness.

"The stage!" Two-Way said hoarsely. "Has it gone yet?"

"It was in town before I came into the saloon."

Two-Way sagged onto the cot. "It's there. On the stage. We bought seats on it and arranged to have the stuff loaded at the feed stable. It's on the stage, sure as hell's hot! O, damn, damn ——"

Poco turned and started down the corridor. In the office he asked Van one question on his way out.

"Where's your horse and what is it?"

"Rent stall at the feed stable. Roan, branded Cross Hammer."

"Don't let Mac talk to them," Poco said, and went out.

At the feed stable he asked the attendant, "Were you here this afternoon?"

"Sure."

"Did two jaspers leave some heavy freight here to be loaded on the stage?"

"Sure."

"Was it loaded?"

"I done it myself," the attendant said.

Poco said, "Saddle up that roan in the rent stall branded Cross Hammer and my horse too."

Back in the office, Poco said to Mac, "You can go, Mac."

McCandless left gladly. Poco searched through the sheriff's desk until he found his gun and belt, and then said, "I had your horse saddled, Sam. You've sided me all night, but now it's time for you to hightail. When I leave you'd be a fool to stay."

Sam shrugged and raised his hands, palm upwards. "Bueno. But tell me one thing before you go. What's this all about?"

"No."

Poco smiled to take the edge off his bluntness, strapped his belt on, and went into the cell block.

Two-Way and Cardowan were holding the bars like two monkeys at a zoo, following him with their eyes. Poco stepped in front of Cardowan, who let his hands fall and backed away.

"Joker," he said softly, "I used to think about you once in a while, wondering how I was going to kill you when you finally worked up the whisky guts to face me. I won't again—not from now on. You can't make a man out of a rat, not by putting a pair of pants on him and giving him guns. But get this. I won't hurt you. But if I ever see you again—if I ever get you within gun range—I'll tattoo a stripe down your back with .45 slugs and when I get done the color won't be yellow any more."

His gaze shuttled to Two-Way. He raised his hands, snapped his fingers, and with that eloquent, simple, and wordless explanation that Two-Way wasn't worth wasting words on, turned and left the cell block.

He tossed the cell keys on the desk and said to Van. "I wouldn't let them out till morning, Sam. Just leave the keys on the desk and ride off. Adois, friend."

"So long," Van drawled, and watched him go out.

Van sat there reflecting that some one, sometime, had misinformed him as to Poco St. Vrain. Tough, he was; a killer, maybe. But the only killing he seemed anxious to do contributed to the extermination of his own kind. Maybe St. Vrain was right. Maybe he should clear out of town before some one found Hogan and he talked. He rose and stretched, and looked at the door to the cell block. Even as he was wondering why St. Vrain wanted these men kept in here, he heard one of them call:

"Come in here a minute, pardner."

Roses are red, violets blue, and broccoli is green. Roses and violets are sweeter scented blossoms than broccoli, but the latter is a flower just the same, and an edible one. A bouquet of cooked broccoli, encircled by a golden ribbon of Hollandaise sauce, is a Valentine to delight the heart and appeal more directly to the regions a bit southward of that organ.

Broccoli is first cousin to cauliflower and second cousin to cabbage. Other relatives are Brussels sprouts and kohlrabi. The same cookery methods apply to all. That is, the cooking time is as brief as possible in order to prevent the development of strong flavors. A large quantity of salted water and an open saucepan or kettle are requisites.

A pound of broccoli will serve three or four persons. The tougher parts of the stalk and the largest leaves should be removed before cooking. The plant should be washed thoroughly first of all, and it's a good idea to let it stand in cold, salted water for half an hour before it is cooked in order to frighten away marauding insects, if any are present.

Fifteen to 25 minutes will take care of the cooking. Serve the vegetable at once with plenty of butter or a sauce. Lay the stalks in the serving dish with flower heads pointed in one direction and pour the butter or sauce over them. In using Hollandaise or cheese sauce pour a little about the middle of the stalks and serve more separately at the table.

Hollandaise Sauce.

¼ cup butter
2 or 3 egg yolks
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Salt, cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons boiling water

Cream the butter and place a third of it in the top of a double broiler with the egg yolks. Stir vigorously and cook over hot water [do not let water boil in lower compartment; it should merely be hot] until butter melts and sauce thickens. Add another third of the butter and stir again. Add the last third of butter and cook, stirring constantly, until the sauce is thick. This will require about one minute. Do not overcook. Add seasonings to suit the taste. Add boiling water slowly and remove from heat at once. Serve the sauce as soon as it is made.

Egg Sauce for Vegetables.

1 hard cooked egg, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
Paprika
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk, beaten [optional]

Add the chopped hard cooked egg to the medium white sauce made of all remaining ingredients except the egg yolk. Make sauce by blending melted butter, flour, salt, and a little paprika, adding milk, and cooking until smooth over low heat. A beaten egg yolk adds color and richness to the sauce and may be added after the sauce has thickened, only a few moments before serving time. It needs only to be heated through with the sauce.

No need for leftovers to look like leftovers. Get new ideas from the Tribune booklet. "Glorifying the Leftovers," on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune Tower and 1 South Dearborn street, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade.

Rival Forges Ahead as Suitor Airs Dog for Girl's Mother

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Hank's tale just goes to prove that a man can lose glamor in his girl's eyes when he becomes the too ready and willing servant, just as a woman does when her anxiety to please becomes too painfully obvious.

Hank had a good job and a perfectly terrific longing for a girl whom we may call Louise. The job interfered with his seeing the girl as often as his heart dictated. It took him out of town a month or two at a stretch, and the separation was too much for the lovesick swain. He gave up the job and luckily got another, but not so well salaried. However, it did permit him to see his honey every night in the week if he wanted to, which he did.

Pretty soon he was being accepted as one of the family, helping the girl with the dishes, running to the stores for her mother, taking her mother here and there in his car, and "even going so far as taking the dog out for airings.

Pretty soon Hank had reason to suspect a rival, not only because this rival caressed Hank's girl with every glance, but he has hair that is graying at the temples. Louise had told Hank time and again that she had a weakness for men with graying temples, and she hoped his hair soon would turn that way.

To make a long story short, Hank pretty soon found himself out on a limb, with mother and the dog still faithful, but with the girl pleading that she would be busy tomorrow night and the next. The rival is not cut after the willing-to-aid pattern that Hank is. He won't run mom's errands and has expressed himself on "dog trotters." Hank has dropped back a good many furloughs in the race, it would seem, the rival forging away up front. And we do not know if Hank can catch up. Again.

TODAY'S QUILT

Little Omar.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Any mother making a collection of animals for a menagerie of her young son's circus crib quilt would do well to gather "Little Omar" into the fold. He applies himself ideally to a simple applique block. After the two-toned saddle is applied, the eye, nose, ear, and tail are outlined in embroidery silk in appropriate colors. For those desiring an entire coverlet of camels, six applique and six plain blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement and surrounded by a four inch border and a half inch bias binding.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

tendant, wore a gown of golden chartreuse tulle with a bodice of satin. Frank Birney Jr. was his brother's best man, and John Porter, Ray Harrington, William H. Ball, and Arthur Hawxhurst II. were ushers. The Rev. Francis J. Magner, pastor of St. Mary's church, Evanston, performed the ceremony.

Mr. Birney and his bride have gone to Bermuda on their honeymoon.

Salzburg Opera Tonight an Eli Bates Benefit.

There are enough valentine parties planned for today for every one to have a gay time. Largest of them will be at the Auditorium theater tonight where the Salzburg Opera Guild will give a performance for the benefit of the Eli Bates Settlement house. The guild, which opened last night, is playing here for only one week, and tonight's audience promises to be as large and as brilliant as those of Monday nights in the years long ago when the theater was the home of Chicago's grand opera.

Many who have purchased boxes or tickets for tonight's performance will go to the Arts club for tea this afternoon to meet the artists and Serge Prokofieff, Russian composer. Mr. Prokofieff, who is here with his wife, is giving a concert of his own compositions tomorrow night at Mandel hall at the University of Chicago, under the auspices of the Renaissance society.

Special valentines will be distributed with the programs by seven pretty young women, Miss Caryl Nicolson, Miss Martha Carr, Miss Judy Butler, Miss Eleanor Wilson, Miss Margot Reid, Miss Florence Hermes and Miss Eleonore Thompson, at the benefit tonight.

Adding to the gayety will be intermission music by a drum and bugle corps of young boys of the Eli Bates settlement. "The Matrimonial Market," by Rossini, and "Angelique," by Ibert, are on the guild's program.

The director and other men of the Salzburg Guild will be given a luncheon by the Cliff Dwellers tomorrow.

Many who will be at the tea for Prokofieff and the guild from 4:30 until 6 o'clock this afternoon will go to the club at 11:30 o'clock this morning to hear H. S. Ede talk on "Henri Gaudier-Crzeska."

Mr. Ede was curator at the Tate gallery in London, England, but he now lives in South Africa, where he devotes himself to writing and painting. At 8 o'clock tonight he will talk on "English Painting" at the New Bauhaus.

Service Club Girls Usher at Nursing Luncheon Today.

The annual luncheon of the Central Council for Nursing Education will be held at 12:30 o'clock today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Robert E. Neff, administrator, State University of Iowa hospitals, and president of the American Hospital association, will speak on "Nursing Responsibilities in a Community."

It has become a tradition for members of the Service club to usher at the council luncheons and those who will usher today are Miss Joan Ford, Miss Eleanore Thompson, Miss Jean Kellogg, Miss Carlotta Lagorio, Miss Lucia Dixon, Miss Mary Jane Elgborg, and Miss Nancy O'Neill.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Magie II. will entertain this evening at a valentine party in their Winnetka home for the benefit of the regional scholarship fund of Radcliffe college.

Valentine Tea Today for Kenwood Service Club.

Mrs. Percival Hart will entertain the Kenwood Social Service club at a Valentine tea in her home, 4745 Kimbark avenue, this afternoon.

Another Valentine tea will be given by Mrs. Howard Willett, who is opening her penthouse in the Civic Opera building to the junior auxiliary of La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium. Mrs. Robert E. Langford Jr., who is vice president and chairman of the ways and means committee, will assist her mother, Mrs. Willett, in receiving.

The Lake View Musical society will give a valentine concert at 2 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel. Tea will be served after the concert.

Mrs. Quincy Wright will talk on "Foreign Policy" at a luncheon meeting of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters at the Fortnightly club today.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Kochs of Kenilworth became the parents of a baby girl Wednesday morning at the Grant hospital. The baby has been named Judith Anne Kochs. Mrs. Kochs was the former Miss Mildred Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Swift of Jefferson City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Trowbridge Atwood of Glencoe became the parents of a baby girl Wednesday morning at the Evanston hospital. The baby has been named Jill Bucklin Atwood for her maternal great-grandmother, Corabell Bucklin Beebe. Mrs. Atwood was the former Miss June Beebe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Leslie Beebe.

According to CULBERTSON

THE NO TRUMP FAMILY.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

The most difficult of all bids for average players to handle is the opening no trump and the responses thereto. This is a pity because, with correct management, the no trump family of bids is, perhaps, the most precise and most valuable in the game of contract. I recently watched a team-of-four match and saw the hand described below played at both tables. The "swing" that resulted was the dominating factor in the outcome of the match.

West, dealer.

NORTH

SOUTH

The bidding at table No. 1:

West	North	East	South
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	2 hearts
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

I do not approve of South's two heart reopening bid, even though it was wonderfully successful. True, South felt that, with East passing his partner's opening no trump bid, there might be considerable honor strength in the North hand. But he hardly could hope to bid and make game. Surely he could not foresee being doubled at a contract that would be fulfilled, and if it were just a case of battling against a part score, this is a dangerous practice in a total point team-of-four match. East, having unwisely passed to the opening no trump, did not know what to do over the two heart double, and so did nothing.

West made an unfortunate opening lead, his fourth best club. Declarer won with the ten and led a low diamond toward dummy's ten. West was afraid to duck [not that it would have made any difference] and won with the queen, then sacrificed his jack of hearts to take out dummy's trumps. [This, too, was a standoff. West prevented a diamond ruff at the expense of a trump trick.] Declarer finally ended up with five heart tricks, two clubs, and the spade king, thus going game on the doubled contract. North-South plus 620.

At table No. 2 the bidding was quite different:

West	North	East	South
1 no trump	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West's three diamond bid was a conventional Culbertson bid, advertising either the A-K-x or A-Q-x of partner's minor suit take-out. East, of course, could tell that West's raise was based on the A-Q-x, and East's hand, which originally looked like a "bust," suddenly became powerful in playing tricks. West's advertised diamond strength made six diamond tricks an overwhelming probability, and with such a nucleus it did not require much nerve on East's part to bid three no trump, since West would need only three outside tricks to fulfill the contract. [I should add, in explanation of the aforesaid convention, that West would not bid three diamonds merely because he held the A-Q-x. To make the bid he also would require a strong, rather than a minimum, opening no trump bid.]

West, of course, had no difficulty in making his contract. In fact, he ended up with an extra trick, for a total score of 630 points. The team that played North-South at the first table and East-West at the second thus gained 1,250 points on this one board.

Knowledge of Child Vital to All Parents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The old command is: Know thyself. Today my command is: Know thy child.

You must know your child in two ways. You must know him as a part of that universal state called childhood, with all that it holds of the universal experiences that are part of growth and development; with all that it holds of the changes that boys and girls go through from babyhood to and through adolescence. But you must also know your child as an individual, exactly like no other individual in the world.

You must know what your own child is like in order to guide him wisely and well; in order to bring happiness to him as a child; in order to help him to achieve later fulfillment as a mature person.

You must understand your child, accept him pretty much as he is, and manage him accordingly. The sensitive child is not treated like the impervious one; the highly keyed, ebullient child needs different management from the easy going or stolid one; the over serious girl needs a different technique from the frivolous, happy-go-lucky one, and the extremely conscientious one is handled differently from the one who takes duties, responsibilities, and his "given word" too lightly.

This regard for the individual carries over into the time when he needs to choose a life work. Here it is vital that, instead of making an arbitrary decision for your son or daughter as to what that work shall be, you let the choice be guided by your child's individual talent or capacity.

But more about this tomorrow.

The Housewife

All housewives own one or more casseroles. But now there's a stove-to-table dish that, unlike the ordinary casserole, will never chip or break. With ordinary care it will last a lifetime. That's because it's made of stainless steel, which means it will never tarnish.

Its makers assert that five of these servers do the work of twenty ordinary dishes. That means a saving of cupboard space, too. And the steel retains heat longer, thus keeping the food inside piping hot.

You can cook over a direct flame, if you wish, or in the oven, as with the ordinary casserole. The dishes have covers with knobs that will withstand high cooking temperatures. And before taking to the table, you place the baking dish or the vegetable dish or the casserole in the heat-proof tray that is sold with it, thus protecting your table. Besides these three dishes just mentioned there are two open ones, one called a breakfast dish and the other a meat dish.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There's a young man in Peoria who fights with his wife.

His name is Kenny Lottman and he's the flyweight champion of the Peoria Golden Gloves team which is coming to the Tournament of Champions in Chicago Stadium on Feb. 28. His wife has been his most efficient sparring partner while he trained for his bouts.

There's a man in Vincennes, Ind., who should go far in this year's tournament. His name is Leach and he is trained by Chief Wrinklemeat, noted Indian conditioner of athletes whose ancesters were all great fighters.

Golden Glover Herbert Such of Winchester, Ky., a heavyweight, is a theological student at Transylvania college, but in his spare hours he is a bartender. He is a member of the Lexington team.

Nice Place to Live.

Incidentally Winchester, Ky., must be a fine old town. When its conquering hero, Billy Brookshier, returned victorious from the Golden Glove wars at Lexington wearing the lightweight crown, a half holiday was declared and the whole town honored him.

If the fellow who catches your eye in the Tournament of Champions has a strange name, 10 to 1 he comes from Cincinnati.

Just listen to a few of the unusual handles carried around by Cincinnati boxers:

October Fields, E. Morning Star, Jimmy Winters, Jack Dozen, and Larry Lightfoot. In the heavyweight division, Cincinnati has a J. Dempsey. This fellow's name is really Joe and he's no relation to Jack.

But Beware! They're Tough.

In case you come to the conclusion that this Cincinnati Post team is sissified, note Light Heavyweight LeRoy McVey. He wields a knife and an ax in a Cincinnati slaughterhouse.

From Nashville comes a note of preparedness rather than humor. The heavy man, Lloyd Montgomery, is captain of the University of Arkansas football team. The middleweight champ, R. C. Williams of Nashville, knocked out Neal Kinney of Memphis, who in turn had reached the championship round by whipping a member of Uncle Sam's last Olympic boxing team.

More bulletins from Golden Gloves centers are expected momentarily. The Dayton News and the Terre Haute Tribune-Star select their teams for the Tournament of Champions tonight. Eighteen other out of town teams will be selected before the end of the week.

War on Chicago Front, Too.

In Chicago more than 1,500 amateur glove swingers will put in final drills today for the fighting that is to take place this week in three of the four sectional Chicago tournament centers.

Southsiders will see action first. They start dropping one another tomorrow night at White City. The northwest side tournament opens in Marigold Garden on Wednesday night. Semi-final and championship matches in the west side tournament will be fought in the Park Casino on Madison street Thursday and Friday nights.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's surprisingly successful basketball team again leads the Western conference. The Wildcats' victory over Wisconsin Saturday night, 27 to 23, while Purdue was stumbling through a dismal second half at Columbus to lose to Ohio State, 37 to 29, has given Northwestern undisputed possession of first place.

The Wildcats cannot be dispossessed this week even if Indiana should win from them at Patten gymnasium Saturday night. It is possible, however, for them to be tied by Michigan or Purdue, or by both of these teams. But the 1938 campaign, as far as Northwestern is concerned, is far from over. So far the Wildcats have surmounted all Big Ten obstacles except Purdue, but there are many possibilities for disaster, and not the least of several forecasts is that Ohio State may yet decide the current Big Ten fight which still can wind up with three or four teams deadlocked for the championship.

Watch Ohio State.

Ohio State must be recognized as the dark horse despite its two lickings by Michigan and a one point defeat by Northwestern, for the Buckeyes have only four games to play. Ohio State meets Illinois Saturday night, and the Illini, without Boudreau, should not be expected to win. Illinois couldn't whip Minnesota Saturday night and in the first game with Ohio State, Illinois was defeated 46 to 26.

But Ohio State's problem is to repeat its victory over Purdue at Lafayette Feb. 21, and gain revenge from the Wildcats for the 35 to 34 defeat at Evanston, after which Ohio State finishes with Chicago at Columbus. This may be entirely too much to expect, because Saturday's conquest of Purdue, after the Boilermakers had run up a 21 to 12 lead at the half, must have been as astounding to Ohio State as was its narrow escape

A Valentine Problem.

The young man approached the counter where Valentine cards were being sold.

"Have you anything really sentimental?" he inquired.

"Here's a lovely one," replied the sales girl: "To the only girl I ever loved."

"That's fine. I'll take four, no, six of those, please."

You're living in a cold, cold world
Where love lights only smoulder,
You carry ice all day, and that Gives you a cold, cold shoulder;
I used to be a timid maid,
But love has made me bolder.
Give me your hands, your lips, your heart—
But not your cold, cold shoulder.

All day you pound upon the keys
Until your fingers ache.
It seems to me, dear little girl,
You're making a mistake;
You might be scrubbing kitchen floors,
Or mending socks of mine,
And so I'm asking you today
To be my Valentine.

RONCHETTI WINS NORTH AMERICAN SKATING TITLE

Beats Schroeder in Five Mile Final Event.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Vic Ronchetti, the Chicago Tribune's Silver Skates champion of 1937, and husky 18 year old Janet Milne of Saranac Lake, today captured the senior North American amateur speed skating championships.

Ronchetti assured himself the men's senior title when he placed third in the half mile final, the opening event on today's card, and further established his right to the crown when he won the gruelling five mile final of the three day program.

Ronchetti finished with a total of 150 points, 80 more than the 70 garnered by his nearest competitor, Eddie Schroeder, Chicago Silver Skates champion of 1931, the defending champion.

Three Tie for Third.

Bernie Cannata, Chicago Silver Skates intermediate champion in 1934; Tommy Smith of Utica, N. Y., and Don Johnson of Minneapolis ended in a third place deadlock with 40 each.

Like Ronchetti, Miss Milne clinched her women's championship when she finished third in the mile, more than thirty yards behind the winner, Mrs. Eleanor Thiel Dyer of Chicago, a Silver Skates champion in 1931. Miss Edna Hanley of Staten Island, N. Y., finished in the runnerup spot with 80 points, while Mrs. Dyer was third with 70.

Other champions in the various divisions were:

Intermediate, Joe Kuezeck, Fort Johnson, N. Y.; junior boys, Clayton Whitney Jr., Troy, N. Y.; juvenile boys, Arthur Bulrice, Saranac Lake; boys under 12, Tommy Stanton, Newburgh, N. Y.; boys under 16, Geraldine Nuhfer, Cleveland; boys under 10, Jimmy Lamy, Saranac Lake, and Glen Davignon, Lake Placid, tied for first.

Wins in Thrilling Finish.

Ronchetti supplied the greatest thrill of the meet when he took the five mile event in a finish that brought the crowd to its feet.

His margin of victory over Schroeder was a matter of inches. Staying well back for the greater portion of the race, Ronchetti, on the bell lap, answered Schroeder's challenge with a burst of speed that carried him to the tape in a driving finish.

Ronchetti's triumph was all the more remarkable considering that he finished Friday's card with only 20 points. He swept yesterday's three races, however, a feat that made him heavy favorite for the championship.

Sixth Straight for Miss Milne.

Tommy Smith, Utica schoolboy, who ranked with Schroeder as one of the pre-meet favorites, faded after his opening day victory in the 220. His third in yesterday's two mile event was his only other place.

Miss Milne, in winning the women's title, won her sixth successive championship of the season. Previously she had gained women's senior honors in the middle Atlantic, eastern states, capital district, Northville and Mohawk valley meets.

U. S. TEAM WINS TRANS-ATLANTIC BOWLING MATCH

New York, Feb. 13.—[Special.]—A trans-Atlantic match between the United Swedish Bowling league of Greater New York and the Stockholm bowling forbund was held today, with the American team winning, 6,956 to 6,917. Twelve men bowled on each team. In the afternoon the first six members of each team bowled three games and scores were compared over the telephone. At night the second sections bowled and another call was put through.

Bobby Riggs Defeats Harris in Five Sets

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago defeated Charles Harris of West Palm Beach in five sets today in the final match of the Everglades club tennis tournament. The scores were 6-0, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1.

They Get Along on the Ice!

Demaret Beats Snead, 4 and 3, in Coast Open

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Jummy Demaret of Houston, Tex., won the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament today with a 4 and 3 victory over Sam Snead of West Virginia in the 36 hole final.

Demaret played consistent golf in the face of the worst weather conditions ever prevailing for a major tournament in this part of the country.

He won the first hole with a birdie 4 and led his long hitting rival from that time on. He was 3 up at the 9th, 2 up at the halfway mark, 3 up again at the 27th and pulled out to a decisive margin by taking a par 4 on the 33d.

Demaret carded a 35—40—75 for the morning round, compared with par figures of 36—35—71. The cards:

SORRELL TRADED TO AMERICANS FOR HAPPY EMMS

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The New York Americans of the National Hocky league announced today a trade with the Detroit Red Wings which brought them Johnny Sorrell in exchange for Leighton [Happy] Emms, another veteran. Both are left wingers.

Sorrell, a high scorer a few years ago, recently was ordered to Detroit's farm club, the Pittsburgh Hornets of the International-American league, in exchange for Joe Lamb, another former American. It is expected Emms will take his place at Pittsburgh.

Eugen Wins Ski Jump When Rudds' Plane Is Forced Down

Norfolk, Conn., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Al Eugen of the Sun Valley Ski club, Idaho, won the annual ski jump of the Norfolk Winter Sports association today with 227.4 points from a field of 33 entries. The Rudd brothers, Sigmond and Birger, did not compete, their plane from Chicago having been forced to remain in Pittsburgh due to weather conditions.

All tickets for the Northwestern-Purdue basketball game to be played at Patten gymnasium March 5 have been sold, it was announced yesterday by Ticket Manager Ted Payseur.

The game is the last home contest of the season for the Wildcats, who are setting the pace in the Big Ten race. The sell-out three weeks before the game sets a record for Northwestern basketball.

Tickets are still available for the Indiana game Saturday night and the Iowa game Feb. 21, it was announced. Sell-outs for the remaining three home games will bring to seven the capacity crowds of 6,000 which have seen the Wildcats in action at home this season.

PULLS TEE SHOT INTO PARTNER'S SHIRT POCKET

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 13.—(AP)—It may have been a pocket-in-one or one-in-the-pocket. Certainly it was one in a million.

Suddenly he felt a tug on his shirt front. Looking down, he discovered a ball in his pocket. Rufus Mullen had pulled his tee shot.

CALDWELL GETS WILLIAMS POST FOR 3 MORE YEARS

Williamstown, Mass., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Charley Caldwell, Williams college football coach, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Coach Herbert O. Crisler at Princeton university, today was reappointed for another three year term here.

The present contract of Caldwell, former Princeton athlete, does not expire until 1939. Crisler quit his Princeton post recently to become head coach of the University of Michigan.

Makes a Hole in One, and He's 83 Years Old

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The battered but still battling Blackhawks, who were resuscitated Saturday night by a 2 to 1 victory over the mighty Toronto Maple Leafs, were well content last night to earn a 1 to 1 tie with those same Leafs in the presence of 12,000 shrieking clients in the Chicago Stadium. Their endeavors for the two night engagement with the leaders of the Canadian division of the National Hocky league produced a rich harvest of three out of a possible four points in the standings, enabling them to retain a game and a half lead over the Detroit Red Wings, who tied the New York Americans, 2 to 2.

The customers not only were regaled with the sight of the Hawk team playing some of its best hocky of the season, but with a double-header fistic program which was a splendid augury of the punching which will be presented in the forthcoming Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in the same arena.

It's a Free-for-All.

In the eighth minute of the first period, while Cully Dahlstrom of the Hawks and Murph Chamberlain of the Leafs were engaging in a routine three rounder in one ring, Chicago's Bill MacKenzie and Toronto's Reg Hamilton were putting on a championship six rounder in another corner of the rink. MacKenzie, revealing a neat uppercut, unanimously was awarded the Golden Glove for the evening, but also was given a five minute major penalty, along with Hamilton, Dahlstrom, and Chamberlain.

While the four principals of this unscheduled performance were languishing in the bastile, Paul Thompson gave the Hawks a 1 to 0 lead in the eleventh minute of the opening period, with big Dutch Seibert drawing an assist. The Leafs finally tied it in the second period, when Syl Apps batted the puck home after taking a pass from Jimmy Fowler.

The Hawks will meet the New York Americans in the Stadium Thursday night.

Karakas Is on the Job.

Jackson of the Leafs' starting line made Karakas extend himself to save early in the opening period. He slithered through the Hawk defense and blazed a hard, high one at Mike. Mike saved with so much energy the puck sailed off his glove and into the audience.

Again the Toronto forwards converged on Karakas and, when he cleared the puck only a few feet from the goal, Chamberlin slammed it in. The goal, however, was not allowed because of teammates being in "forbidden territory" within the goal precincts.

Then came the big battle. In the eighth minute of play Dahlstrom of the locals and Chamberlin of the visitors tangled in a realistic fight and wrestling match. MacKenzie and Hamilton entered into the spirit of the occasion with flying fists. After an exchange of punches all around,

RED WINGS AND AMERICANS PLAY 2 TO 2 DEADLOCK

Gallagher's Goal in Last Period Ties Score.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 13.—(AP)—The New York Americans and Detroit Red Wings played a listless 2 to 2 tie tonight in a National Hocky league game before 7,500 spectators.

Johnny Gallagher of New York, a former Red Wing, shot the tying goal at 12:43 of the third period, a long bouncing drive from near the blue line on right wing that was well screened by a mass of players.

Sweeney Schriner gave the Americans a 1 to 0 lead at 3:25 of the second period by feinting the Detroit defense to right wing, then passing to Lorne Carr, who crossed to center ice and lifted a high shot into the net.

Carl Liscombe, Detroit rookie, tied the score a minute and a half later with a short poke from left wing, and Syd Howe sent the Red Wings into the lead at 14:59 of the period with a 15 foot drive from right wing after Schriner had been penalized for slashing. Lineups:

RANGERS WIN, 4-1

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Goalie Davey Kerr of the New York Rangers missed his ninth shutout of the season by 21 seconds tonight as the Rangers walloped the Montreal Maroons, 4 to 1, before 10,891.

All the scoring was confined to the last period. Cecil Dillon and Bryan Hextall each counted a pair of goals in the first 16 minutes of the final period to clinch victory. Earl Robinson of the Maroons fired a hard shot from well out at 19:39 of the last period to spoil Kerr's hopes of another shutout. Lineup:

all four were banished with major penalties assessed them.

Thompson took a pass from Seibert while both teams were still short and skated just over the blue line then slashed the puck at Broda. It went past the goalie like a shot in 10:47 to give Chicago the lead.

The earnestness of the checking did not abate in the first ten minutes of the second period and two penalties were assessed before it was seven minutes old. The first of these was plastered on Chamberlin, who was guilty of a hooking charge, with Shill the victim.

The Leaf wing was hardly in the cooler before he was joined by Seibert, who was ejected for called charging.

When the culprits had returned, the Leafs did succeed in making it 1 to 1. Apps took the puck from Fowler and went around the Hawk cage, ostensibly to pass out to Drillon. Instead he whirled to the left corner and slammed home the disc himself. Fowler was given an assist.

Drillon Misses a Chance.

The Gottselig line opened the third period with a heavy barrage of shots at Broda and the Romnes trio followed suit, but without profit. Karakas then got the scare of the evening, when the wily Drillon swept in on him and appeared to have him unprotected. The Leaf wing was so amazed at the opportunity, however, that he fired the puck wide of the cage.

The overtime found the Leafs harassing Karakas unceasingly, but without success. The Toronto boys were trying to use brute force in their efforts to score, but Mike was diving at the puck under their very skates and doing a fine job of stopping them.

NALON, AIDED BY CRASH, WINS 100 LAP MIDGET RACE

Duke Nalon of Chicago, who in an earlier race was pinned under his car, won the 100 lap feature race at the 124th Field Artillery armory last night.

Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis led the race for 90 laps with Shorty Sorenson of Evanston not more than three car lengths behind all the way. On the 90th lap, however, MacQuinn spun on the north turn and Sorenson was so close he smashed into MacQuinn's car. Before Sorenson and MacQuinn could get back in the race Nalon, Tetterton, and Myron Fohr passed them. Summaries:

FIRST ELIMINATION, TEN LAPS—Won by Harry MacQuinn; Bob Sorenson, second; Art Hartsfield, third. Time, 2:21.

SECOND ELIMINATION, TEN LAPS—Won by Cletus O'Rourke; Duke Nalon, second; Wally Zale, third. Time, 2:20.

2,000 TO ATTEND C. Y. O.'S ANNUAL DINNER TONIGHT

Nearly 2,000 friends of the C. Y. O. will attend the sixth annual corned beef and cabbage dinner in honor of Bishop B. J. Sheil, founder of the Catholic Youth organization, tonight in the Palmer house.

Leaders in civic, religious, social, and cultural activities of Chicago will mingle with sports stars and sportsmen.

The only speech will be given by Bishop Sheil, who will explain the work of the C. Y. O. in caring for hundreds of needy boys who are fed, sheltered, and clothed in the C. Y. O. hotel, 2944 South Michigan avenue, and the Working Boys' home, 1140 West Jackson boulevard.

BLUE RIBBONS BOWL 3,303 TO WIN TEAM TITLE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Bowling a total of 3,303 in the final day of the event, the Pabst Blue Ribbons of Chicago won the five man title in the central Illinois tournament tonight. Another Chicago entry, Budweisers, scored 3,195 to take second place and finish ahead of the Silver Seal Sodas of St. Louis whose 3,101 total had given them the lead last week.

The singles title went to Jim Ryan of Chicago with 693. C. O. Donnerr of St. Louis had 685, C. Sottrell of St. Louis and J. Bishop of Chicago each were a pin behind.

GLIDDEN, WEIR MEET TODAY FOR RACQUET TITLE

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Germain Glidden, New York, national squash racquet champion, advanced to the finals of the national tournament today and meets Leroy Weir, Detroit, tomorrow for the title. Glidden eliminated E. R. Sargent, Philadelphia, in today's quarter-finals round and then disposed of Hunter Lott, Philadelphia, in the feature match of the day, 15-10, 15-18, 18-17, 15-12. In the quarter-finals, Weir defeated Neil Sullivan, Philadelphia, and won over Sam Galowin, New York, in the semi-finals.

Theodore Manos, Pittsburgh, and A. M. Sonnabend, Boston, meet tomorrow for the veterans' title.

Northwestern Regains Lead in Big 10 Race

from defeat with Chicago a week ago. But there's Ohio State's chance. By winning these games Michigan and Northwestern, which meet in the final games of the season at Ann Arbor, may get down to Ohio State's percentage level.

Wildcats Have Defense.

Northwestern, of course, may have been eliminated from the race long before this final contest. Northwestern's elimination has been predicted ever since the Wildcats compiled a record of five nonconference defeats. But the Wildcats, with no more difficult a schedule remaining than that they have come through, cannot be counted out.

Northwestern has excelled on defense. There also has been excellent spirit. Opportune substitutions have contributed to Wildcat success. And Bob Voigts' work when he carried on at guard Saturday night against Wisconsin, replacing Jim Currie who suddenly became ill and couldn't make the trip, and the sharpshooting of Mike McMichael are offered as further reasons for victory. McMichael, this time supplanting Capt. Fred Trenkle, scored 9 points and thus became a vital factor in a third conference contest.

Purdue Plays Wisconsin.

Most important Saturday was Northwestern's skill from the free throw line. The Wildcats, although tied in field goals by Wisconsin, scored nine of eleven penalty chances. The Badgers made five in ten attempts.

Purdue goes to Wisconsin on Saturday. This game may decide the Boilermakers' fate for there is every excuse for Purdue players to have lost confidence after the second half fiasco at Ohio State. Purdue defeated Wisconsin, 40 to 34, at Lafayette.

Wisconsin may or may not hand Chicago its 33d consecutive conference defeat tonight at the Midway. From the title viewpoint is makes no difference to the Maroons and scarcely is more important to the Badgers who now have lost four games. Michigan, however, is vitally concerned tonight with Iowa invading the Ann Arbor court. If the Wolverines win they will tie with Purdue for second place.

N. U. Faces Indiana.

Michigan lost its tune-up contest Saturday night to Michigan State, 41 to 35, but this will be easily forgotten if the Wolverines win tonight. Michigan plays Minnesota and Wisconsin at Ann Arbor, Iowa at Iowa City, and Illinois at Champaign before tackling Northwestern. Although Michigan lost to Wisconsin at Madison, it can readily be understood why the Wolverines now have championship aspirations. The première contest of the Big Ten week is Indiana's game at Northwestern. The Wildcats needed an overtime period to win at Bloomington, 32 to 29.

On Thursday Loyola university begins a western trip which includes Grinnell, Drake, Nebraska, and South Dakota, this last game being played a week from tonight.

Reporter Recalls Bright Spots of the Big Dog Show

BY BOB BECKER.

Random notes on the big Westminster Kennel club show in New York. . . . Things we won't forget. . . . The way Champion Pillicoc Rumpelstiltskin, the black poodle which won best in the nonsporting group, danced and jumped around when his handler waved the ribbon in front of him. . . . The dog seemed to know it had won.

Vinton Breese, well known eastern show judge, and his mustard yellow vest. . . . The way Mrs. Morgan Belmont raved to us about Glenairlie Rover, the Labrador retriever owned by Fletcher Garlock, president of the Midwest Field Trial. . . . The two mink coated women who got down on their knees among the benches to greet a lively Sealyham.

Tom Halpin and Chris Casselman of Chicago [whose collies topped 'em all] hardly could talk when they scored their victories . . . they were that excited. . . . Those beautiful cream-colored Afghan hounds the judge passed up in the team competition. . . . That winning smooth daschund, Fax von Teckelhof, from Joplin, Mo. . . . At the last minute he ousted a beagle from first place in the hound group.

Fax, which is owned by an Irishman, Hugh O'Neil of Clieno kennels, was bred by a German and is handled by a Jew [Harold Newman].

We can't forget how the big limousine rolled up to the door of Madison Square Garden to bring visitors to the dog show. . . . Nor the stunning entry of Great Pyrenees, those big all white dogs which look like animated snowbanks. . . . The way a team of Salukis [four of 'em] got out of hand in the show ring and bowled over a woman trying to pose a smooth daschund. . . .

She laughed about it. . . . And so did the crowd around the ring. . . .

The breach of ring etiquet by a judge who had lined up his dogs against the numbers 1, 2, 3, and 4, and then switched them after he had picked up his book. . . . The bloodhound in the ring who suddenly let go with such a tremendous, deep-throated woof that all of us at the ringside jumped a foot. . . .

The way the show hummed with the news about the Chicago Kennel club going out of existence to become the International Kennel Club of Chicago. . . . The funny looking Lhassa terriers in the show. . . . They appear to be a cross between a Maltese terrier and a Pekingese.

The way C. Groverman Ellis, new president of the International club talked to us about his dreams and hopes for the show to be held the first part of April. . . . He wants a lot of features with popular appeal. . . . Gary Cooper watching the judging of Sealyhams. . . . And last, but not least. . . . We can't forget the smoothness and finish of the whole Westminster show.

AMERICAN HOCKY TEAM DEFEATS NORWAY, 7 TO 1

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 13.—(AP)—America's picked hocky team made it two straight and remained undefeated in the world amateur championship tournament today by defeating the inexperienced skaters from Norway, 7 to 1.

Led by the front line of Art Bogue and George Quirk of Detroit and Laurier Charest of Lewiston, Me., who scored two goals each, the Americans took a 4 to 0 lead in the first period and wound up with three in the third. The seventh goal was scored by the second line center, Joe Dondi, of New Haven, Conn.

Hornets and Rockets Tie; C. Y. O. Wins

The Chicago Hornets and Waukegan Rockets played a 2 to 2 tie and the C. Y. O. Shamrocks routed Whiting, 6 to 0, in Chicago amateur hocky league games yesterday in the Chicago Arena.

The Hornets led Waukegan, 1 to 0, going into the final period, but Waukegan scored twice and the Hornets once to send the game into overtime. Eddie Janelle scored one goal to retain his individual point lead over Bill Savella of the C. Y. O. Savella figured in four Shamrock scoring plays to boost his season point total to 18, one less than Janelle.

Wollenbergs Win, 44-39, from 124th Artillery Quintet

The Wollenberg Coals, led by Forward Shustek, who scored fifteen points, defeated the 124th Field Artillery quintet, 44 to 39, yesterday at the 124th Field artillery armory. The Calumet K. C. five shaded Wilson, 29 to 28, and the Rabbs whipped the Gunners, 22 to 17.

LOYOLA BATTLES JACKSONVILLE IN FINAL AT HOME

Ramblers Bid for Eleventh Victory of Season.

Loyola university's basketball team will close its home season in tonight's battle with the Illinois college quintet of Jacksonville. The Ramblers will be bidding for their eleventh victory of the year.

Wibs Kautz, who has already broken the Loloya individual scoring record of 187 points, is expected to go over 200 tonight. In twelve games the junior guard has counted 196 points.

Brennan Will Start.

Big Mike Novak, second in individual scoring with 133 points, will be at center, and the front line will be made up of George Hogan and either Bill Lynch or Bill O'Brien. Lynch is the only senior besides Brennan on the team.

Illinois college has had a mediocre season in the Little Nineteen, but in recent games has improved.

Giant Starts at Center.

Ira Scott, 6 foot 5 inch center, will work with two flashy forwards, Art Yates and Cecil Fletcher. Yates is an outstanding floor man, while Fletcher is the squad's leading shot maker.

DE PAUL MEETS HAMLINE

De Paul university will seek to even its two game basketball series with Hamline university of St. Paul tonight at the De Paul gym. In an early season game at St. Paul, Hamline won, 42 to 28.

Since, however, De Paul's quintet has improved and at present is at its peak, having won its last three games. The Demons have been strengthened by the return to the squad of Clem Naughton, who was out with a broken hand, and the addition of John Janus, former St. Patrick's academy player, who became eligible at the new semester.

Chicago Girls Will Skate in Show at Arena

Girl skaters from Chicago will have a prominent rôle in the Chicago Figure Skating club's seventh annual ice carnival which opens in the Chicago Arena on Thursday night and runs through Sunday night.

Gladys Lamb, who is co-director of the show with Norval Baptie, her husband and skating partner, has aided the development of several of the girls on the program. Miss Lamb, who has spent a good deal of her long skating career tutoring youngsters, believes that girls take more naturally to figure skating than do boys, who prefer the more competitive action of hocky and speed skating.

All the junior skaters in the carnival will be girls. One of the most talented is Nancy Meyer, who has been skating in major events for two seasons. In addition to instruction from Miss Lamb and Baptie, Nancy has studied in London under the well known Gershweiler, and today is able to execute brilliantly the most difficult jumps and spins.

The Mitchell sisters, Sally and Joan, have become popular in Chicago figure competition for their pair skating. The youngest team in the show, they will do one number in the carnival. Joan Yocum, who confesses to all of nine years, will do a solo number.

Olympic Stars Will Show Movies at Olde Tymers Club

Official motion pictures of the 1936 Olympic games will be shown at a special meeting of the Olde Tymers club, 4725 South park way, tomorrow evening. Comments will be made by John Brooks, Fritz Pollard Jr., and Tyde Pickett, all members of the 1936 Olympic team. Proceeds of the exhibition, which is open to the public, will go toward the expense of sending the Olde Tymers' track team to the National A. A. U. meet in New York Feb. 26.

BASEBALL STARS HEAD SOUTH TO WELCOME SPRING

Giants Lead the Way in Annual Trek.

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—This is the week baseball players prepare to forsake winter overcoats, hunting rifles, and hot stove cracker barrels for tickets to Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, and California. Lots of them already are either at their training camps or are on the way.

A fortunate party of New York Giants will shove off Tuesday night for Hot Springs, Ark. Two catchers and five pitchers will be in the party, along with Secretary Eddie Brannick and Vice President Leo Bondy.

Melton's Already There.

At the spa, they'll be greeted by Pitcher Cliff Melton, who arrived earlier. The whole bunch will stop off for several days of thawing out before getting along to the National league champions' training camp in Baton Rouge, La., where Coach Pancho Snyder is getting things ready for the arrival of the battery men, Feb. 28.

Mickey Cochrane and a group of his Detroit Tigers, including Elden Auker, Schoolboy Rowe, Hank Greenberg, Jojo White, and Billy Rogell, already are at their Lakeland camp.

Jimmy Dykes, White Sox manager, is playing golf at the Sox camp in Pasadena.

Feller's on the Way.

Bob Feller will leave Van Meter, Ia., in his big new car today for Miami, before moving over to the Cleveland camp in New Orleans. General Manager Billy Evans is getting the Red Sox camp ready in Sarasota, while Manager Joe Cronin and Jimmy Foxx have started conditioning in Hot Springs, Va.

As a group the Giants are the earliest under way this year, but, as usual, Connie Mack and his Athletics start the ball rolling insofar as training camp squads are concerned. Connie will leave Philadelphia Saturday with his pitchers and catchers and will open the Lake Charles, La., camp on Feb. 22. Here is the list of dates for official camp openings:

	Date.	Camp.
Athletics	Feb. 22	Lake Charles, La.
Bees	Feb. 24	Bradenton, Fla.
Cubs	Feb. 24	Catalina Island
Phillies	Feb. 25	Biloxi, Miss.
Cincinnati	Feb. 26	Tampa, Fla.
Yankees	Feb. 27	St. Petersburg, Fla.
Washington	Feb. 27	Orlando, Fla.
Cleveland	Feb. 27	New Orleans, La.
Giants	Feb. 28	Baton Rouge, La.
Cardinals	March 2	St. Petersburg, Fla.
Red Sox	March 3	Sarasota, Fla.
White Sox	March 3	Pasadena, Cal.
Brooklyn	March 4	Clearwater, Fla.
Pittsburgh	March 5	San Bernardino, Cal.
Detroit	March 6	Lakeland, Fla.
Browns	March 7	San Antonio, Tex.

Van Atta Asks Browns to Let Him Show 'Em

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Russell Van Atta, left-handed pitcher who returned a contract offering what he called a "bat boy's salary," has a proposition to make the St. Louis Browns.

"All I'm asking is this," he said. "If workouts in spring training show that my arm is O. K., I expect the same salary I received last year.

"If a test reveals I'm through as a pitcher, then in all fairness to the club and myself I will give up baseball."

Hard luck has dogged Van Atta since the winter of 1933, when his pitching hand was burned in a fire that destroyed his Lake Mohawk, N. J., home. He was with the New York Yankees then, and winning his share of games.

Undergoes Operation on Arm.

Last season Van Atta took part in 16 games with the Browns, winning one and losing two, before he underwent an operation for removal of a growth from the elbow of his throwing arm.

Now what he asks is "an opportunity to show the club I'm back in form. I believe my arm is in the pink again."

Van Atta will be on hand when the St. Louis Cardinals start spring training here.

"I'm going to work out with the Cardinals for a few days to see how the old arm is working," he said. "I haven't even tried to throw a pebble in six months. I'm anxious to see how the arm has responded to treatment.

Could Pitch a Double-Header.

"The way I feel now I think I could pitch a double-header any day of the week. The pain I suffered last season is gone."

The pitcher has been working hard to keep in physical condition. He recently bought the cutting rights on three 100-foot pine trees, felled them, and had them trucked home where he sawed them into stove wood.

Van Atta believes the Browns got the best of the deal when they sent Catcher Rollie Hemsley to Cleveland for Catcher Billy Sullivan, Infielder Roy Huges, and Pitcher Ed Cole.

"I don't know much about this lad Cole," he declared, "but Hughes and Sullivan rank high in my book."

He believes St. Louis has plenty of punch and defensive strength, but lacks pitching material.

Lake Shore Council Wins 1st Dartball Championship

Lake Shore council No. 59 won the first annual Royal League Dartball Association championship in the play-off series in the Sherman hotel yesterday. Lake Shore defeated General Sherman council, 3 to 2 and 1 to 0, in the final round.

CANCEL SKI MEET.

Eau Claire, Wis., Feb. 13.—(AP)—A tricky crosswind caused competition in the Eau Claire Ski club's tournament to be called off today.

Howell Boxes Greb Tonight at Marigold

Tommy Howell, junior welterweight prospect from Danville, Ill., and Larry Greb of Milwaukee will be rivals in one of four bouts at eight rounds on tonight's card in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

The others bring together Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., junior lightweight, and Roger Bernard, Flint, Mich., veteran; Everett Simington, rugged Poplar Bluff, Mo., 130 pounder, and Lloyd Pine of Akron, O., and Dominic Manceni, Louisville, Ky., 140 pound fighter, and Wesley Martin, also from Akron, O.

Manceni will be making his first start under the management of Jack Hurley.

Howell will be after his fourth consecutive victory. The ambitious lad from Grape Creek has had thirty-two professional contests since he won the sectional Golden Gloves crown in 1935. He won twenty-eight, fought one draw, and lost three.

Marquart, who achieved thirteen triumphs in a row before having the string snapped May 3 of last year, will make a fresh start against Bernard. After being embarrassed by Varias Milling, the Winnipeg puncher whipped Pat Robertson, Sammy Angott [twice], and Kid Irish. In his latest appearance he lost a close decision to Pete Lello Dec. 13.

Lou Plummer will substitute for Joe Dvorak against Ruffy Silverstein in a one hour encounter heading the wrestling card in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. In the semi-final Fred Grubmier will oppose Rudy Kay. Scotty Dawkins meets Roy Rickenbacher, Tony Martini faces Paul Miller, and Soldier Thomas wrestles Al Perry. . . . Johnny Coulon, former bantamweight champion, will present an amateur boxing show in his gymnasium at 1154 East 63d street tonight. Bob Wiley is paired with Bert Leonetti, Pete Parker with Charles Just, Bill Cluchey with Orville Eighmey, and Gene Platt with Emmett O'Bannion. . . . Jack Curtis and Rudy Kay have been added to the mat card headed by Frankie Talaber and Bill Weidner in Rainbo Fronton Wednesday. . . .

Chester Palutis, Scranton, Pa., boxer, and Russ Wasser, Minneapolis, Minn., heavyweight, will open training in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon for engagements this week. Palutis is matched with Max Marek in Cicero stadium Wednesday and Wasser with Jack Fargo in the Fronton Friday. Pettit Ferrar has been substituted for Chester Holman in a four round supporting conflict with Tom Kenneally of the Catholic Youth organization. Mike [Little Pal] Primitch fights Al Schirato, and Charley Cassola clashes with Johnny Fairchild. . . . Tommy Walsh, Detroit Olympia matchmaker, said Jimmy Adamick will meet Natie Brown, recent conqueror of Lorenzo Pack, in the Olympia, March 4, whether or not Adamick wins his impending battle with Harry Thomas in Madison Square Garden Friday. Armour Asks 400 Schools to Enter Meet

John J. Schommer, director of athletics at Armour Institute of Technology and chairman of the committee in charge of the Armour relay games, announced yesterday that 400 colleges and universities were invited to participate in the tenth running of the meet. The relays will be held on the afternoon and evening of March 19 in the University of Chicago fieldhouse.

Eight States Represented.

The games last year attracted a field of some 400 entrants from eight states who broke two records and tied one. Perhaps the greatest upset was the victory of Lloyd Siebert of North Central college over Haller of Wisconsin in the pole vault. Siebert cleared 13 feet 8⅝ inches to beat Haller and take the crown in this event, establishing a new relay record.

Another famous small college entrant, Allan Tolmich, from Wayne of Detroit, tied the record in the 70 yard low hurdles by covering the distance in 7-6-10 seconds. The Wayne combination, which won the team trophy in the college division, also broke the other meet record by winning the college mile relay in 3 minutes 26 seconds— 1 minute and 8-10 second faster than the record set by Michigan State Normal in 1936.

Plan Team Trophy.

This year again there will be a team trophy for the college division. In addition to the regular open and special events for both colleges and universities, there will be a relay race for Chicago high school teams.

NEWS OF FINANCIAL AND GRAIN MARKETS

U. S. REGAINING EXPORT MARKET FOR ITS CORN

Has Large Crop and Lacks Competition.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The United States is regaining its export position in corn by virtue of the bumper crop harvested last year and lack of competition from Argentina, which until a few months ago was shipping grain to this country in large quantities.

Grain statisticians now estimate Argentina will have an exportable surplus this season only half as large as last year. Unfavorable weather conditions suggest that its harvest will be the smallest in more than a decade.

In the 12 months ended last Sept. 30 the United States imported nearly 100 million bushels of corn. The imports continued until the eve of the harvest. Shortly thereafter the movement was reversed and American corn began to move again into the export market.

Corn Exports Increasing.

Exports for the current season may reach a ten year record figure, according to present prospects.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace reported yesterday that exports of corn during the current marketing year have been the heaviest since 1928 and possibly will exceed foreign sales of any year since 1922.

Shipments between Oct. 1 and Feb. 5 were estimated at more than 17 million bushels. Additional sales have been made for delivery during the spring and summer. Exports between 1925 and 1930 averaged 21½ million bushels a year. Wallace said that from Oct. 1 to Feb. 5 a year ago the United States imported 24 million bushels of corn.

The principal buyers of the American corn, Wallace said, have been the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, Germany, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, and Switzerland. Influencing expansion of American corn exports, he said, was a decline in production in exporting countries other than the United States of nearly 200,000,000 bushels below last season.

Corn Shipped from Buffalo.

Wallace said corn was shipped out of Buffalo, N. Y., for the first time in five years and out of New York City for the first time in ten years.

A revision of the estimated domestic wheat requirements for the remainder of the current season alters materially the earlier forecasts of the probable surplus remaining at the year-end. The department of agriculture now estimates that only 275 million bushels of wheat will be needed for domestic consumption for six months—Jan. 1 to July 1—instead of the 350 million previously indicated.

If the new estimate is borne out, it is likely that a carryover of about 200 million bushels will be on hand when the 1938 wheat harvest begins. On the basis of earlier consumption estimates, the surplus was figured around 100 to 125 million bushels.

Foreign Outlook Uncertain.

The outlook for the winter wheat crop continues uncertain, but the slack foreign demand for American wheat has held the market in check.

Wheat was selling at the close of last week at approximately the same level as a week earlier.

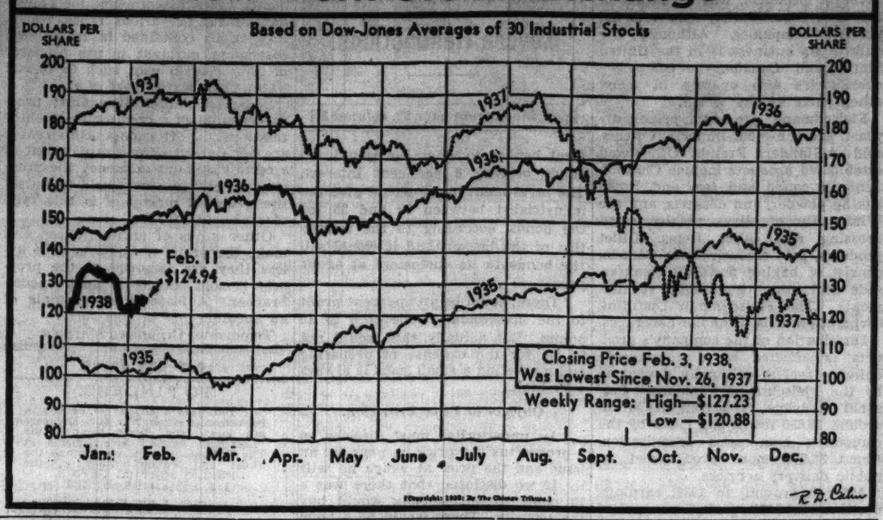
Average Daily Closing Prices of 30 Leading Industrial Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange



N. Y. Central's Loss $550,766 for December

The New York Central railroad in a preliminary report made yesterday for 1937 showed a net loss for December and a decrease of more than $2,500,000 in net income for the entire year, compared with 1936. Beginning with July the road's earnings began to fall below corresponding 1936 results.

Net loss in December amounted to $550,766, compared with loss of $501,065 in November, and net income in December, 1936, of $558,839, or 11 cents a share. For 1937 net income was $6,352,612, or 99 cents a share of capital stock, against $8,933,175, or $1.78 a share, in the preceding year.

Loan Firm's Net Rises.

Beneficial Industrial Loan corporation, a personal loan company with offices in leading cities, reported net income for 1937 of $7,105,015 equal after preferred dividend requirements to $2.74 a common share. This compared with $5,828,582 or $2.19 a share in 1936. Comparison with the company's nine month report indicated that net income in the December, 1937, quarter was $1,648,000, against $1,360,300 in the corresponding 1936 quarter.

Consumers Company of Illinois, which was reorganized under a plan adopted Oct. 15, 1936, reported net loss of $76,649 for the ten months ended Dec. 31, 1937.

First of New Reports.

The report, which included the subsidiaries, was the first made by the reorganized company. No comparative figures were given. The company reported net sales of $10,752,574, on which profit before depreciation and depletion was $305,526.

United Electric Coal companies reported net income for the three months ended Jan. 31 was $132,348 compared with $129,411 in the corresponding 1937 period, and for the twelve months ended Jan. 31 was $251,918 compared with $210,068 in the preceding year.

Business Bits

The annual dinner and election of officers of the American Association of Passenger Rate Men will be held next Thursday in the Knickerbocker hotel. A. W. Dreutz of the Milwaukee railroad is in charge of the entertainment program, which will follow the dinner.

The Office Management Association of Chicago will open its third annual office equipment display tomorrow at the Palmer house. The display will last three days.

Howard F. Ilgner, Milwaukee, Wis., trafic expert, will speak on trafic death rates at a round table discussion to be held this morning at the Edgewater Beach hotel in connection with the fifteenth annual motor salon. The show will continue through Sunday.

OIL WELL MILE AT SEA EXPECTED TO START NEW DRILLING RUSH

Austin, Tex., Feb. 13.—[Special.]—An intensive drilling campaign in the offshore waters of the Gulf of Mexico, within the three mile limit is in prospect, oil men said today, as a result of the completion of a well in Galveston bay by the Standard Oil Company of Texas. The well has a flow of 570 barrels daily. It is more than 6,000 feet deep and is one mile off shore from Cedarpoint. All tidal water land is owned by the state and the income from bonuses and rentals on leases and royalty on production will go to the permanent public school fund.

WARN ROOSEVELT STAND ON PRICES PERILS RECOVERY

New York, Feb. 13.—[Special.]—The Merchants' Association of New York, in a statement today, warned there was an element of danger to general recovery in any attempt at universal application of President Roosevelt's recently announced policy of keeping wages up and prices down.

The warning was embodied in a declaration of principles which the association declared should be applied to the price-wage situation and which was adopted by the organization's board of directors.

Doubt is expressed in the declaration as to the ability of some individual enterprises to maintain prerecession wages.

The declaration states there must be a realistic understanding of the position of individual enterprises, some of which have not been able to get increased labor efficiency as wages have risen and others of which have so depleted their reserves that they cannot disregard their current incomes in determining wages.

Nicaragua Ships New Gold to U. S.; Mining Spurred

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 13.—The National Bank of Nicaragua has sent $50,000 in newly mined gold by plane consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, it was learned today. The bank recently increased the price of gold and as a result American and Canadian mining companies are sending mining machinery to central and northeastern Nicaragua to develop new mines.

15,000 at Final Showing of Three Santa Fe Trains

Fifteen thousand persons were present yesterday for the final showing of three of the Santa Fe railroad's new streamlined trains in the Dearborn station. The streamliners—the Super Chief, the Chief, and the El Capitan—will head the railroad's fleet of high speed trains.

Steel Output Sags to 30 Pct. of Capacity

A further decline of 1 point in the national steel operating rate to 30 per cent of ingot capacity was reported yesterday by the magazine Steel in its weekly review.

"In general, the volume of incoming business shows a slight gain over the December rate," the trade journal said, adding that the industry is beginning to receive some tonnage placed in connection with naval construction.

Steel ingots produced in January totaled only 1,723,266 gross tons, with two exceptions the lowest amount for any January in the last twenty years, the magazine stated. The exceptions were January, 1932 and 1933. January operations averaged 29.14 per cent of capacity.

Weakness in steelmaking scrap at Chicago, where prices on two leading grades declined 25 cents a ton last week, resulted in the second successive weekly decline in Steel's scrap composite to $13.75 a ton, off 8 cents from the preceding week.

Investment Leader Criticizes Rules.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Small businesses are unable to obtain the loans of which they are in need partly because of the disordered state of the investment banking business resulting from the severe restrictions imposed upon it by the Securities and Exchange commission, Joseph D. Murphy, vice president in charge of the Chicago office of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., said yesterday.

William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, in his recent Chicago visit stressed the need for small businesses and industries to get capital. Douglas, in saying that the SEC is studying methods which would supply this lack, added that there is now available in this country only about $80,000,000 of underwriting capital.

Blames Unfair Control.

"Of course there is a lack of capital in the underwriting business," Murphy said. "The investment banking business is fast becoming one of the distress industries of this country. The reason for this is the unfair control exerted over it by the SEC. Nobody is going to invest money in an industry unless he can get a profit. The profits are being taken out of the investment banking business.

"The SEC insists on dictating the profits which an investment banker may make. It criticizes dealers for making from 2 to 2½ per cent for handling an issue of securities. But it is interesting to note that it costs the United States government $1.77 per hundred dollars, or 1.77 points, to sell its baby bonds. I can't see how the SEC has the right to criticize us for making a couple of points profit on a transaction when the government itself finds it costs almost as much to handle its own bonds."

How Bonds Are Marketed.

Murphy said that before the SEC regulations were put into effect the small businesses had many investment houses with which to deal.

"For example," he explained, "a small industrialist desiring to put up a new plant would go to an invest-

STOCKS DULLEST SINCE JUNE, BUT PRICES MOVE UP

Laziness Is Only Feature of Week's Trading.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 13.—[Special.]—The development in Wall street last week which attracted most notice was the lethargic quality of trading in issues listed on the New York Stock exchange. Sales for the five days of trading aggregated 3,052,951 shares, the smallest volume of any week since that ended last June 26.

Friday's session climaxed the dullness, with the halting ticker grinding out only 387,000 shares, the smallest for a full session since Feb. 13, 1935. The largest volume of the week was on Thursday when 770,000 shares changed hands.

Brief Flurry in Steels.

Despite the fact that the list declined on two of the five days, prices held well in face of the uncertainties besetting traders and finished the week generally higher. However, much of the improvement came in one day—Tuesday—when the industrial averages rose more than 4 points.

There was a brief flurry in the steel shares when the United States Steel corporation and the Steel Workers' Organizing committee [a C. I. O. unit] renewed their labor agreement, but the movement petered out quickly as earlier beliefs that extension of the pact would assure retention of current steel prices were discouraged.

Rails Take Leadership.

Rail shares then assumed what leadership there was in the listless market as traders sought to discount the "generally favorable" treatment the interstate commerce commission is expected to apply to the roads' rerates.

In the bond market active trading interest centered in the rail liens, which made a broad rally. Utility and industrial bonds made wide swings both ways in the inactive groups. The averages showed small gains on the week. United States government issues stiffened in the final session, making up minor losses.

MIDLAND MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE ASSETS LARGER

Midland Mutual Life Insurance company, Columbus, O., yesterday reported gains during 1937 in insurance in force, total assets, and surplus. Life insurance in force as of Dec. 31 totaled $111,621,628, an increase of $5,093,334 and highest since 1930.

Total admitted assets of $27,407,728 were up $1,909,299, and policyholders' surplus increased during the year by $140,191, to $2,300,098. The company said that in the last eight years admitted assets had increased 50 per cent and policyholders' surplus 75 per cent.

Standard Brands, Inc.

Investors' Guide: I would be interested in having a report on Standard Brands.—L. B.

Answer: Standard Brands, Inc., producer and distributor of a specialized and well advertised line of food and beverage products, was organized in 1929 as a consolidation of several important companies. Although the bulk of its business is in the United States and Canada, the company's subsidiaries also operate in many other parts of the world.

Fleischmann products, principally yeast, are the most important items, sold by Standard Brands. Other well established products include Chase & Sanborn coffee and tea, and Royal baking powder, and desserts, and the Widlar line of olives, pickles, salad dressing and other items. Gillet products, sold exclusively in Canada, consist of baking powders, cleanser, soda and other household requirements. The Fleischmann Distilling corporation sells alcoholic beverages.

Distribution of the company's products is effected by a remarkable delivery system originally developed by the Fleischmann company. Personal delivery is accomplished in around 19,650 towns and cities by the company's own sales organization. About 36,000 more are served by public delivery services.

After improving in 1936, earnings declined in 1937 partly because of higher cost of raw materials. In the final quarter of 1937, profit was $1,817,516, or 12 cents a common share, compared with $3,433,911, or 26 cents a share, in the corresponding 1936 quarter, and $2,326,490, or 16 cents per share, in the September quarter of 1937.

In all of 1937 the company earned $9,865,358, or 73 cents a share, against $14,776,577, or $1.13 a share, in all of 1936. Net income in 1935 was $12,746,020, or 97 cents a share; in 1934, $13,888,780, or $1.06 a share; in 1933, $14,674,405, or $1.12 a share; in 1932, $15,001,491, or $1.14 a share; in 1931, $15,067,011, or $1.12 a share, and in 1930, $16,402,254, or $1.22 a common share.

In April, 1937, the corporation called its $7 cumulative preferred stock for redemption, and in June, 1937, 200,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred stock were sold. Approximately 12,648,108 shares of no par common stock are outstanding.

After being established at $1.50 in 1929, the annual dividend rate was reduced to $1.20 in 1931, to $1 in 1932, to 80 cents in October, 1935, and to 60 cents in February, 1938.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Acreage vs. Weather

February 13, 1938.

ADJUSTMENT of crop acreage under a government program or under a voluntary plan holds little hope for the improvement of agricultural conditions, according to many veteran farmers. Their contention is backed by studies of agriculture experts indicating that the weather has more to do with crop production than adjustment schemes.

Experience with alternate good and bad seasons during the last four years has discouraged many farmers in their attempts to coöperate in regulating production under a national plan. Since long range weather forecasting is not accepted by farmers as dependable, they still are forced to take the weather as it comes. There is little they can do about it.

Some Crop Adjusters.

Some of the most important adverse weather conditions that make for small crops may be summarized as follows:

Lack of snow or rain in winter injures wheat and other fall sown crops and encourages wind erosion.

A cold spring may retard the starting of crops and often is associated with excessive rainfall that delays planting.

Too much rain injures crops, gives weeds a chance to smother and stunt plants, and may cause heavy losses in the harvesting of small grains and hay crops.

Hot, Dry Summers.

Hot, dry summers usually are much more detrimental to crops than are wet summers.

Killing frosts early in the fall catch many immature crops, particularly corn and soy beans in the central west, and may turn a prospective bumper crop into a small one.

Insect pests and crop diseases are affected by weather. These crop plagues often wipe out crops in limited areas.

A dry fall followed by a dry spring may leave the subsoil deficient in moisture. Lack of subsoil moisture often exposes crops to severe injury from drouth, even where the dry, hot spell is of temporary duration.

Experience of Decade.

During the last decade farmers in the United States have experienced extremes in weather conditions and shifts up and down in acres planted and in the total harvest. Of the yearly variation compared with the preceding year in production of corn in the last ten years approximately 86 per cent is accounted for by variations in yield per acre, and only 14 per cent by shifts in the number of acres planted.

Sixty-four per cent of the variation from the year before in cotton production for the same period was due to shifts in the yield per acre and 36 per cent to variations in acreage, according to figures computed by Nat C. Murray, Chicago crop statistician.

ment banker to whom he would sell bonds bearing 6 per cent interest. The investment house would give the industrialist between 90 and 95 for the bonds, according to the reputation of the backer, and it would sell the bonds to its customers at about par.

"There would be an apparent profit to the investment house of 5 to 10 points. But actually this would not be so, for the expense of preparing and marketing a small issue is always very high.

Objects to Price Provision.

"An underwriter must disclose on a prospectus the price he pays for an issue and the price at which he sells it. If we disclosed that there was a 10 point spread, nobody would buy the security. There would be a howl that we were getting too much when actually our net profit might be only a couple of points."

Murphy said the trouble with the present federal control of the security business is that the 97 per cent of reliable dealers are put under a handicap because of the faults of an unreliable 3 per cent. He said the good houses are just as anxious as the government to get rid of unreliable houses because their actions injure all business.

He suggested that it would be better for the SEC to lighten its control on the business generally and concentrate its attention on the dishonest minority.

U. S. Fishery Market News Service Will Start Today

The bureau of fisheries is scheduled to begin publication today of a fishery market news service at New York. Similar service will be set up at other fishery centers later, he said. Persons interested will be supplied with daily information on arrivals of fish by ship, rail, and truck; supply and demand conditions, prices, storage stocks and storage movements, and information on other fishery markets.

Encumbrances.

A reader has asked for an explanation of an encumbrance, in relation to real estate. It consists of a claim against a specific property or properties. It also may be the legal right of a person not the owner to use the property.

Among the well known types of encumbrances are mortgages, judgments, taxes, assessments, mechanics' liens, taxes of various types, leases, restrictions contained in leases, and easements, or right to use property in some certain way, such as to run water pipes across part of it.

Some encumbrances against property establish a creditor and debtor relationship. If such encumbrances are not removed through payment of a certain amount of money the property sometimes can be sold to satisfy the debt. A mortgage is this type of an encumbrance.

Other kinds of encumbrances also make the property unmarketable unless they are removed or the property is sold subject to such encumbrances. A lease is an example of an encumbrance of this sort.

LOST AND FOUND.

TO FINDERS.

If you have found a cat or dog, a pocketbook, jewelry, or fur, and cannot locate the owner through the "Lost and Found" advertisements in The Tribune, call and go through the "Lost and Found" index at the PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICE, 1 S. DEARBORN-STREET.

TO LOSERS.

If you are listed in the telephone directory you can charge an advertisment of your lost article by telephoning Miss Miller of the Tribune ad taking department, Superior 0100. Your advertisment receives the benefit of free listing in the Tribune Public Service office mentioned above for a period of two months. This service facilitates the recovery of lost articles advertised.
